U. S. Prepared to Lend Another Six Billions to Allies

PLAN DEVISED TO TAKE PLACE OF LEND-LEASE

Money Will Go for American Goods

BY LAURENCE BURD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 21—The United States stands ready to lend more than 6 billion dollars to foreign nations to finance post-war purchases of American goods, now that lend-lease has been stopped, Foreign Economic Administrator Crowley said today.

Plans for extending credits abroad were outlined by Crowley at a news conference he held following President Truman's announcement earlier in the day that the 41 billion dollar lend-lease program is officially at an end. The effective termination date, Crowley said, will be V-J day.

The FEA chief said there are no immediate plans for settling lend-lease accounts with the 47 recipient countries. He said negotiations for reviewing the accounts and discussing settlements might be held within the next year. On the books, the United States has a deficit of about 35½ billion dollars, having received 5½ billions in reverse lend-lease, compared with its own lend-lease distribution of 41.2 billions.

Two Types of Loans

Crowley explained our post-war loans that will supplant war time lend-lease bounties will be of two types. Allied nations may, if they wish, buy on long term credit some 3½ billion dollars in lend-lease goods now stockpiled or in the process of being produced under contracts already let to American manufacturers.

Other credits, totaling 2 billion 800 million dollars, Crowley said, are available to foreign nations to finance their purchases of industrial and other goods in this country.

The United States, it was noted, has also pledged 3 billion 125 million dollars to the proposed world bank which will make reconstruction loans to various nations. This boosts our potential outlays abroad in the early post-war years to more than 9 billion dollars.

Prices Not Fixed

Crowley said the prices fixed for the 3½ billion dollars in "left-over" lend-lease goods which may be bought on credit must have Presidential approval. Of this total, 2 billions represents unfinished items under contract, and 1½ billions stockpiles here and abroad or in transit. The over-all figure includes more than 1 billion dollars worth of food, Crowley added.

Where other nations want to buy lend-lease items on credit, Crowley explained, the loan terms will follow the pattern already laid down in a French agreement made last spring. France contracted for the purchase of 1½ billions in lend-lease goods, the sum to be repaid over a 30 year period at 2⅜ per cent annual interest.

EXPECT BIG CUT IN MEAT RATION POINTS ON SEPT. 1

Washington, D. C., Aug. 21 [Special]—The nation's return to peace time economy was spurred today by the government's relaxation of more wartime curbs and promises of further revocations very soon. The day's developments included:

1. OPA indicated meat points would be reduced sharply by the end of next week and repeated that an end to the rationing of meat is not far off.
2. The prospect of 3,500,000 radio sets by Christmas was seen by the war production board. A supply of parts was termed the only limiting factor now in a return to prewar radio production.
3. Peace time instalment buying practices appeared about to return as the government considered modification of credit controls. Relaxations to make credit buying easier, but not as easy as it once was, were expected within two weeks.
4. Nylon stockings will be back by Thanksgiving, or at the latest by Christmas, the WPB indicated in revoking the order controling production and distribution of nylon and rayon.
5. Curbs on industrial construction were removed by WPB to speed the building of plants and mills to provide goods and jobs for peace.
6. Rent control may be scrapped shortly, the OPA said, in cities and towns where swollen war time populations are deflated by shutdowns of army camps or war plants.

[AFL predicts reconversion here will shift 30,000 construction workers from war jobs to building field. Story on page 6.]

Slump in Demand Seen

Expectations of an early end to meat rationing were greatly heightened by the OPA's indication that meat point values would be cut rather deeply beginning Sept. 1. Officials of other agencies have predicted that before September is over the whole meat program will be gone.

The estimate that three and a half million new radio sets may reach markets by the end of the year came as a surprise. Until two weeks ago officials saw no chance of volume production starting until the year's end. The turnabout came from an 80 per cent reduction of military radio and radar orders.

Modification of the instalment buying curb would remove restrictions that have been in effect since the fall of 1941. The control provides a down payment of one-third at the time of purchase and stipulates the remainder must be paid in 12 months.

Nylon can be used immediately for making slips, blouses and other garments, the WPB said, and soon may be woven into the stockings that every woman wants.

Nylons May Be Cheaper

The agency's revocation of order M-356, which controled production and distribution of nylon and rayon, leaves the manufacturer of nylon hose blocked only by an order issued at the beginning of the war which prohibits the use of nylon in making women's hosiery. WPB said it has started action to amend this conservation order so that nylon stockings can be made.

In killing controls on industrial construction, the WPB invited building to the limit in that field. The action, however, does not break the bottleneck in lumber and some other construction materials, nor remove the remaining controls on their use. But WPB Chairman Krug said the supply tightness should be relieved shortly as military demands fall off, and man power becomes more plentiful.

Comes Home to Paint Town Red (& White)

Old Washington, O., Aug. 21 [Special]—Paint brushes were being wielded by scores of hands in this venerable and weather beaten village today as residents rushed to take advantage of a free paint offer by one of its sons who came to visit his birthplace and thought the town needed brightening.

The paint donor is Mahlon N. Haines, 70, a wealthy shoe manufacturer of York, Pa. Haines was born in a rambling frame house in Old Washington and lived there until he was 8, when his widowed mother took him to Washington, D. C.

Fixed Cemetery One Year

"I never went back to Old Washington until two years ago," he said today as he prepared to leave town after a week's visit. "That year I fixed up the cemetery. Last year I had the old Methodist church painted and repaired. This year it's the houses."

Haines said the house in which he was born looks as if it hadn't been painted in half a century, and many other fine old residences are in the same condition.

"It made me disconsolate just to look at the houses," he said. "Then I saw a pretty girl on a stepladder painting a house and that gave me my idea."

The idea, he explained, was that if the people of Old Washington were willing to paint their houses themselves they should be given the opportunity. He called on the mayor and with his help assembled a meeting last Friday night of 25 of the oldest residents, some of whom remembered him as a boy.

"Anybody who wants paint can have it," he announced. "I will deposit the necessary funds with the hardware dealer in Cambridge (the near-by county seat) and I have appointed Bob Noble here as paint custodian. If you want to paint your house, go to him and get an order on the hardware store."

White or Red Offered

He specified that the paint used should be either white or red. When his first deposit—$500—is gone he will put up as much more as necessary, he said. He set a time limit of Nov. 1 on his offer, however.

"Twenty-two house owners have got paint already and are at work on their houses," Noble said today. "The old town is beginning to look like a new place."

Old Washington is a pioneer Ohio settlement which was half a century old when Haines was born there. Most of its 200 houses, some of them vacant, are over 100 years old. The village has a population of 336.

TRIBUNE SURVEY SHOWS PLANTS NEED WORKERS

Many Chicago plants whose output was devoted entirely to war until Japan surrendered already have launched new peace time production schedules and are looking for additional workers, a survey by The Tribune disclosed yesterday. For the most part, these plants required little or no conversion for the shift to civilian output. Results of yesterday's survey will be found on page 7. Reports on additional plants will be published tomorrow and Friday.

PURDUE CHOOSES F. L. HOVDE, 37, AS NEW PRESIDENT

Lafayette, Ind., Aug. 21 [Special]—Frederick Lawson Hovde, 37, assistant to the president of the University of Rochester and now on leave as head of the rocket development program for the government, today was chosen president of Purdue university, succeeding Edward C. Elliott, president emeritus, who retired June 30.

Frederick L. Hovde

Dr. A. A. Potter, dean of the schools of engineering, who declined the position, will continue to serve as acting president temporarily. Hovde's duties in the rocket research program will prevent him leaving Washington to assume his duties at Purdue until early next year.

Hovde, born in Erie, Pa., in 1908, spent his boyhood in the North Dakota farming community of Devils Lake. Later, he attended the University of Minnesota, receiving his bachelor's degree in chemical engineering in 1929. At Minnesota, he was a member of Tau Beta Phi, honorary engineering fraternity, and also was an outstanding football player.

Selected for a Rhodes scholarship from North Dakota, he did research work in physics and chemistry at Oxford, England, from 1929 to 1932, receiving both bachelor's and master's degrees there.

36-70 Points Get Discharge of Air Officers

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 21 (AP)—The 4th air force disclosed today it has received orders to begin discharge of officers with points ranging from 36 to 70.

The system frees personnel having no critical skills or those who have asked to be released and who have the necessary points.

Enlisted Men Need 85

Flight officers, except for radar operators and unusual specialties, are not considered in the critical class, a 4th air force spokesman said.

He said the points necessary for discharge are 70 for captains and above, 58 for first lieutenants, 42 for second lieutenants, 36 for flight officers, and 65 for warrant officers.

Enlisted personnel still must have 85 points for discharge.

Thousands May Get Out

The spokesman said the officer point system was begun on June 21, 1945, and the orders to start discharges were received five days ago.

He said he presumed the orders from Washington were sent to all other air forces headquarters as well and predicted the orders would release thousands of men.

Posts $5,000 to Bring Hirohito's Horse to U. S.

Portland, Ore., Aug. 21 (AP)—A Portland business man today posted $5,000 toward bringing Emperor Hirohito's white horse to America for public displays. Joe Fisher, automotive dealer, cabled the offer to Gen. MacArthur.

GRILL QUISLING ON DOCUMENTS FOUND BY U. S.

Link Norse Puppet with Nazi Attack

BY HAL FOUST
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

OSLO, Norway, Aug. 21—Vidkun Quisling, former nazi puppet premier of Norway, took a verbal slugging from the presiding judge as well as from the prosecutor at his treason trial today. He was questioned following introduction of German documents indicating that Quisling had discussed with the Nazis the military and naval plans for the 1940 invasion. The documents, said the prosecutor, were taken from German archives by American troops.

Stunned at first by the line of questioning, the yellow haired, bulky Quisling steadied himself by leaning against a corner of the prisoner's box, delaying his answers like a prize fighter shielding himself. Quisling reverted to the defense theme that his motives were always to save Norway—to save Norway from the battle destruction that would have resulted had the British landed before the German invasion.

Victim's Wife at Trial

Among the spectators was Mrs. Kirsten Hansteen, one of the two communist members of the new cabinet, whose husband was the first Gestapo victim in Oslo, after Quisling had refused her plea for clemency.

Quisling, ordinarily self-possessed his square chin high, his heavy mouth compressed, or with a petulant expression, was staggered by introduction of documentary reports of conferences with the German general staff and with nazi Grand Adm. Erich Raeder.

Cite Advice on Invasion

Two doctors had reported to the court this morning that Quisling disclosed no symptom "of defective development or permanent mental weakness," nothing to recommend judicial psychiatric observation.

A document dated May 4, 1940, was a review of the German invasion a month previously, reciting in detail the value of tactical operations that had been recommended by Quisling, and attributing the escape of the king and government from Oslo to the German failure to adhere to Quisling's advice in some respects.

Another, dated Dec. 12, 1939, was a report from Raeder on his conversations with Quisling, dealing mainly with a plan for a pre-invasion political coup in Oslo.

Judge Is Insistent

Under unusual court procedure, in which the defendant seemingly can be asked "How about it?" at any time, Justice Erik Solem, one of the three jurists and four laymen who will decide whether Quisling shall be shot, summoned Quisling to his feet.

"How well did you know Adm. Raeder?" asked Solem.

"Not well," the 58 year old prisoner replied.

PLANT HUMMING INSIDE HOSPITAL REBUILDS VETS

BY NORMA LEE BROWNING
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Van Nuys, Cal., Aug. 12 [Delayed]—This 2,000 bed army hospital, known as the Birmingham General hospital, which sprawls over 113 acres of California's San Fernando valley, has been affectionately renamed by its patients the Birmingham General Country club.

Walking thru its eight miles of corridors, one would hardly recognize it as a hospital. It is alive with noise—the roar and whir of two aircraft factories in the hospital, the weird cacophony of 200 battle scarred doughboys taking music lessons on saxophones, trumpets, guitars; the blare of loudspeakers in every ward announcing invitations for picnics and Hollywood tours, the patter of movie star entertainers and school teachers.

Reconditioning Is Unique

Industry, education, and entertainment have taken over in one of the most unusual "reconditioning" programs to be found in any army hospital.

"Reconditioning" is a term that has come out of this war. It is one of the newest advancements in hospitalization and has been compared in importance to the discovery of penicillin and the sulfa drugs. Its aim is to readjust the hospitalized GI to duty or to civilian life thru individually planned activities that are therapeutic as well as diversional.

At Birmingham one of the army's 63 specialized treatment centers and best known for its program of reconditioning, patients can finish high school, plan a home, convert a jeep to a passenger car, or work in an aircraft plant without leaving the hospital grounds.

Factory in Hospital

Outstanding is the installation of a complete small-parts assembly unit of Northrop Aircraft, Inc., in the hospital.

The plant opened in June, 1944, and later Lockheed Aircraft company moved in with assembly work for bed patients.

Since then nearly 1,000 wounded vets have become war workers, assembling parts for the P-61 Black Widow, night fighter, and other planes. In their hospital pajama suits they punch a time clock, stop when the whistle blows, and watch for pay day to roll around, the same as civilians.

Patients work only three hours a day. They must have the doctor's permission. They are paid 85 cents an hour.

Because of furloughs and frequent calls to the dental clinic, X-ray, or surgery, absenteeism among patients is necessarily high, but the production record of the men is exceptionally good.

"I'll stack these kids up against any one in our main plant," said J. H. Barnes, general foreman of the Northrop's unit.

N. P.'s Good Workers

He said the work is particularly beneficial to orthopedic cases and N. P.'s [neuropsychiatric].

"Many employers are afraid to hire men who have suffered from psychoneurosis," he said. "We're hiring them here in the hospital even before they are well. They are excellent workers."

The therapeutic value of the work

Coast Guard Slashing Forces

Washington, D. C., Aug. 21 (AP)—The coast guard announced today it has begun a discharge program which is expected to return the service to a peacetime basis within 10 months.

This will reduce the number of officers and enlisted personnel from the present 172,384 to 34,900.

Based on the navy's point system, the coast guard's demobilization plans call for a return of coast guardsmen and Spars to civilian life at the rate of 13,800 a month, and retention within the United States of all officers and men lacking three or fewer points for discharge.

Specialists to Stay

This latter means, the announcement said, that enlisted men with 41 points and officers with 46 points will not be transferred to sea duty.

Only exceptions to the point system are certain specialized personnel whose duties are considered essential to the demobilization program or who must be retained because of technical skills.

The announcement said the key to the demobilization plan is the establishment of intake and separation centers which "rips away delaying red tape and deletes duplication."

Two Discharge Centers

Separation centers are operating in Boston, New York City, Philadelphia, Norfolk, Va.; Savannah, Ga.; New Orleans, Cleveland, St. Louis, Long Beach, Cal.; San Francisco and Seattle.

Three other centers will be established by Sept. 1, the announcement added. These will be in Michigan City, Ind.; Indianapolis, and Detroit.

SAY M'ARTHUR PARTY FLIES TO JAPAN TUESDAY

Sky Troops Begin Landings Sunday

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Gen. MacArthur plans to land personally on Tokyo's Atsugi air field next Tuesday, two days after America's occupation troops, air borne, set down on the same field, Domei agency today quoted from the Tokyo newspaper Yomiuri Hochi.

The newspaper also said that the "truce agreement"—surrender—formally would be signed on Aug. 31 "aboard a United States battleship in Tokyo bay."

"The first group of occupation forces will comprise ground forces of slightly more than 20,000 strong," the newspaper was quoted further by Domei in an English language broadcast.

Sky Troopers Land Sunday

MANILA, Aug. 22 [Wednesday]—(AP)—Allied air borne troops will start the occupation of Japan on Sunday, the Tokyo government announced yesterday. American sources said the Japanese would see the greatest display of military power ever assembled off a foreign country.

The Japanese imperial headquarters and imperial government, in a joint announcement, said the air borne troops would land at Atsugi air field, 20 miles southwest of Tokyo, with further landings on Tuesday from warships and transports in the Yokosuka area at the mouth of Tokyo bay.

Domei, the Japanese agency, broadcast the statement within 24 hours after Emperor Hirohito's surrender envoys returned to Tokyo from their conference at Gen. MacArthur's headquarters at Manila.

Air Operations Saturday

The announcement said that air operations would be started over Japan on Saturday, with the air borne landings on Sunday and the entry early Monday of "two allied fleets" on Sagami bay, outside Tokyo bay, with "one unit entering Tokyo bay if conditions are favorable."

Under the time differential between Japan and the United States, air borne landings undertaken during daylight hours up to noon Sunday, Tokyo time, would be within the hours preceding 10 p. m. Saturday, Chicago time.

MacArthur already has announced that the formal signing of surrender terms will take place in the Tokyo area by Aug. 30.

Fleet Adm. Nimitz is expected to sign the Japanese surrender terms in behalf of the United States.

Four Powers to Sign

Gen. MacArthur, allied commander in chief, has announced that he will sign the surrender papers in behalf of the Big Four—the United States, China, Russia, and Britain. It was reported that Adm. Bruce Fraser will sign separately for Britain. Russia and China have not yet named their representatives.

The Japanese said that "in order to avoid any strife arising from the landing," Japanese armed troops would be withdrawn "as promptly as possible" from the landing area.

[Another dispatch said the Japanese government yesterday made a special appeal to the Jap suicide flyer organization, the kamikazes, to give in. The Kamikazes are flyers like those who have dived to death on the decks of American warships and air fields. Tokyo disclosed that this organization thus far had defied Emperor Hirohito.]

Limits of the area for withdrawal of the Japanese troops were described as follows:

"Within a line linking the east bank of the Kamo-Gawa river, Chiba City, the estuary of the Tamagawa river, Fuchu, Hachioji, Otsuki, and the southern end of Izu peninsula."

However, regular police in that territory will be reënforced by the Japanese gendarmerie and two divisions of navy police.

First areas to be occupied were listed as "a portion of the mainland around metropolitan Tokyo, Chiba, Kanagawa, Yamanashi and Shizuoka prefectures."

The fact that Tokyo jumped to the microphone with the occupation announcement was evidence that Lt. Gen. Takashiro Kawabe, leader of the Japanese emissaries to Manila, reported MacArthur's plans and demands to top-ranking officials within a few hours after his return to Japan. The text of the credentials carried from Tokyo by Kawabe showed that he had full authority from the emperor to make any arrangements directed by MacArthur.

Authoritative sources in Manila said the full power of American fleets would flank Japan when MacArthur enters Japan to become the allied commander in chief of occupation forces.

Every available ship will be mustered for the expedition. Sources in Manila said it would be the first time the full combat force of the war-enlarged American navy would be together for a single operation.

Virtually all of the hundreds of transport planes thruout the Pacific will be utilized for transporting the first landing groups and MacArthur, with many of his key staff personnel.

The transports will be covered by nearly every type of aircraft, possibly including Super Forts.

The exact units and landing plans for the ground forces will not be announced until after the occupation, but it is known that every branch of America's armed might will be represented.

Might Eclipse Luzon Landings

There was the possibility that the occupation operation, which will be handled with the thoroness of combat operations, might eclipse the American landing on Luzon, in the Philippines, last Jan. 9, when around 66,000 troops were put ashore the first day.

Japanese officials doubtless followed Kawabe's report with swift preparations for the occupation, for the short timetable demands prompt action. These preparations range from sweeping minefields from Tokyo bay and other ports to removing Japanese garrisons from prospective landing areas and repairing bomb damaged air fields.

Due to the withdrawal of the large Japanese military garrison from the first occupation area, "the use of railways by general passengers and those who ride to their work in the affected areas will be prohibited," radio Tokyo said.

SOME LENIENCY IN SURRENDER TERMS, JAPS SAY

But Warned Against Wishful Thinking

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Japanese learned the cold facts of surrender yesterday, were warned against wishful thinking, and told that allied terms may be "somewhat lenient."

An imperial announcement, broadcast by Tokyo, told the people for the first time that their emperor had sent surrender envoys to Manila to learn the conditions of capitulation.

"Be prepared to face cold facts" was the heading of an article in the newspaper Mainichi, which bluntly said the empire would have to accept a "conqueror's terms." This editorial warned against "wishful thinking" and said the people should never forget "that we have been completely defeated."

Compare with Germany

That allied surrender terms will be "somewhat lenient" was the conclusion reached by the Domei news agency in its analysis of the Potsdam declaration, basis for Japan's surrender.

Domei said it found words here and there in the declaration that indicated allied surrender terms, as compared with those given Germany, "are somewhat lenient."

"The fact that they [the allies] will regard Japan as a defeated nation and will punish her harshly and severely is quite evident. . . . Therefore, there is not an iota of doubt that the acceptance of the declaration is an acceptance of surrender conditions."

Points to Factors

As an indication of what it interpreted as leniency, Domei pointed to these things:

Disarmed Japanese troops would be returned to their homes to lead peaceful lives and would not be employed "for labor as in the case of Germany."

The expressed allied desire to "revive the democratic tendencies" which Domei said had been recognized among the Japanese in the past.

Permission given Japan to maintain peaceful industries, have access to raw materials and participate in world trade.

Indications that the area of occupation would be limited—"entirely different from the total occupation as carried out in Germany."

Treated Envoys Fairly

The newspaper Asahi drew a similar conclusion—that the United States will treat Japan with "understanding"—from the conduct of the surrender meetings and the arrangements for landing occupation forces. Asahi told its readers:

"1. United States military authorities during the conferences at Manila did not purposely humiliate the Japanese envoys but treated them with fairness and consideration.

"2. With regard to arrangements for landing occupation forces, the United States military authorities allowed the Japanese emissaries to explain in detail actual conditions in Japan and dictated reasonable methods.

Recognises Government

"3. In enforcing the terms of the Potsdam declaration it seems to be the policy of the United States to recognize the authortiy of the Japanese government and imperial headquarters and to carry out the terms of the declaration thru the intermediary of these institutions.

"4. Peace and order in the areas to be evacuated by Japanese forces will be maintained by Japanese police and gendarmerie."

Asahi called attention to what it said was the fact that the allies "are using prudence not to provoke the Japanese people by derogation of the prestige of the emperor in the eyes of the Japanese nation."

LIBERATOR PLANES ON WAY TO WAINWRIGHT, RUSSIANS ANNOUNCE

CHUNGKING, China, Aug. 21 (AP)—An air borne American humanitarian team in Mukden today quoted a Russian mission as saying that liberator planes were en route to Hsian, 100 miles northeast of Mukden, to bring Lt. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright to a captured Japanese prison camp near Mukden.

It was believed here that Wainwright would be flown to Chungking shortly after his arrival at Mukden from Hsian, where he had been held as a prisoner of war. It previously had been feared that the Japanese might delay Wainwright's departure because of anxiety lest they do something that might get them into trouble with the Russians.

The Americans at Mukden said the Russian mission had arrived at the Japanese prison camp near there, disarmed the Japanese guard, and placed Maj. Gen. G. M. Parker, the senior American officer present, in charge.

MOUNTBATTEN ORDERS JAPS TO GIVE UP TODAY

LONDON, Aug. 22 [Wednesday] (AP)—In a broadcast from New Delhi Adm. Mountbatten called on the commander of the Japanese southern army in Burma today to "confirm" that all hostilities by his troops will cease by Wednesday, Aug. 22, as Japanese imperial headquarters recently indicated. The message was broadcast to Field Marshal Terauchi.

However, the Japanese radio at Saigon, Indo-China, said that headquarters of the Japanese southern army had not yet received orders from the emperor to cease hostilities. "Japanese headquarters are seeking instructions and will then make contact with [allied] southeast Asia headquarters," said the Saigon broadcast.

Mountbatten's message to Terauchi had followed a Saigon broadcast which said Japanese troops might attack, if allied troops attempted any "new operations" before surrender arrangements were completed.

FOUR DOOLITTLE FLYERS SAVED; HIT TOKYO IN '42

CHUNGKING, Aug. 21 (AP)—Four of the lost airmen who bombed Tokyo in the historic raid led by Lt. Gen. Doolittle in April, 1942, have been rescued by a daring American team which dropped from the skies on Japanese occupied Peiping, it was announced today.

A parachute team sent by the office of strategic services liberated the flyers, who had been charged by the Japanese with murder. Their names were withheld pending notification of their next of kin.

Get Best Care Possible

A message radioed here said the flyers now were in the Grand Hotel de Peking, and were receiving the best care possible. One is in such serious condition from beri beri, an oriental disease causing swelling, paralysis and general dropsy, that he will be unable to travel by air. He is receiving "supportive" medical care, the message added.

It was possible that the four were the sole survivors of eight Tokyo raiders whose capture was disclosed by the war department more than a year after the raid.

President Roosevelt announced that on March 12, 1943, the United States government had learned thru neutral sources that the death penalty had been pronounced on the captured airmen after their trial and severe punishment. The sentence was commuted for some and carried out for others, the President said.

List Captured Raiders

The raid, led by Lt. Gen. [then Lt. Col.] Doolittle, was staged on April 18, 1942. The eight men captured were: Lt. George Barr, Madison, Wis.; Lt. William Glover Farrow, Washington, D. C.; Lt. Robert L. Hite, Earth, Tex.; Lt. Robert J. Meder, Lakewood, O.; Lt. Chase J. Nielson, Hyrum, Utah; Lt. Dean E. Hallmark, Dallas, Tex.; Corp. Jacob B. Deshazer, Madras, Ore., and Sgt. Harold A. Spatz, Lebo, Kas.

One man, Corp. Leland D. Faktor of Plymouth, Ia., was killed in the crash landings in China and off the Chinese coast.

Word was received that seven American prisoners of war who were held in prison at Peiping on a charge of attempted escape were transferred to the Wagons Lits hotel, along with another American prisoner from Tsinan in Shantung province. An additional four American prisoners were found at Fengtai, near Peiping.

Locate 317 Internees

Headquarters of Lt. Gen. Wedemeyer said 317 civilian internees were located in Peiping, and that all were comfortably quartered and "except for minor inconveniences, are in good condition."

An American transport plane, carrying medical aid and supplies for war prisoners, that landed at an airfield near Japanese-held Canton Sunday was detained for five hours and finally asked to leave in order to avoid "provoking an incident," Wedemeyer's headquarters said.

JAPS DESCRIBE DEAD NAGASAKI, A-BOMB VICTIM

Homes Razed 10 Mi. from Blast Center

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS]

The Tokyo newspaper Mainichi yesterday carried on its front page three pictures of the devastation caused by the atomic bomb dropped on Nagasaki, southeastern Kyushu naval staging base.

The Tokyo radio said one showed "the center of the once thriving city has been turned into a vast devastation with nothing left except rubble as far as the eyes could see."

A second photograph depicted "the tragic scene 10 miles away from the center of the atomic air attack, where farm houses are either crushed down or the roofs torn asunder."

"Nagasaki is now a dead city, all areas being literally razed to the ground," the photographer was quoted. "Only a few buildings are left, standing conspicuously from the ashes."

The atomic bomb that hit Nagasaki was the second dropped by United States flyers, the first having blasted Hiroshima.

Peace Imperative, King Says

LONDON, Aug. 21 (AP)—King George VI., receiving congratulations from parliament on the victorious conclusion of the war, said today that the atomic bomb "makes it more than ever necessary" that the peace of the world be maintained.

Britain to Push Research

LONDON, Aug. 21 [Reuters]—An advisory committee to deal with the development of atomic energy, both militarily and industrially, has been set up in Britain, Prime Minister Attlee told commons today.

Cheers greeted his statement that the committee would be headed by John Anderson, former chancellor of the exchequer and a physicist, who was in charge of Britain's original war time research on atomic fission.

YANK PARACHUTISTS' WISH COMES TRUE: THEY JUMP ON BERLIN

BERLIN, Aug. 21 (AP)—The 82d airborne division's "Eager Beaver club" finally got its wish today—it jumped on Berlin.

A detachment of 99 officers and men, mostly veterans of North Africa, Sicily, and Anzio, parachuted from transport planes onto a potato and rutabaga patch in Berlin's Neue Koln district. All requested permission to make the jump to fulfill their pledge that one day—in war or peace—they would jump on Berlin. All landed safely.

The officers leading the mass drop included Maj. J. F. Wagner, Fort Atkinson, Wis. It was the 733d jump for Corp. Ronnie Colman, Youngstown, O., veteran of Sicily and Holland and in peace time a barnstorming parachutist.

BEGIN PARLEYS FOR SURRENDER OF JAPS IN CHINA

Envoys Meet Aides of Chiang Kai-shek

CHUNGKING, China, Aug. 21 (AP)—Japanese surrender envoys arrived at Chihkiang today to arrange the capitulation of all enemy forces in China, while fears of civil war between Chinese government and communist forces still oppressed this temporary capital.

The emissaries of the Japanese commander in chief, Gen. Yasuji Okamura, landed at Chihkiang airstrip, 230 miles southwest of Chungking, at 11:20 a. m. The party was headed by Okamura's deputy chief of staff, Gen. Kiyoshi, and included two staff officers, an interpreter, and the pilot.

The Japanese held immediate conferences with Gen. Ho Ying-chin, commander of China's field forces, assigned by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek to the task of negotiating the total surrender of Okamura's armies.

[The Chungking radio, heard in London, said today that the Japanese surrender to Chinese forces in China would follow Gen. MacArthur's formal signing with the Japanese in Tokyo.]

High Point of Jap Advance

Chihkiang, formerly the site of an American air base, was the high-point on the last Japanese drive toward Chungking.

Meanwhile, Maj. Gen. Patrick Hurley, United States ambassador to China, was reported standing by in Chungking ready to fly to Yenan, center of communist China, to fetch Communist Leader Mao Tze-tung.

Chiang yesterday for the second time invited Mao to come to Chungking to discuss differences and peacefully settle the growing threat of civil war between their forces. Hurley was said to be willing to escort Mao to reassure him against any fears he might have for his personal safety.

[In a new attack on Chiang, the communist New China news agency said that Chiang's "fascist clique is preparing for a sanguinary civil war" and charged the Chungking government had appointed "notorious traitors" to office in north China.]

Hope to Avert Civil War

In Chungking, all quarters hoped that the communist leader would heed the generalissimo's new invitation. Government officials, the press and the man-in-the-street all were disturbed over the prospect of a China torn and divided and cheated of the fruits of victory and losing her international prestige.

BRITISH TROOPS IN GERMANY GIVE PARTY FOR KIDS

NIENBURG, Germany, Aug. 21 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Brian Horracks, Field Marshal Montgomery's assault commander, gave a party for 400 German children today—and defied possible criticism.

"I'm convinced I'm doing the right thing," he said. "We are here to show these people the ways of democracy—and what other way can you begin than by being kind to children."

Some 40 mothers were on hand to help serve jam, sandwiches, donuts, and whipped cream and to hand out chocolate bars. Many of the children tasted chocolate for the first time. A Mickey Mouse and other films were shown. The party was held in a former German beer garden.

WAVELL CALLED TO LONDON FOR PARLEY ON INDIA

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune]

LONDON, Aug. 21—Viceroy Wavell of India is coming to London shortly to discuss new steps to be taken with regard to India and at the same time it was announced in New Delhi that general elections to the central and provincial legislatures in British India would be held "as soon as possible."

The new secretary of state for India, Pethick-Lawrence, told of Wavell's plan to return to London in his maiden speech in the house of lords today.

"My colleagues and I feel that with a new government in office in this country, and with the changed circumstances brought about by the surrender of Japan, it is desirable we should at the earliest possible moment review with Lord Wavell the whole field of problems with which India is confronted," he said.

369 SHIPS OF JAP FLEET REDUCED TO 49 IN DEFEAT

Nation Short of Food and Gasoline

GUAM, Aug. 21 [Reuters]—The seaboard strewn with the wrecked remains of its once proud navy, and the country's entire economic structure seriously affected by the allied blockade—this was the picture of Japan which was painted today by Rear Adm. Forrest P. Sherman, who has returned from Manila where he represented Adm. Nimitz at the meeting of the Japanese surrender emissaries.

"Japan entered the war with 12 battleships. They now have one—the Nagota, which, heavily damaged and without a crew on board, is at Yokosuka. The Japs during the war operated nine frontline aircraft carriers. Of these the Hataka is the only one left—at Sasebo, without crew and also heavily damaged. One other carrier, the Katasuragi, is at Kure without crew and heavily damaged," Sherman said.

"The Japs operated seven light carriers: Two of these, heavily damaged and without crews, are at Kure. None of five escort carriers was left on the list of the Japanese navy on Aug. 1. They and other battleships were sunk in the battles of the Coral sea, Midway, Solomons, the Philippines, and in ports where they finally were tracked down.

Only Two Cruisers

"The Japs operated 19 heavy cruisers: The list now only carries two—both at Singapore without crews and heavily damaged.

"Of approximately 24 light cruisers only two are left. The Japanese destroyer force, estimated at 163, has been reduced to 26, of which four are heavily damaged. The Japs' first line underwater force was comprised of 140 submarines: They now only have 16 in addition to six German submarines."

OWI FOREIGN NEWS BUREAU ENDS EXISTENCE

Washington, D. C., Aug. 21 (AP)—The office of war information's foreign news bureau goes out of existence at midnight tonight, but the domestic news branch will distribute reports on foreign news broadcasts.

Neil Dalton, domestic branch chief, told a reporter that his staff's processing of the foreign news broadcasts will be "substantially the same" as was done by the foreign news bureau. Dalton expressed the opinion that after occupation of Japan there would be no need for processing or distribution of foreign news broadcasts.

RUSSIANS SEIZE ANOTHER 52,000 MANCHURIA JAPS

LONDON, Aug. 21 (AP)—Russia's Far Eastern armies today occupied five cities on the Japanese-owned part of Sakhalin Island, lying 26 miles north of the Japanese homeland, and seized four top-flight Japanese generals in their mop-up of Tokyo's crack Kwantung army in Manchuria, Moscow announced.

Marshal Alexander M. Vasilevsky's Siberian soldiers continued their advance into Manchuria apparently without opposition and were swarming over areas of the vast 503,013-square mile country where the Japanese still were in control.

But over the entire Manchurian and Sakhalin Island fronts, the last Japanese hold-out units were giving up and were surrendering en masse.

175,000 Prisoners Taken

Moscow's brief bulletin announced that 52,000 Japanese officers and men were rounded up yesterday, for a three-day total of more than 175,000.

The Soviet bulletin did not state whether Russian armies had yet occupied Port Arthur, the former czarist naval base which was the "Pearl Harbor" of the Russo-Japanese war of 1904-05.

On Karafuto, Japanese half of Sakhalin Island, the northern half of which is Russian, Gen. Maxim Purkaev's 2d Far Eastern army captured the towns of Shikuka, Naioro, Usioro, Unari and Moako.

The four generals seized by the Russians were Selichi Kita, commander of the 1st army group of the Kwantung army; Gen. Jun Ushiroku, commander of the 3d army group; Lt. Gen. Keisuke Marakami, commander of the 4th group, and Lt. Gen. Norisune Shimizu, commander of the 5th group.

Hold Pre-War Manipulator

Gen. Kita was one of the prime Japanese "political manipulators" in the enemy's penetration of China and the Asiatic continent when he held the post of Japanese military attache in China before the start of the war between Japan and China. It was he who served the "last warning" to China in 1937 to accept Japan's terms or face war.

While the Russians occupied the last Japanese-held areas of Manchuria and Sakhalin, the formal capitulation of enemy forces in these areas appeared likely to be delayed until Lt. Gen. Derevyanko signs for the soviet union when Gen. MacArthur imposes the final allied surrender agreement on the Japanese.

New Zealand Dissolves War Cabinet; 2 to Retire

Lt. Max Guber and his bride embrace after wedding ceremony in London.

A German bomb burst led to romance and a London marriage recently for a Chicago army nurse, Lt. Bel Kaufman of 3722 Roosevelt rd., and a New York state army flyer, Lt. Max Guber of Buffalo.

They met months ago when Lt. Guber entered an American hospital in England for treatment of wounds suffered in a bombing attack on Germany. Lt. Kaufman was his nurse. On Aug. 13 they were married at Guildhall Registry hall, London.

The Chicago girl is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Kaufman of the Roosevelt rd. address. A graduate of Mount Sinai hospital, she entered the army in March, 1942, served a year in Iceland and almost two years in England. She is attached to the 49th station hospital, England. The Kaufmans' son, Pvt. Bernard Kaufman, returned from England two days ago, but was not present at his sister's wedding.

Only One U-Boat Passed N.Y. Lightship, Navy Says

New York, Aug. 21 (AP)—The navy, in disclosing that New York harbor's submarine net had been removed, said today that only on one occasion during the war did an enemy U-boat pass Ambrose lightship. In March, 1943, the navy said, a mine laying submarine sailed within a mile of the net and dropped four mines. The U-boat escaped. One of the mines damaged a tanker, the others were picked up before they could explode.

COUNCIL VOTES CITY GREETING FOR DE GAULLE

Official entertainment of Gen. DeGaulle, chief of the French provisional government, and his aides in Chicago next week was voted by the city council at its meeting yesterday. Mayor Kelly was authorized to make all arrangements. A committee of 22 aldermen headed by Ald. James B. Bowler [25th] will assist. DeGaulle, reported in Newfoundland yesterday, is expected to fly to Washington, D. C., today for conferences with President Truman.

Mayor Kelly discussed plans for the general's visit with Jean Viala, French consul, and Jacques Walch, representative of the French press and information service.

Tentative plans include a dinner, probably in the Crystal room of the Blackstone hotel; an Association of Commerce luncheon and a motor tour of Chicago. Gen. De Gaulle's program is expected to bring him here Tuesday.

Walch said De Gaulle will fly to Chicago in the plane that brought him and his official party from Paris to America.

Report Anderson Declines Offer to Succeed Halifax

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Aug. 21—John Anderson, former chancellor of the exchequer, has declined an offer to succeed British Ambassador Halifax in the United States, political sources reported tonight. Prime Minister Attlee, however, is said to be anxious for Anderson to accept and indications are the ex-chancellor may be asked to reconsider his decision.

REFUGEE CALLS BULGARS' 'FREE' ELECTION FRAUD

Tells How Reds Force People Into Line

BY CLAY GOWRAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

ATHENS, Greece, Aug. 21 — Announcement that the United States had issued a sharp criticism of the administration of Bulgaria apparently confirms a story told early this month by a former Bulgarian business man.

I met the man and his wife in a hotel at Istanbul, Turkey, 12 hours after they had arrived from Sofia. Natives of Bulgaria and once comparatively wealthy, they were middle aged and almost penniless and were going to Mexico to begin life anew.

Freedom at End, He Says

"We thought our troubles were over when the Germans left," said the man, who will not be identified here because he still has connections in Bulgaria. "I had been arrested by the Nazis and narrowly escaped being sent to a concentration camp. But the troubles of my people were far from over. Freedom apparently is a thing of the past in Bulgaria.

"Under the present coalition government under Premier Kimon Georgiev every one is regimented, dragooned into line, almost as much as under the Nazis.

"The coalition government has called a general election for Aug. 26 to decide on the future administration. Thruout the country the election is touted as a 'free election, the people's choice'.

One List of Candidates

"Here's how free it will be. There will be only one list of candidates, most of whom are Communists, while others, tho they masquerade under various colors, are nothing more than puppets of the Communists. None of the real anti-Communist leaders of the Agrarian and Socialist parties can hope to be included in the election lists. Instead, in order to convince the population that these powerful parties are represented, other Agrarianists and Socialists who really are Communists at heart will be substituted.

"The only thing 'free' about the election is the people are free to vote this picked list into office. If they don't vote, or if they attempt to write in other names, they automatically would be branded fascist.

"Any Bulgarian who is unwilling to humble himself completely before the Communists becomes fascist in their minds, and therefore dangerous to the state."

Factories Confiscated

The Bulgarian then told what was happening to private enterprise under the coalition government, which he insisted was only a front for real direction from Moscow:

"Here's an example of what's happening everywhere in the country. A friend of mine owned a factory that employed more than 200 workers before the war. The Germans took it over because he refused to work with them, and sent him to a concentration camp. When he returned recently he found the factory going full blast under state control. He was told point-blank that the coalition government had confiscated the factory, and he need not hope for its return. He was offered a job at small pay as manager of this plant and he took it to keep from starving."

BRITAIN REFUSES RECOGNITION OF BULGARIAN RULE

Charges Elections Will Not Be Free

LONDON, Aug. 21 (AP) — Britain told Bulgaria today that she would be unable to recognize as "democratic or representative" any Bulgarian government that came out of elections scheduled in the Balkan country next Sunday.

Britain said she did not believe that the elections in the soviet occupied country would be free under present electoral law and conditions, and cited reports of the intimidation of voters.

The British note was handed the Bulgarian prime minister during the day by the British political representative in Sofia. It was made public by the foreign office tonight.

Welcomes Free Vote

The note said Britain "would welcome elections which gave full and free opportunity for the expression of the opinions of the Bulgarians."

But, it continued, the British government, "was unable to believe that such an opportunity will result from the elections held under the present Bulgarian election law and in the conditions now existing in Bulgaria."

The British government considers "that the form of this law is designed to operate to the advantage of the government now in power and to the disadvantage of its opponents. Very recent concessions which have been made are proof that freedom of expression was previously denied to the opposition and his majesty's government can have no confidence that these tardy concessions are in any sense adequate."

Dimitrov Seeks Seat

Moscow dispatches said the supreme soviet had released Georgi Dimitrov, former secretary of the Communist International, from soviet citizenship and his duties as a deputy to the supreme soviet so that he could campaign for a seat in the Bulgarian parliament as a candidate of the Patriotic Front party.

Dimitrov, a native of Bulgaria, took Russian citizenship after his arrest and trial on charges by the Nazis that he took part in the Berlin reichstag fire in 1933.

Hit by Mortar Fire

Sgt. Ralph Neppel, 21, of Glidden, Ia., who lost his legs after being hit by mortar fire while leading a machine gun unit against Birgel, Germany, last Dec. 14, passed thru Chicago yesterday on his way to Washington, D. C., where he will receive the congressional medal of honor tomorrow from President Truman. Neppel was accompanied on the United Air Lines plane taking him east by his mother, Mrs. Rose Neppel, his fiancée, Miss Jean Moore, also of Glidden, Ia.; his sister, Arlene, and a medical attendant.

NEW TRIER GRAD OVERSEAS WEDS A FORMER WAAF

Capt. L. E. Toeppen, 25, of 1200 Elmwood av., Wilmette, recently was married in London to Miss Elizabeth Phillips, 24, a former sergeant in the Waaf, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herwig Toeppen, have been informed.

Acting as witnesses were Capt. John J. Kiljan, with whom Capt. Toeppen had gone to signal corps officers' school in this country, and Miss Joan Ruby Stack of London. A few days later, Capt. Toeppen and his bride stood up for the other couple.

A graduate of New Trier High school and Illinois college in Jacksonville, Toeppen entered the army as a private in August, 1941. After graduation from officers' school, he was assigned to headquarters staff, signal corps, in London. He is expected home late this month, his parents believe. His bride will be permitted to accompany him if there is transportation.

SOVIETS TO OPEN AIR LINE TO U. S. VIA WEST EUROPE

LONDON, Aug. 21 [Reuters]—Russia plans to establish an air line to the United States across western Europe, Air Marshal Astakhov, chief of the central administration of the soviet civil air fleet, said today in an article broadcast over the Moscow radio. He disclosed that plans for the further development of air lines were made while the war was still on, and added: "Today the soviet union has air lines connecting Moscow to Berlin, Prague, Warsaw, Bucharest, Sofia, Vienna, Budapest, Belgrade, and Tehran."

TROOPS MASSED ON UNEASY SLAV, GREEK BORDER

FLORINA, Greece, Aug. 21 (AP) —Altho traditionally friendly, Greece and Yugoslavia have turned their common frontier in the wild Macedonian hills into an armed barricade and today the area is taut with fear and promonition of approaching trouble.

Troop concentrations on both sides are heavy. The Yugoslavs probably have seven divisions on the frontier, and when organization and deployment of the Greek national guard is completed the Greeks probably will have a similar number.

Helped by British

While the forces of the two countries square off on the frontier for any eventuality, the Greek national guard with the help of British troops is working hard to clean out armed bands of political-bandit gangs which roam the countryside plundering and killing and generally hindering the return of peaceful conditions to the war ravaged nation.

The Greeks contend the bands are receiving assistance from the Yugoslav side of the border. The Greeks assert that some of the bandits wear red stars on their caps like members of the Yugoslav army and carry similar weapons.

British officers are cautious about making similar charges but one said that on several occasions when large bands were closely pursued they fled toward the frontier, where they disappeared.

There have been several cases of firing between frontier posts, always without casualties.

French Enter Election

PARIS, Aug. 21 (AP)—The French government announced today it had accepted a British-American invitation to participate in the allied control commission which will help to supervise the coming national elections in Greece. The French expressed regret that Russia had declined an invitation to participate.

ROME, Italy, Aug. 21 (AP)—A gas explosion in a coal mine at Colombiera killed at least four persons and injured 11 today.

RELEASE BRITON CHARGED WITH AXIS RADIO TALK

LONDON, Aug. 21 [Reuters]—Lt. Col. Cyril Rocke, British officer alleged to have broadcast over the Italian radio after being taken prisoner, has been released from custody, James J. Lawson, war secretary, stated in the house of commons today.

He added that evidence in the hands of the public prosecutor did not justify institution of proceedings. Rocke made one radiocast for the Germans in July, 1940, Lawson said.

"If any further information becomes available, it will be referred to the director of public prosecution," he stated.

FIVE COUNTRIES OUT OF BOUNDS TO WORLD PRESS

Only Finland Willing to Allow Entry

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 21 (AP)—Altho 19 days have passed since the American press was promised every freedom in reporting news in Poland, Romania, Bulgaria, Hungary and Finland, newspaper correspondents are still waiting to be permitted to enter those countries.

The Truman-Atlee-Stalin Potsdam declaration specifically promised "representatives of the allied press shall enjoy full freedom to report to the world upon developments in Poland before and during the elections."

Accepting this pledge in good faith, a number of American newspapers asked to be permitted to send correspondents to report on conditions in that country. The correspondents have been cooling their heels ever since awaiting diplomatic permission to get into Poland.

Impossible to Get Visa

The situation was snarled by the fact that while the United States sent an ambassador to Poland within six hours after the recognition of the new Polish government was announced, no Polish envoy has been sent to this country. With no Polish foreign officers in this country, it is impossible to get a visa in the United States for Poland.

In an attempt to break this bottleneck, the state department had Arthur Bliss Lane, American envoy at Warsaw, to work out an arrangement with the Polish government under which that government would grant the visas in Paris. While the Polish government agreed to the plan more than two weeks ago, not a single visa has been issued as yet.

Finns Show Willingness

Somewhat similar situations exist with the other countries mentioned. The Potsdam declaration said: "Representatives of the allied press will enjoy full freedom to report to the world upon developments in Romania, Bulgaria, Hungary, and Finland."

Correspondents have been unable to get into the first three of these countries. Only in Finland, which also as yet does not have diplomatic officers here, has any willingness to accept American correspondents been demonstrated. The Finns have smoothed the way for the visit of a Tribune correspondent. Other countries have been silent.

KING WARNS U. S. CAN'T DEPEND ON GOOD WILL ALONE

Washington, D. C., Aug. 21 (AP)—Fleet Adm. King said tonight "no matter how altruistic we are as a nation, we can never afford to let our national security depend solely on the good will of other nations."

In a talk prepared for the "Navy Hour" broadcast, the chief of naval operations said, "we must retain control of the sea and all areas vital to our defense."

He said "the mission of the postwar navy will be to contribute to sustaining the peace of the world, to maintain the security, welfare and prestige of our country, and insure respect for the peaceful policies of the United States."

Addressing men and women of the naval service directly, Adm. King added, "I know that you will carry out this mission efficiently, loyally and unselfishly as you have served thus far."

STUN QUISLING WITH QUERY ON NAZI INVASION

Norse Puppet Premier Linked to Attack

"Is it true?" Solem repeated.

"There must be a misunderstanding," Quisling replied, but the judge unrelentingly pressed him: "How could there be a misunderstanding? Can you explain?"

"We talked solely on political subjects."

"You were in conference with a great admiral," said the judge. "It would have been natural for you to discuss naval subjects. Is it not useless for you to deny it?"

"Answer yes or no, whether you discussed invasion plans with Raeder?"

Quisling stubbornly refused to be swept off his feet. After a deliberate pause he replied with a simple "No."

Expands Savior Theory

Later Quisling repeated and elaborated on his theory that his relations with the Nazis prevented Scandinavia, including Sweden, from having suffered the fate of Poland and other central European countries.

He has contended that the British government planned to establish air and naval bases in Norway, a plan forestalled by the German invasion. The British would have been attacked on the north by Russia and thru Sweden by nazi armies, according to Quisling's theory.

As to a documentary statement that the invasion plans called for arrest of the royal family, Quisling denied he was part of any such plot, but admitted, with qualifications, that after the arrival of the German army in the capital he tried to halt the king's flight to Sweden and thence to London.

Asked for his authority to halt the king, Quisling replied, "As head of the new government," after Norway was left with no other resident government.

Favored German 'Help'

"If England and France, as you presumed, were to have established bases in Norway, was it your idea that the Norwegian government should invite the Germans to come in to save Norway?" Judge Solem asked.

"Yes," Quisling replied positively, "then they would come in as helpers, and not as conquerors."

Asked about a document introduced yesterday purporting to be a copy of a letter from Quisling to Hitler, the defendant denied he wrote it. He suggested it was written by some one to discredit Quisling with der fuehrer—part of a factional fight within the Nazi party. The document was described as having been found in Quisling's luxurious mansion here, where he kept political records as well as furnishings and art from the royal palace, and from museums and wealthy estates of conquered Europe.

DENIES EX POST FACTO CHARGE

William Fegth, Norwegian vice consul in Chicago, has denied that there is anything ex post facto about the trial of Quisling. Fegth pointed out that the 7,000 word treason indictment is in accord with the Norwegian criminal law passed in 1902 and which went into effect in 1905. As under American law, the defendant is held innocent until proved guilty, said Fegth.

Service Men Judges

The "Queen of Lake Michigan" will be selected tomorrow evening on the moonlight cruise which will be sponsored by the Chicago Models club aboard the City of Grand Rapids. Twenty-five models were selected from the club's 100 members to be entered in the final contest. Judges will be service men who are aboard the ship at the time of the judging. Tickets for the cruise are being sold in the ticket boxes on the Michigan av. bridge anchorage of the ship and also at the club's headquarters, 232 E. Erie st.

GEN. KEPNER NAMED HEAD OF 9TH AIR FORCE

LONDON, Aug. 21 (AP)—Maj. Gen. William E. Kepner, last European commander of the United States 8th air force, was appointed commander today of the United States 9th air force, with headquarters at Bad Kissingen, Germany.

The 9th is one of the elements of the American occupation air forces, which are policing Germany and collecting data on German aeronautical developments. Kepner succeeds Maj. Gen. Otto Weyland, who has left the European theater for another assignment.

Headquarters of the United States air transport command has been moved from London to Paris.

690 British Soldiers, Nazi Prisoners, Still Missing

LONDON, Aug. 21 [Reuters]—Six hundred and ninety British commonwealth troops, excluding Indian officers and men, had not been accounted for by Aug. 11 after being recorded as prisoners of war in Germany, James J. Lawson, war secretary, told commons today.

CANADA'S CHILD DOLE 1ST MONTH IS $17,560,934

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 21—The first month's operation of Canada's new family allowance law, under which the federal government pays parents allowances of $5 to $8 a month for children less than 16 years old, according to age, cost the treasury $17,560,934, Brooke Claxton, welfare minister, announced today.

July checks went out to 1,237,754 families with 2,156,844 children under 16. The average family allowance was $14.08 and the average per child was $5.94.

In August and every succeeding month a similar number of checks will be distributed by the government in what is said to be one of the most radical and generous "share the wealth" schemes in the world.

August Total to Rise

The August total, however, will increase to an estimated $18,440,136, and an estimated 1,300,000 families with 3,144,400 children will benefit.

French speaking Quebec, with its larger families, drew the largest amount of the nine Canadian provinces, $5,948,309. English speaking Ontario was second with $4,836,416. The charge that Quebec would be a favored province under the scheme was voiced in English speaking Canada in the last election.

Claxton's statistics, however, show Quebec to have only 2.9 children under 16 per family, while the dominion average is 2.4.

Two Families Have 15 Each

Two families had 15 children under 16 to share in the allowance; six families had 14, while 44 had 13. One hundred fifty families had 12.

Payments are made to mothers and it was feared at first there would be opposition on this score in Quebec, where the father, because of religion and race, is regarded as the supreme head of the family.

But no such protests developed.

PEACE TO SHIFT 30,000 BACK TO BUILDING JOBS

Keenan Named by WPB to Speed Construction

BY GEORGE HARTMANN

Thirty thousand construction workers have been made available for home and other building operations by war contract cancellations, Earl McMahon, secretary of the Chicago Building Trades council of the American Federation of Labor, estimated yesterday. Return of Seabees and other service men may add 15,000 other workers.

The men were employed in war plants in the Chicago area as maintenance men, and included such AFL craft workers as carpenters, electricians, plumbers, steamfitters, and some bricklayers; they were urged by AFL officials to take the war jobs to alleviate the man power shortage, "altho they were paid less than the union scale," McMahon said.

Views Differ on Materials

That it might be six months to a year before building materials are available was indicated by regional war production board officials. They said that Chicago faced a dearth of building materials "for at least a year, despite the tremendous accumulated demand for new homes."

McMahon and other AFL leaders predicted, however, early lifting of controls over materials for some types of building construction because of announcement that Joseph D. Keenan, secretary of the Chicago Federation of Labor, had been appointed head of a committee on reconversion in the building and construction industry.

Keenan to Speed Work

John Nuveen, regional WPB director, said Keenan will speed up construction thru recommendations for priorities assistance and will represent WPB on an interagency committee for construction recently established by the office of war mobilization and recovery.

Keenan was recalled recently from an assignment in Germany, where he had the rank of brigadier general. Previously he was vice chairman of the labor branch of WPB.

That guy has already sold 16 bottles of that stuff here today!

MANY JOBS OPEN HERE, SERVICE INDUSTRY SAYS

Cafes Alone in Need of 10,000 Workers

Hotels, laundries, dry cleaning establishments, restaurants, and other service industries are eager to obtain new employes and can absorb tens of thousands of displaced war workers in the Chicago area, industry representatives said yesterday.

Restaurants can use more than 10,000 more employes, said Donald F. Kiesau, executive secretary of the Chicago Restaurant association. Workers of all classifications, both men and women, are needed.

Julius Daniel, president of the Cleaning and Dyeing Plant Owners' association of Chicago, said a survey showed several hundred jobs are available for skilled and semi-skilled workers in Chicago cleaning establishments. Facilities are ample for job training.

Hotels Need More Help

Each of the 1,385 hotels in and around Chicago can use more help, said L. B. Ermeling, secretary of the Greater Chicago Hotel association.

One loop hotel, the Palmer House, needs 150 to 200 men and women for a variety of positions, a spokesman said.

An official of the Chicago Laundry Owners' association asserted that laundries in the city all need more employes, but could give no estimate of the number.

Officials of the State st. council reported that more than 500 jobs in State st. stores are open for persons with sales ability. Most of the openings are for men.

George J. Hones, president of the Association of Employment Agencies, reported that more than 100,000 jobs are available thruout the state thru 200 private employment agencies.

War Plant Layoffs Listed

A check of bottlenecks being made by the war production board disclosed that 28 steel and gray iron foundries in Chicago need 1,284 core makers, molders and laborers.

Lay-offs reported during the day included: Teletype corporation, 1400 Wrightwood av., 600; Lenz Electric, 1751 N. Western av., 200; Bell & Howell, 6618 N. Western av., 600; Quality Hardware, 5849 Ravenswood av., 125; Bradford Gear, Cicero, 872; Oscar J. Carlson, 2600 Irving Park rd., 234, and Amertorp, Forest Park, 2,900.

Twenty-five thousand persons have applied for unemployment compensation in Illinois since Friday, Robert L. Gordon, state director of labor, reported.

WEST POINT HEADED BY MAJ. GEN. TAYLOR, VETERAN OF D-DAY

Washington, D. C., Aug. 21 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, former commander of the 101st air borne division, has been appointed superintendent of the United States Military academy at West Point, the war department announced today.

Maj. Gen. M. D. Taylor

He assumes his new command Sept. 1, succeeding Maj. Gen. Francis B. Wilby, who is assuming an important assignment with the engineer corps at Fort Belvoir, Va. Taylor, 44, is a native of Kansas City, Mo. His present home is in near-by Arlington, Va.

Taylor led the 101st air borne division in its first jump over the Normandy beachhead on D-day and then commanded it thru 73 days of combat in the Nijmegen area in Holland. Earlier in the war Taylor slipped thru German lines below Rome to discuss with Marshal Badoglio details of the Italian surrender.

BOY WHOM VET 'ADOPTED' SOON TO COME HERE

Sgt. Edward Klonowski, 24, of 4621 Grace st., completed his furlough yesterday and reported to Camp Grant with the understanding that Robert Sokowski, 10 year old Ukrainian boy whom he "sort of adopted" while overseas, soon would be on his way to Chicago from England.

Sgt. Klonowski took Robert under his wing in Austria and has been trying to have him sent to the United States. Sgt. Klonowski's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Klonowski, have agreed to adopt the boy.

Corp. Richard Zamlynski of Chicago, Robert's custodian in England, wrote Sgt. Klonowski that he had been told the boy would start soon.

DETROIT'S JOB LINEUP GROWS; EXODUS BEGINS

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 21 [Special]—In lines up to seven blocks long, Detroit's huge army of unemployed war workers waited for hours today at government offices where they hoped to get jobs or unemployment compensation.

Others were reported leaving the area in droves. A total of about 190,000 men and women have been made idle or are scheduled for immediate release by the sudden cancellation of some 1½ billion dollars' worth of war contracts in the Detroit area.

Lines began forming at 5 a. m. at the offices of the United States employment service and the Michigan unemployment compensation commission which did not open until 8:30 a. m. The crowds were double and triple the size they had been yesterday.

Many of the men and women brought stools and boxes on which to sit during their long wait, which continued for hours after the office opened. Some women brought their knitting.

STEAK HOUSE'S OWNER SUES TO END SUSPENSION

Barney Kessel, owner of Barney's Market club, a steak house at 741 Randolph st., petitioned the federal District court yesterday for a stay of execution of an order by the office of price administration Aug. 11 suspending him from serving rationed foods for the duration of rationing. He said he will appeal the order to the chief OPA hearing commissioner in Washington, D. C., on the ground that it placed him in double jeopardy for one violation of an OPA regulation, for which he was fined $1,000 Aug. 7 by Federal Judge Elwyn R. Shaw. Kessel was charged with obtaining red points illegally thru the sale of rationed cooking oil to a popcorn company.

NAME GUNLOCK SUPER-HIGHWAY, SUBWAY CHIEF

Virgil E. Gunlock, 525 Arlington pl., was appointed commissioner of subways and super-highways yesterday by Mayor Kelly and the city council confirmed the apointment. Gunlock succeeds Philip Harrington, who recently was made chairman of the new metropolitan transit authority. Gunlock's salary will be $12,000 a year.

Gunlock, 41, a civil engineering graduate of the University of Illinois, was chief subway construction engineer from 1940 to 1944, when he was elevated to chief engineer for the subways and superhighways department. His first major project, he said, will be to let a 10 million dollar contract to complete the Dearborn st. subway as soon as materials are available. The new contract will take the unfinished tubes west on Congress st. to the river, finish the stations, and install tracks and wiring.

Postmaster Gen. Hannegan, who visited Chicago yesterday, inspected the postoffice arcade thru which it has been tentatively planned to run the proposed Congress st. superhighway. Hannegan indicated he had no objection to the plan.

TWO CIO UNIONS END NO-STRIKE VOW; SEEK HIKES

Despite President Truman's plea to organized labor that it continue its no strike pledge into the postwar period, two CIO unions announced yesterday that they had terminated their no strike promise and "would immediately campaign for wage increases for their members."

The unions are the United Packing House Workers' union, which said it would demand a 17½ cent hourly increase for 120,000 members employed in the nation's packing industry, and the United Farm Equipment and Metal Workers' union, representing more than 50,000 workers in farm equipment manufacturing plants, which said it had "instructed its representatives to open negotiations for a 30 per cent increase in wages."

"Our members have loyally upheld the no strike pledge for the duration of the war," said the UFEMW. "But now the strike weapon becomes essential for the preservation and improvement of American standards of living."

Detroit Votes to Go Back on Eastern Time Sept. 30

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 21 (AP)—An amendment returning Detroit to eastern standard time at midnight, Sept. 30, was adopted tonight by the city council. The city changed to eastern war time shortly after congress on Jan. 22, 1942, approved an advance of one hour in all major war industrial centers.

RELIGION WHICH ALSO IS DEMONSTRABLE SCIENCE

THE disclosure through Christian Science that God, the source of all being, can be accurately known, and that His nature and presence are everywhere as demonstrable as a fact in mathematics, is bringing profound satisfaction and great practical help to increasing multitudes throughout the world.

Summing up the value of the disclosure, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, Mary Baker Eddy, has written, "It is our ignorance of God, the divine Principle, which produces apparent discord, and the right understanding of Him restores harmony."*

BRADLEY WON'T SANCTION BILL ON JOB FOR ALL

Not Sure It Will Give Full Employment

BY PHILIP DODD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 21—Gen. Bradley, moved this summer from the battlefields to the post of veterans' administrator, refused at a senate hearing today to commit himself on whether the administration's "full employment" bill is the best way to assure jobs for returning veterans.

Gen. Bradley

Indorsement of the measure came, however, from State Secretary Byrnes in a statement read by Willard Thorp, a state department aid. Byrnes declared full employment in the United States was essential to the peace and prosperity of the world.

Gen. Bradley was the first witness at the opening hearing before the senate banking committee on the employment measure.

Provides "Job Budget"

According to the stated purpose of the bill, "all Americans able to work and seeking work have the right to useful, remunerative, regular, and full time employment." The bill would place on the President the responsibility of drawing up each year an annual budget for the ensuing year of estimated national production and employment. Congress would decide whether prospective spending would equal the amount of spending necessary to provide jobs for everybody able and willing to work. If this prospective spending lacked sufficient volume congress would be expected to appropriate whatever funds might be needed to raise spending to a level needed to create work for all, altho the bill does not require congress to do this.

Testifying that getting a job is the greatest concern of the returning veteran, Gen. Bradley, who commanded the 12th army group in Europe, said many veterans will not want to go back to the jobs they left before going to war. "They are going to want to apply what they have learned in the service," he said.

Withholds Personal Opinion

"This statement," said Gen. Bradley, "is made without any desire to indicate personal approval or disapproval of the bill under consideration. Even if it were appropriate to do so, I do not feel qualified to state whether the bill would accomplish the purpose for which it is intended or whether, from the political or economic aspect, it would be desirable."

Gen. Bradley said any condition insuring continuous work opportunities would lighten the load of the veterans' administration in unemployment compensation, educational benefits, loans, disability payments, and other benefits. But under the questioning of committee members he insisted he could not testify for or against the full employment bill.

Byrnes Sees Goodwill

Byrnes, in his statement, urged enactment of the bill as a demonstration to other nations that this country is determined to prevent depressions and mass unemployment. "Prosperity and depression in the United States . . . inevitably affect our relations with the other nations of the world," the state secretary asserted.

Omar B. Kitchum, legislative representative of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, told the committee every provision should be made to insure jobs for veterans and urged legislation granting "statutory" job seniority to returning service men so that they would not be penalized for the time they spent away from their old jobs while at war.

Ketchum said he was not prepared to indorse the full employment bill in its present form. He said he was convinced the American free enterprise system could provide sufficient jobs if permitted to operate under "fair and reasonable" rules.

Tribune Survey Shows Chicago Plants Need More Workers

Survey by THE TRIBUNE of former war plants yesterday disclosed that many need more workers for their complete reconversion to peace time production and that current shifts have caused little disturbance in their operations. A complete report on the first section of the survey follows:

Ace Foundry company, 353 N. Lamon av.—Employs 28 persons and can use from 10 to 20 more at once, said Grant Roth, president. By Jan. 1, the company expects to employ 70 men making brass and aluminum fittings. The company specializes in railroad work, and prospects for post-war work are good.

100 More to Be Hired

Acme Steel company, 134th and Clark sts., Riverdale—Producing hot and cold rolled strip steel, this company has no reconversion problem, said Charles Traer, president. It employed 3,200 persons when the war ended, and expects to hire 100 more soon.

Advance Aluminum Castings corporation, 2472 W. 36th pl.—Has laid off 54 of its force of 600 men in the last week, but has no immediate further reductions in view. The company is still working on some war orders, but is largely in civilian production. It is a large manufacturer of aluminum cooking utensils.

Aetna Ball and Roller Bearing company, 4600 Schubert av.—The 300 persons employed by this company now are on strike, but the company has laid off no men because of the war's end.

Aluminum Company of America, McCook—Eleven hundred employes have been laid off at the McCook plant out of 1,600 employed there last Tuesday. J. R. Dix, acting works manager, said the return of these employes is indefinite pending clarification of orders.

All Veterans to Get Jobs

American Brake Shoe company—Now employs 2,155 persons, has had no layoffs of employes, and can use 120 more men immediately. Eighty are needed in the foundry and 40 in the railroad crossing and switch shops.

American Can company—Employment has dropped from 10,400 last week to 5,000. Of 3,500 at the Amertorp plant in Forest Park, only 500 are still working. Only 100 employes are left of the 2,500 at the Ammunition Container corporation in Harvey, where all contracts have been canceled. The company has 4,400 employes at its container plants and urgently needs 150 more at its three Maywood plants.

American Car and Foundry company, 80 E. Jackson blvd.—Expects its employment to jump from 800 at present to 1,400 in the next two months.

Busy on Navy Contracts

American Concrete corporation, 4727 N. Lamon av.—Employs 34 men and can use 10 more immediately for unskilled work. The company is still working on navy contracts and it will be several months before it gets into full swing producing concrete lamp posts. A backlog of orders for these posts will assure work for all employes for months to come.

Anetsberger Brothers, 3507 Elston av.—This company's war contract for radar equipment is still in effect and Frank Anetsberger, president, said he could use 15 more workers, mostly skilled. The company now employs 180 persons, but expects the pay roll to drop to 140.

Argus Manufacturing company, 1134 N. Kilbourn av.—T. E. Giblin, vice president, reports 20 men laid off since last Tuesday, when 130 were on the pay roll. Expects to employ 130 persons in peace time production of tools.

Packers Needs More Workers

Armour & Co.—Plant workers needed, especially in anticipation of heavy fall live stock run. Present force "lower than we like it to be." No lay-offs expected.

Armstrong Brothers Tool compan., 317 N. Francisco av.—Manufactures standard line of tools; no reconversion of plant required. Full force of 500 retained; no lay-offs anticipated.

Athey Truss Wheel company, 5631 W. 65th st.—Full production of special type wagon for use in trains and caterpillar trailers on military contract until last week. Already reconverted. Employment Aug. 13, 409; employment yesterday, 415; still hiring.

Machinists Are Wanted

Available Truck company, 2501 Elston av.—Has 70 employes and will increase this number by 10 per cent or more as it continues production of special heavy duty equipment for truck cranes. Assemblers, welders, and machinists are needed.

Barco Manufacturing company, 1801 Winnemac av.—With 60 employes laid off in the last week, F. N. Bard, owner, expects the pay roll to level off at 550 workers making railway supplies.

Belden Manufacturing company, 4647 Van Buren st.—Employs 600 and has laid none off since the end of the war, reported Whipple Jacobs, president.

Belke Manufacturing company, 947 N. Cicero av. — Electro-plating equipment; employment last Tuesday, 120, Fifteen laid off because of canceled government contracts. "Sitting tight" until civilian market takes shape, but will go from 84 hour to 40 hour week.

No Reconversion Problem

Bell & Thorn, Inc., 4259 S. Western av.—Altho some of its war contracts have been terminated and some reduced, the company has not laid off any of its 208 employes. The plant faces no reconversion problem, and will continue making radio chassis, communications, radio, and electronics equipment.

Belmont Radio corporation, 5921 Dickens av.—Employed 1,600 when Japs gave up and is now cutting this down to 500. All employes laid off will be called back within 30 days if materials become available for production of radios, phonographs, and amplifiers. Next year the company expects to have a pay roll of 2,200, said H. C. Mattes, vice president. All veterans who left jobs at this plant will be reinstated.

Bendix Awaits Instructions

Bendix Aviation corporation, Illinois division, 505 N. Sacramento av.—Of 2,700 employes when the war ended, the company has laid off all but 500 office and salaried workers. All its contracts for aircraft carburetors have been canceled. E. A. Michaelson, personnel director, said officials are awaiting notice from the parent corporation on what plans have been made for the Chicago plant in peace time production. This plant was entirely in war production. Bendix had no Chicago plant before the war.

Ingersoll Steel and Disc division of Borg-Warner corporation, 1000 W. 120th st.—Began reconverting July 1. Employment the middle of June, 1,100; reduced to 890 last week, but now is on the increase. Will hire 150 men in the next two weeks, 100 more within 90 days, and expects that in six months employment will be equal to peak during war production.

Shifts by Borg-Warner

Borg and Beck division of Borg-Warner corporation, 6558 S. Menard av., automobile clutches—Force of 780 reduced to 700 when first contracts were canceled a month ago. Expects further reduction of 100 employed on special work for air force. Work week reduced from 48 to 40 hours.

Borg-Warner corporation, spring division, Bellwood—War contracts canceled, but no lay-offs; expects to retain force of 280.

Boyar-Schultz corporation, 2105 Walnut st.—Screw machine tools; always undermanned during war production; present employment, 164; no lay-offs anticipated.

Brad Foote Gear Works, 1301 S. Cicero av.—Employed 1,000 last Tuesday, but on Saturday shut down the plant and now maintains only a skeleton force. All war contracts have been canceled, but the company planned to resume production of gears and speed reducers this morning. Employes will be called back as they are needed and the company expects to employ 500 in peace time work, said G. E. Gunderson, president.

Big Backlog on Hand

Bucyrus-Monighan company, 931 N. Kilpatrick av.—Ten persons were hired yesterday and this company seeks another 40 to bring its peace time pay roll up to 200. It has been making excavating machinery for strip mining thruout the war and has enough orders on hand to keep busy for several years, said W. T. Brennan, vice president and treasurer. Riveters, structural steel workers, arc welders, drill press, boring mill, and milling machine operators constitute 80 per cent of the men needed.

Buda company, Harvey — Reports nearly all products adaptable to peace time use and its 5,000 employes will stay on the job. The company contemplates reducing the work week from 48 to 40 hours on a five day basis to spread the work. Gas and diesel engines, railway maintenance products, drills, industrial plant trucks, and railway cars are among the company's products.

Buick Motor division, General Motors corporation, Melrose Park—All contracts for C-47 and C-54 plane engines have been canceled at Melrose Park plant and 4,200 workers have been laid off in the last week out of a total of 7,600. Work already on the production lines will be completed and employes will be laid off until only a skeleton force is kept at the plant.

Burton Auto Spring corporation, 2433 W. 48th st.—No layoffs; present employment, 108; looking for men.

Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation, 3429 E. 89th st.—Despite reduced operations in subsidiary plants, Carnegie-Illinois still employs 50,000 persons. The South Chicago and Gary works employ 30,000 and face no reconversion problems.

Plans to Hire More

H. D. Catty Corporation of Chicago, 3311 Carroll av.—Had 85 employes, but has reduced to 64. When it gets back into full swing of converting for work on celeophane and aluminum foil, the company may hire from 10 to 20 more employes.

Central Architectural Iron Works, 4227 N. Knox av.—All of its 250 employes have been laid off since the war ended. Within two weeks the company expects to have 125 men back at work making "anything of metal that is ordered."

Central Die Casting and Manufacturing company, 2935 W. 47th st.—Has enough civilian customer orders to retain force of 200; looking for employes to train.

Chicago Forging and Manufacturing company, 2000 Southport av.—With 90 per cent of its war contracts canceled, this company has laid off 82 of its 230 employes and will proceed immediately to produce latches and hinges for automobile hoods. A peak of 225 employes is expected for peace time work.

Foundry Company to Get More

Chicago Foundry company, 2028 N. Major av.—Has 100 employes and anticipates hiring 40 more, including floor molders, squeezer molders, sand cutters, grinders, and laborers. Only 5 per cent of its war contracts have been canceled.

Chicago Gear Manufacturing company, 2819 Fulton st.—Looking for "good" help; believes there will be a scarcity of skilled help for some time to come.

Chicago Pump company, 2336 Wolfram st.—Expects its biggest business in history and anticipates increasing its force from 257 to 350.

Chicago Railway Equipment company, 1928 W. 46th st.—Has 135 employes and is still hiring a few unskilled workers. Minor cancelations of war contracts are not expected to affect the company, which makes railway supplies. Working force probably will remain about same figure.

Chicago Rawhide Mfg. company, 1301 Elston av.—Had 1,050 employes when war ended, laid off 75 so far, and expects employment to level off at from 800 to 900 persons.

No Reduction in Workers

Central Screw company, 3507 S. Shields av.—Reconverting from 100 per cent war work without reduction of force of 250. Forty hour week in effect.

Chicago Metal Manufacturing company, 3730 S. Rockwell st.—In war production 100 per cent. Some contracts have been canceled, but force of 200 is being retained and no lay-offs are anticipated.

Chicago Nipple Mfg. company, 1966 Southport av.—Produced standard line of pipe nipples on government contracts and will return to regular operation without reducing force of 150.

Chicago Rivet and Machine company, Bellwood—Force of 500 reduced by laying off 125 when army ordnance contracts were canceled; expects to fill these 125 jobs soon.

Chicago Vitreous Enamel Products company, 1401 S. 55th ct., Cicero—Cancelation of war contracts has reduced force from 700 to 400; no immediate expectation of rehiring.

Thirty Called Back

Chrome-Rite company, 4534 North av.—Thirty men were idle at this plant Monday because of cutbacks on war orders, but they were called back to work Tuesday. The plant employs 83 now, but it had 150 employes before the war and expects to have the same number by Jan. 1; plates radio parts.

C. P. Clare & Co., 4719 Sunnyside av., electric relays—Has been 100 per cent in war work with a force of 285, 70 per cent of them women. Will lay off to 125 workers, but expects that manufacturing progress in the field of electronics will soon require additional help.

Clearing Machine corporation, 6499 W. 65th st.—Hydraulic presses; in war work as a subcontractor. Adding to employment roll of 650 to fill civilian orders. Needs highly skilled workmen.

Continental Can Company, Inc., 135 S. La Salle st.—Has 6,500 employes at all plants and needs 300 unskilled workers immediately in the plant at 5601 W. 65th st. Die setters and machinists also are needed. Will drop from 48 to 40 hour week after the corn crop is packed, but expects no layoffs.

Lots of Business Ahead

Cook Electric company, 2700 Southport av.—With a war time employment of more than 1,000, this plant has laid off 20, but reports lots of business ahead making telephone protective equipment and electrical controls. May hire 20 in the next year.

Crane Packing company, 1801 Belle Plaine av.—Employs 500 and expects to cut work week from 50 to 40 hours, putting the night shift to work in day hours and retaining all help; has no reconversion problem and will continue making pump and automotive packings.

Daaly Machine Specialties, Inc., 2130 S. Laramie av., Cicero—A few workers have quit, but the company had laid off none of its 1,859 employes. Facing heavy business as a supply house for tool and die makers, it hopes to retain all employes.

William Davies Company, Inc., 4101 S. Union av.—Has 214 employes and is seeking 65 butchers and laborers. A meat packing business, it faces no reconversion problems.

Delta Star Electric company, 2437 Fulton st.—Heavy duty electric switches; does not anticipate that force of 550 will be reduced tho some of 100 woman employes may not be needed later.

Force to Be Retained

DeVry corporation, 1111 Armitage av.—Motion picture equipment; expects no lessening of operations in turning from government contracts to production for civilian market. Fifty per cent cancelation of military jobs, including gunnery training devices. Still is shipping projectors to armed forces in Europe and the Pacific for entertainment purposes. Force of 500 will be retained.

Diamond T Motor Car company, 4501 W. 26th st.—Expects that present force of 2,000 will be reduced to about 1,200, which is slightly above number employed before the war. Still too early in the readjustment period to determine definitely.

District Engineering company, 2700 N. Karlov av.—A war time business, this company expects to continue making tools and dies. Since last week it has hired four, now has 41 employes still working on government contracts for radar equipment.

Many Out at Dodge Plant

Dodge Chicago plant, 7401 S. Cicero av. — With 29,000 employes last week, 15,000 have been laid off already and further reductions will be made as work already under way is completed. All contracts for B-29 and B-32 engines have been canceled.

Dole Valve company, 1923 Carroll av.—Altho the firm has sent many employes home pending clarification of contracts, none has been laid off. The company will utilize employes in reconverting to production of thermostats and automobile parts.

Douglas Aircraft company, Park Ridge—On Tuesday, Aug. 14, the company employed 17,000. Since then about 10,500 have been laid off and by Sept. 1 only a skeleton crew will be at work in the plant, where more than a score of C-54 Skymasters are in production. No plans to use the plant in peace time have been announced.

Dreis and Krump Manufacturing company, 7400 S. Loomis av.—Has more orders than it has ever had and will return 100 service men to work without laying off any of its present 315 employes; will continue to make sheet metal working machinery.

Dryden Rubber company, 1014 S. Kildare av.—Production is largely of automotive items and immediate operations depend on activity of automobile manufacturers. The company had a considerable stock of automobile parts when manufacture was stopped. The working force of 530 has been slightly reduced, but probably will be restored or increased when normal peace time operation is resumed.

Additional results of THE TRIBUNE's survey will be published tomorrow and Friday.

REICHL HANGED AS KELLY PLEA TO TRUMAN FAILS

Chicago Soldier Denies He Intended Killing

Fort Leavenworth, Kas., Aug. 22 [Wednesday] — [Special] — Pvt. Edward J. Reichl, 39, of Chicago, said again firmly that he was innocent of premeditated murder as he stepped on the trap of an army gallows a few minutes after midnight today to die for the fatal shooting of a fellow soldier.

The trap was sprung at 12:08 a. m. and Reichl was pronounced dead 16 minutes later. He had been notified Monday night that he was to be put to death today but until the last had hoped that last minute efforts by his Chicago parents, sister, and brothers would secure Presidential clemency for him.

Mayor Kelly's Plea Fails

Mayor Kelly of Chicago intervened in the case yesterday afternoon and appealed to President Truman over the long distance telephone for a commutation of the sentence. After his talk with the President, Kelly said Mr. Truman had gone over the court martial record twice without finding any basis for modification of the sentence.

The slaying for which Reichl died was that of Technician 5th Grade Adam Buchholz of Dayton, O. Reichl shot Buchholz with an army rifle at Gualala, Cal., on Nov. 17, 1943. At his court martial in February, 1944, he testified he was drunk at the time of the shooting and did not know what he was doing.

Army evidence against Reichl was that he harbored a "real or fancied" grievance against Buchholz because the latter had failed to pick him up in a truck a few miles from the camp and that upon returning to Hamilton field "Reichl procured his rifle and shot and killed Buchholz without warning."

Reichl was hanged on the same gallows used by the army several weeks ago for the hanging of several German prisoners of war. The gallows is built in an old elevator shaft in a warehouse on the military reservation.

Dies in Army Uniform

When he was led into the execution chamber he was wearing a regulation uniform of an army private except that he wore no tie and his blouse was open at the neck. He listened attentively to the reading of the death warrant by Col. William S. Eley, commandant of the military prison, and at one point interrupted to ask the colonel to repeat a phrase.

The warrant charged that Reichl had killed Buchholz "with malice aforethought, wilfully, feloniously and with premeditation."

When the colonel had finished reading, Reichl said in a clear voice, "I am not guilty of premeditated murder. It was a drunken shooting." His eyes turned to four newspaper men, the only civilians present, and he said, "For the press, I want to say good-bye to Chicago. I love every street and alley in the place."

A group of 20 army officers witnessed the execution. The trap was sprung by a commissioned officer.

Col. Eley said that Reichl made no request for special food for his last meal and that he ate the regular prison fare which last night consisted of grilled bologna and spaghetti with fresh peas and a carrot and raisin salad.

Three Brothers in Army

Reichl was a bartender in Chicago before joining the army. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Reichl of 5343 School street, Chicago. He has three brothers in the army, one of whom was wounded in fighting in Italy. A sister, Mrs. Rose Michalski, lives at the School st. address.

The Reichl family waged a long fight to save the convicted soldier from the extreme penalty. The mother and sister appealed to Senators Brooks [R., Ill.] and Lucas [D., Ill.] and both of the senators made clemency pleas to the war department. The last minute appeal of Mayor Kelly was undertaken at the request of Mrs. Michalski.

Burglars Raid a Hotel and Rob 3 Apartments

Burglars crept into three apartments in the East End Park hotel, 5242 Hyde Park blvd., early yesterday. These losses resulted: Miss Mina Weinberg, $105 from her purse and $110 belonging to her guest, Mrs. E. M. Israel of Miami Beach, Fla.; Mrs. Ida Sax, $13 and a watch valued at $55; Harold Livingston, $75.

Atty. Gahr Collapses Before Judge in Court

Atty Morris J. Gahr, 49, of 821 Independence blvd., collapsed before Municipal Judge John Gutknecht in Motion court yesterday in city hall. He was revived by an inhalator squad under Lt. Thomas Kane and was taken to Mount Sinai hospital. His condition was said to be fair.

WOMAN SCREAMS; THIEVES FLEE

Two men attempted to snatch a purse from Mrs. Catherine Nathanson, 5860 Kenmore av., but dropped it and fled when she screamed, she reported to police yesterday.

MEAD EXPECTS KIMMEL, SHORT CASE ACTION

Syracuse, N. Y., Aug. 21 (AP)—The cases of Adm. Kimmel and Maj. Gen. Short, Pearl Harbor commanders at the outset of the war, will be reviewed in Washington shortly, Sen. Mead [D., N. Y.] said in an interview here today.

He said he did not know whether the two officers, who were relieved of their commands after the Japanese attack on Hawaii, would be court martialed.

"There will be a growing public demand to know more about the cases and there will have to be a review," he declared.

He added he was not sure what agency would "review" the cases.

Awaits Jap Surrender

Washington, D. C., Aug. 21 (AP)—The navy said today nothing would be done about its reports on Pearl Harbor until the final surrender of Japan. The navy's statement added to growing indications that any further public discussion of Pearl Harbor and responsibilities of military and naval personnel involved would be on congressional initiative.

EX-PARATROOPER SEIZED IN GIRL'S CISTERN DEATH

Haddon Heights, N. J., Aug. 21 (AP)—Howard Auld, 200 pound ex-paratrooper charged with murder in the slaying of attractive Margaret McDade, was captured late tonight.

Mayor J. Herbert Phillips of nearby Mount Ephraim, N. J., made the arrest on the Black Horse pike. He was accompanied by two policemen.

Auld was charged with murder earlier today when County Prosecutor Gene R. Mariano said he had been seen in the company of the 23 year old waitress last Tuesday.

The girl's nude and beaten body was discovered in a cistern here Sunday.

14,876 TROOPS ON BIG SHIP GET NOISY WELCOME

Queen Mary Docks in New York Harbor

New York, Aug. 21 (AP)—The giant liner Queen Mary docked in New York harbor tonight with 14,876 fighting men from Europe—most of them members of the 30th [Old Hickory] division—as a brilliant moon and millions of lights beamed a welcome.

It was declared to be the noisiest reception given returning troops since V-E day as the famous division, which had a leading role in stopping German Marshal von Rundstedt in the Battle of the Bulge last December, crowded the rails to acknowledge the greeting.

The following army units are scheduled to arrive in east coast ports tomorrow:

AT NEW YORK—[Aboard William and Mary Victory] Units of the 515th parachute infantry regiment of the 13th air borne division, including headquarters and A, B, and C companies of the 1st battalion; headquarters and headquarters companies and companies D, E, and F of the 2d battalion. REVEALS F. D. R. REFUSED FRENCH DEBT PAYMENT

PARIS, Aug. 21 (AP)—Former Premier Edouard Daladier said today the late President Roosevelt in 1938 refused his offer to start payments on the old French war debt, saying France should use the money to arm because "the danger is growing." Daladier spoke before the Radical Socialist party convention.

The former French leader who signed the Munich pact declared that, soon after Munich, Britain, France, Poland, and Russia tried unsuccessfully to negotiate a secret treaty of alliance. The negotiations collapsed, he said, when Poland refused a Russian demand for free passage of soviet troops thru Poland.

YOUNG MOTHER GETS YEAR FOR LEAVING BABY

Mrs. Carmela Bianco, 22, of 2737 Polk st., was sentenced by Judge Victor Kula in the court of Domestic Relations yesterday to one year in the women's reformatory at Dwight for contributing to the dependency of her child, Nicholas, 5 months old. Mrs. Mary Ann Freeman, 45, of 1336 Fillmore st., testified that Mrs. Bianco left the baby with Mrs. Freeman's daughter, Mary, 14, on July 13 and did not return for him. The infant was taken to an orphanage. Mrs. Bianco, who said her husband, John, 28, deserted her, pleaded that she was looking for a job.

PVT. VERNON F. WISSER, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wisser of 507 Gertrude st., Elgin, died of wounds Oct. 27 in the Philippine Islands, his parents have been notified. He was reported missing in action Oct. 25 on Leyte, and his parents waited nine months for the next word from the war department.

PHILLIP KAWA, 22, of 724 Logan av., Elgin, storekeeper 3d class, and Robert E. Killman, 22, of 326 McClure av., Elgin, gunner's mate 3d class, have been missing in action since the sinking of the cruiser Indianapolis in the Philippine sea, their parents were advised yesterday by the navy department.

LOSES $20 IN HOLDUP

Herbert Johnson, 4557 Ellis av., was held up yesterday by three Negroes in front of 4401 Drexel blvd., and robbed of $20.

CHICAGO TRAINS CRACK UP IN WEST; 20 INJURED

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 21 (AP)—More than 20 soldiers were injured, nine seriously, when the third section of the Santa Fe's Grand Canyon limited carrying troops plowed into the limited's second section at Franconia, Ariz., 24 miles east of Needles.

Section two, which carried both civilian and army passengers, was hit as it left a siding, the locomotive of section three sideswiping the third car, officials reported. Both trains were westbound from Chicago. Two of the injured were reported in critical condition.

First reports said there were no known dead. The injured were being taken to a hospital in Needles. A call was issued for additional doctors and nurses. Four cars of the second section were derailed, as were the locomotive and baggage car of the third section.

HOW U.S. AIR POWER TURNED THE TIDE OF WAR
A POST EXCLUSIVE! One of the Most Inspiring Chapters in Military Air History
THE secret files are opening. At last the men may speak. The men who bought back America's lost yesterdays—gambled as perhaps few men have ever gambled—faced a "crazy", "impossible dream"—and put B-29's over the skies of Japan. The story may now be told—of the birth of that fabulous weapon of destruction, the U. S. Army Air Force.
It's a story for all America to read and ponder. From the day when this nation's existence hung in precarious balance. From the day when air generals tore up all rule books—defied the impossible—and sent the B-29 Superfortress into action in one-fourth the time it took to produce the battle version of the B-17. It's a breath-taking, nerve-tingling account of perhaps the most inspiring chapter in military air history. Note it now as must reading.

The Mutiny of Private Kochek
by Collie Small
GENERALS, majors, whole divisions will tell you of this human tornado who raged across the face of Europe—killing Germans by the score—taking prisoners by the hundreds. Tired of peeling potatoes, Private Kochek mutinied, went AWOL to take the war into his own hands. Listed AWOL for months, he was wounded three times, jailed twice, court-martialed once. The inspiring saga of a terrible soldier—at everything but fighting.

GIs PAST 37 OR 75 POINTERS TO STAY IN U. S.

Overseas Duty for 86th and 95th Protested

Washington, D. C., Aug. 21 [Special]—Except for the 86th division, which is already on the west coast en route to Japan, no enlisted men in the ground forces over 37 or enlisted men in any branch of the army with 75 or more discharge points will be sent overseas, the war department announced today.

The announcement came as protests over the dispatch of combat veterans to the Pacific reached both the White House and the war department from various sources.

Members of the 95th division, now being screened for redeployment to the Pacific at Camp Shelby, Miss., brought their case directly to the attention of President Truman with a wire signed by 580 soldiers. This division went overseas in July of last year and participated in several months of combat in France and Germany.

Sen. Butler Protests

Charles G. Ross, Presidential secretary, said the White House had referred the 95th's protest to the war department but would not comment beyond that.

Sen. Butler [R., Neb.] lodged a formal protest with War Secretary Stimson against redeploying both the 86th and 95th divisions. The 86th is the Blackhawk division, and had 20 days of combat in Europe.

In Mayfield, Ky., Rep. Gregory [D., Ky.] said he will transmit to the war department a protest from about 500 soldiers of the 18th air borne division against assignment to Pacific duty. The 18th is at Camp Campbell, Ky.

Rep. May [D., Ky.] said at Prestonburg, Ky., that he also has been asked to bring protests on behalf of the 18th division to the attention of the war department and that he intended to do so.

Surprised to Learn It

Sen. Butler said in his letter to Stimson that he was "surprised and chagrined" to learn that the 86th and 95th divisions are two of the several divisions being sent to the Pacific area. These divisions, he said, include "hundreds of Nebraska boys who served in Europe," and who have "done their share in this war."

Butler said he presumed Gen. MacArthur has asked for these divisions but cannot believe that the request was transmitted since the capitulation of Japan as "it is obvious these seasoned troops will not be needed in battle now."

Stimson said men with 75 or more points and men over 37 are now being eliminated from the 95th division. The 37 year age limit was not applied to the 86th division because there was no time to screen the men, he said, altho all enlisted men over 38 have been transferred out of the division.

BRITAIN WARNED SCALE OF LIVING DEPENDS ON U. S.

Ignores Dare to Tell Value of U. S. Aid

BY JOSEPH CERUTTI

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Aug. 21—The Labor government was challenged in the house of commons today to disclose the value of lend-lease food and raw materials shipped to Britain without payment by the United States during the last three years.

The issue was raised by Oliver Lyttelton, president of the board of trade and minister of production in the Churchill government. He warned that without continued American help, living standards thruout the British empire would decline. His challenge was ignored by Laborites.

[The United States foreign economic administration said yesterday 29 billions in lend-lease assistance had been given to the British empire.]

"The standard of life of every citizen in this country, and nearly every citizen in the British empire, depends upon our receiving sympathetic help and a large measure of financial aid from the United States," Lyttelton said.

Asks Green Light in Exports

Lyttleton appealed to the government to give the green light to British export industries and free them from unnecessary regimentation and controls.

The government's aim to increase export trade 50 per cent above the 1938 figure, he said, would be insufficient to enable Britain to pay its way. He asserted that Britain, now the world's biggest debtor, still has too much the mentality of a world creditor and protested that the government's program fails to mention its attitude toward economic collaboration with other countries, particularly the United States.

The former board of trade chief said Britain needs to borrow money from America at the lowest possible rate of interest and with redemption at the longest possible date. He advised the Laborites that if they want American aid "you must be careful about the nasty things you say about private enterprise; that will affront American opinion."

Forced Investments Planned

Herbert Morrison, lord president of the council, said Lyttelton's speech was "too much like encouragement of the view that the internal affairs of this country are going to be influenced by conscious action outside."

Chancellor of the Exchequer Hugh Dalton lifted the curtain on Labor's plans for reorganizing British economy by disclosing that the government intends to force investors to put their money into certain selected industries, such as coal, iron, steel, cotton, and housing.

Dalton said investments must continue to be guided in peace as in war, by considerations of national interest and that the government would not allow the "return of a disorderly, competitive scramble for money." The Labor government, he asserted, would introduce legislation to make these controls permanent.

GI Joe in the Pacific

By ARTHUR VEYSEY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

OKINAWA, Aug. 21—Loose talk concerning the reconversion of soldiers into civilians is being bandied about but one place where you can get the straight dope is Tony's barber shop.

To start with, Tony and his colleagues and clients today were all in favor of it. Whoever said people can't agree didn't go to Tony's either for the straight dope or a hair cut.

"It's like I was telling the boys in the tent last night," said Tony over the clip of his shears. "They can't start reconverting me too soon." He paused in his clipping, ran a comb thru my hair, and said: "Quite a bit of dandruff this morning. A little oil might help it. It won't cure it but it might help it."

Tony Has It Planned

"They won't have to do any reconverting on me," said the guy in the next chair, underlining the "they." "Just turn me loose and I'll take care of it." Tony, and everybody else, agreed to that. Take Tony for example. He has his reconversion all planned.

Tony, whose last name is Battiglia, whose hair is long and black, and whose mustache runs along his lip with the confidence of Clark Gable's, was an automatic rifleman with the 77th division thru the Guam, Leyte, and Okinawa campaigns. Two months ago, with 105 points, he was put in a camp here to go home. But something went wrong and, instead, he wound up in a barber shop.

"Sure it gives me practice," he said. "I used to have my own shop in Buffalo, N. Y., and was pretty rusty after five years in the army."

General Takes a Hand

But it knocked the heck out of his main reconversion plan which was to get out of the army. So he wrote his general about it. The general, who is a good guy, jumped into the people who took Tony off the pier and now it looks as tho Tony would go back to the pier to await a ship home.

But he hasn't been sitting idly by waiting to be reconverted. He has written to Buffalo and lined up a couple of beauty operators who will work for him. He has picked the location for his shop—he won't tell what it is because he has learned in the army that revealing plans is a sure way to get them into the hands of the enemy. And from now on his plans are not for the ears of other Buffalo barbers.

Others Have Plans, Too

He has saved some money and with it he can lease the building he wants—or, he can buy it. He may call his shop something fancy like "Shear You" or he may just settle for "Tony's."

The rest of the guys in Tony's today have plans, too. Some are not quite as definite as Tony's, but some even have decided the name of their post-war reconversion project as well as the color of the paint in which the name will be posted.

"Just give me that discharge," said Tony, brushing away the final loose hairs, "and I'll take care of the rest of my reconversion."

Alton Swimmer Drowns in Abandoned Coal Pit

Alton, Ill., Aug. 21 (AP)—Thomas Hanlon, 11, drowned today in an abandoned coal pit where he was swimming with three other boys.

EATS HIS CHILI, REFUSES TO PAY; SHOT TO DEATH

East St. Louis, Ill., Aug. 21 [Special]—A well dressed man about 38 was shot and killed in front of an all-night lunchroom early today by a cook who said the man had eaten a bowl of chili in the restaurant and walked out of the place without paying a 15 cent check.

The victim, who wore a striped blue sport shirt, blue pin striped trousers and a pair of new shoes, had a few coins in his pockets, police said, but no papers giving his name or other identifying information.

The slayer is Pete Chulohas, 63. He was held without charge by police pending an inquest after he signed a statement admitting he shot the nonpaying customer.

Chulohas said he lost his temper because he recognized the man as a person who about five hours earlier had eaten a meal in the restaurant and gone away without paying for it.

9 CREWMEN DIE IN SINKING OF MINESWEEPER

Washington, D. C., Aug. 21 (AP)—Nine crew members were killed and two officers and eight enlisted men were injured in the sinking of the minesweeper Salute June 8, the navy reported today. Loss of the vessel was announced June 26.

The Salute had swept 143 Japanese mines from enemy harbor entrances during extensive pre-invasion operations before the 144th sent her to the bottom of Brunei bay off Borneo.

"We had figured our luck was beginning to run thin about that time," said Lt. John R. Hodges, Richland, Ind., her commanding officer, "because we had been thru 14 months of Pacific duty without a single casualty." The Salute was commissioned Dec. 4, 1943.

TWO IRISH M. P.S TURN UP; FIRST TIME IN 10 YEARS

BY E. R. NODERER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Aug. 21—Two Irish nationalist members of parliament who were elected in 1935 and again this year, turned up in Westminster today for the first time.

Known as the "Irish absentionists," they stayed away 10 years as a protest against the partition of Ireland by the British government 25 years ago. They are A. J. Mulvey and P. Cunningham who represent the dual seat of Fermanagh and Tyrone in Northern Ireland [Ulster].

In taking the oath they made a statement in which they said a "virtual dictatorship with all the continental trappings of secret and party police equipped with extraordinary powers" was set up in the six counties of Northern Ireland.

Seek to Present Claim

They explained they had come to London "with the object of doing everything in our power to forward the claim of the Irish people for unity and sovereignty of the Irish nation unnaturally divided 25 years ago by the British government.

"In that period in the six partitioned counties of northeast Ulster, the British government has encouraged and maintained a reactionary Tory minority in imposing their will on the Irish people contrary to all the principles of democracy and justice.

"The constituency we represent comprises more than one-third of Northern Ireland. In these two counties practically 60 per cent of the people repudiate partition and, coupled with the neighboring counties of Derry and Armagh, all four counties taken as a bloc show an appreciable majority against the division of the nation.

Hit Tory "Die-Hards"

"Taking Ireland as a whole, with a population of over 4,000,000, only about 800,000 in the northeast can be classed as supporters of the great wrong that has been perpetrated on our country. The old Tory die-hards who controled British policy in regard to Ireland and who have been directly responsible for the institution and continuance of partition no longer are in power.

"Now we trust the age of privilege may be brought to an end in Ireland as it has been brought to an end in England. Partition remains the sole obstacle to friendship between Britain and Ireland."

HOTEL ROCKED BY BOMB BLAST IN SOUTH BEND

South Bend, Ind., Aug. 21 (AP)—An explosion, which Chief of Police Harry T. Everett said was caused by a black powder bomb, rocked the four story Lincoln hotel in the downtown district here early today, causing some damage but injuring no one. Windows in the hotel and two nearby buildings were shattered.

Everett said the bombing was one of a series here in recent weeks. The home of Louis C. Curl, owner of the Lincoln hotel, was damaged by a blast May 8, and two blasts occurred in June at the Delmar club west of the city, Everett said.

The police chief quoted Curl as saying he knew of no reason for the bombings. Everett added that Curl admitted taking small bets on horse races but asserted he had not been approached by any one seeking to "muscle in" on the betting.

REVOKE ORDER FOR EXTRA PAY ON 6 HOLIDAYS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 21 (AP)—President Truman today canceled an executive order requiring war contractors to pay time and a half for work performed on six holidays.

The action, leaving employers and employes free to work out their own holiday arrangements within the limitations of stabilization policies, is expected to have little effect because of the cancellation of most war contracts. The holidays affected are New Year's, July 4, Labor day, Thanksgiving, Christmas, and Memorial day. Effective today, the cancellation does not interfere with payment of overtime to workers who stayed on the job last Tuesday and Wednesday while others celebrated the war's end.

program is generally recognized. The boy with a bad hand whose fingers need exercising is put on the job of bending hydraulic tubing; if his shoulder needs strengthening, he flattens strips of scrap iron with a heavy mallet. All the company's drill presses are set up so they can be operated either by hand or by foot, depending upon which of the patient's muscles need the workout.

Birmingham doctors heartily indorse the program.

There's No Goldbricking

Goldbricking is unheard of. Instead, most patients beg for more work.

Birmingham's soldier-patients are helping other wounded GIs thruout the country by turning out parts for the artificial arm used by arm amputees. Both the new movable wrist and the stainless steel control cable that operates the amputee's hooks are manufactured by Northrop, and much of the work is done at the hospital.

In an automotive design class, GIs who've been itching to streamline their jeeps are doing just that. And on real jeeps, too.

In a home planning course, homesick lads who whiled away their time in Jap prison camps making sketches on scrap paper of that dream house they were going to build some day are realizing the fulfilment of that ambition.

Aided by Architects

With the aid of artists and architects, blueprints are drawn up and scale models made of everything including furniture. All that's left too do is to transform the scale model to life size—via army back pay.

Col. Alvin C. Miller is commanding officer of this hospital and Maj. Russell V. Burkhard is chief of reconditioning.

Birmingham General hospital was named for the late Brig. Gen. Henry Patrick Birmingham, once surgeon general of the army, who contributed many medical practices now used in the service.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

Aug. 22—First Fitch Steamship

MEMBERS of the constitutional convention, then in session in Philadelphia, lined the banks of the Delaware river on Aug. 22, 1787, when John Fitch launched and operated the first of his four steamships.

All of Fitch's boats were mechanical successes but financial failures and it wasn't until nine years after his poverty stricken death that Robert Fulton, another inventor, in 1807 actually opened the era of the steamboat.

Fitch was a metal craftsman from Connecticut who turned to surveying and then devoted the last 13 years of his life to his passion for steamboats. Five state legislatures granted him monopolies before he launched his first craft, which resembled an Indian war canoe. Steam furnished the power for propulsion of 12 oars, six on a side.

Later Fitch boats used paddles and a primitive screw, testifying to the versatility of his inventive mind. He made regularly advertised trips, carrying freight and passengers from Philadelphia, Pa., to Trenton, N. J. Once he speeded upstream 20 miles in 3 hours and 10 minutes.

No business man, Fitch wasn't interested in construction and operating costs and he didn't demonstrate that steam transportation was economical. He lost his financial support after a storm wrecked a new boat he was building. It was named the "Perseverance."

Fitch had a patent from France and went to that country in an effort to establish steam transportation on waters there. Again he failed. He came back to New York and operated a yawl, moved by a screw propeller, on a pond there.

Squatters overran the Kentucky land on which claims had been staked by Fitch the surveyor. Money obtained from his engraving of a "Map of the Northwest" was spent in financing his early boats. He died July 7, 1798, in Bardstown, Ky. A national monument to his memory was erected there in 1927.

TAX PAYMENTS IN CHICAGO AREA SET U. S. RECORD

More federal taxes were collected in the northern Illinois district of the internal revenue department in the fiscal year ended June 30 than in any other district in the nation, Nigel D. Campbell, district internal revenue collector, said yesterday.

Taxes amounting to $3,201,036,804.77 were paid in this district, which consists of Chicago and Cook county and 25 other counties. The entire state paid federal taxes of $3,766,335,175.71, which Campbell said was 8.67 per cent of all the taxes collected by the government in the fiscal period, altho Illinois has only 5.81 per cent of the country's population.

The heavily populated third New York state district, which usually paid the nation's highest federal taxes in other years, paid $2,994,463,398.12 in the past year. This district includes part of New York City. Income, excise, amusement, automobile, luxury, and other federal taxes were included in the total collection figures.

HELPING HAND ASKED TO HEAL GI WAR WOUNDS

Public's Role in Peace Told by Gen. Kirk

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Tacoma, Wash., Aug. 22—The guns of battle have been silenced but for many thousands the war will live on.

This message was brought home emphatically last night by Maj. Gen. Norman T. Kirk, surgeon general of the United States army, as he reminded a peace conscious nation that peace is not yet won and will not be won until the wounded GI is returned to his rightful place in society.

This job is up to the public, Gen. Kirk said in an interview after the dedication of the 7,000 bed Madigan General hospital at Fort Lewis, Wash.

Madigan is the 66th general hospital in the United States operated by the department of the army service forces.

An All-Time High

"The population in our general hospitals has reached an all-time high," Gen. Kirk said.

On Aug. 14 there were 312,000 army hospital patients in this country. This does not include those still hospitalized overseas, nor navy casualties.

"It can readily be seen," Gen. Kirk added, "that the work of the army medical department is far from over with the cessation of hostilities.

"But society must give them a break when they leave our hospitals. Compassion, well wishing, and sympathy tends to make bums out of men who want nothing more than to be treated the same as they were before they were wounded."

Asked what percentage of the wounded would be permanently ruined or handicapped for life, Gen. Kirk said:

10,000 in Hospitals

"That depends entirely upon the attitude of the public. Our amputees and even our blind are finding useful jobs or going back to school. Certainly they don't consider themselves ruined for life. The surest way to break down their present high morale is for the civilian public to make them feel they're inadequate and helpless."

More than 4,000 major amputation cases already have been discharged from army hospitals, and there are still almost 10,000 army amputees hospitalized, he said.

Gen. Kirk also disclosed that all the wounded from Europe are now back in the United States, and that most of the Pacific casualties will be returned within 60 to 90 days.

60,000 AMATEURS, SILENT 4 YEARS, GO BACK ON AIR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 21—The nation's 60,000 amateur radio operators, who have been silent since Pearl Harbor except for civilian defense or emergency broadcasting, were put back on the air tonight under a temporary order of the federal communications commission allotting them the 112 to 115.5 megacycle band until Nov. 15.

The commission said other channels will be opened after they are relinquished by agencies using them for war purposes. The announcement added that before the three month period is over future government policies for amateur broadcasting will be made public.

For the present the amateurs will share the 112-115.5 band with the war emergency radio service in which many of them were volunteer operators. The service, which is due for elimination by Nov. 15, was established after the start of the war to serve as an emergency communications link in defense extremities or cases of peril to public health and safety.

How Meat helps restore our convalescent fighters

Meat 3 times a day—

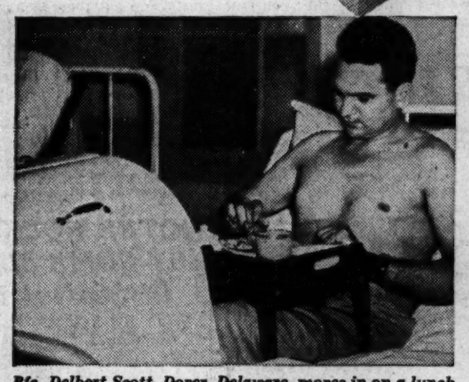
Meat for a Man for a Week

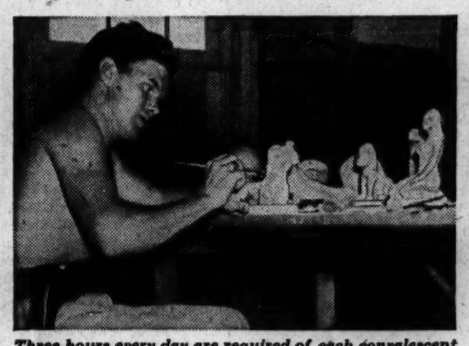
Who deserves more of everything than the convalescent fighter—whether he serves in the air, on the ground or on the high seas?

Here is a typical week's supply of meat as served to patients at the AAF San Antonio Convalescent Hospital—one of 12 such hospitals maintained in the United States by the Army Air Forces. Our sick and wounded in all branches of the service are being helped back to health with "high protein" diets.



Pfc. Delbert Scott, Dover, Delaware, moves in on a lunch built around country fried steak and gravy. A protein-rich diet (which calls for a lot of meat) helps speed recovery from injuries.

Convalescent muscles need retraining through normal exercise as well as rebuilding through such foods as protein-rich meat. That's why these Air Force returnees get opportunities for their favorite sports as well as for their favorite foods.



Three hours every day are required of each convalescent for congenial activity. The purpose is to provide interesting activity for mind and muscle—to make men just tired enough for restful sleep. Sergeant Edward M. Rose, Seminole, Oklahoma, is shown modeling in clay.

Lieut. Lucinda E. Hughes, Chief Dietitian, and Lieut. E. J. Scheaffer, Chief Mess Officer, AAF Convalescent Hospital, San Antonio, check the day's meat supply at the PDC Coolers. It's up to them to plan three meat meals a day for 2500 patients.

Photos by ... J. H. Conrad, SAD, AAF, PDC

Our men in convalescent hospitals are being rebuilt to health with a speed never before known in war. The farsighted program of the Personnel Distribution Command of the Army Air Forces, headed by Major General Ralph Royce, is an excellent example.

One of the ways in which the recovery of these men is hastened is by feeding them generous quantities of meat three times a day. This is not just to spur their appetites, but to put into their bodies the protein substances (amino acids) which they have lost.

When the body loses protein excessively (as in wounds, severe burns and infections) or when the diet does not provide enough protein (as with starved prisoners) the body literally "eats itself."

Meat has the right kind of protein to make up these losses. It contains all ten of the essential amino acids needed to maintain and rebuild the body.

This emphasizes anew the rightness of our age-old liking for meat.

BUSES TO PLAY LARGER ROLE IN CHICAGO TRANSIT

Many Car Lines Likely to Be Replaced

Rehabilitation of Chicago's traction system will undoubtedly result in the replacement of many street car lines with bus routes, according to Philip Harrington, chairman of the governing board of the Chicago Metropolitan Transit authority. It is proposed that the authority buy and merge for operation under public ownership the surface and elevated lines.

"We have outlined an improvement program that would retire and replace 4,000 pieces of rolling stock, exclusive of elevated cars, in 10 years," Harrington said. "Tentatively the plan calls for the purchase of 950 street cars and 2,200 buses, trolley or fuel driven. In addition 500 more vehicles are to be bought and it will be decided later whether they will be buses or cars.

Street Cars on Long Routes

"It is probable that street cars of the most modern type will be retained on the long routes with heavy traffic. Buses logically would be used on short lines and for light traffic. We will be guided by developments in the choice of vehicles for intermediate lines.

The surface lines are now operating more than 400 buses and have 270 on order; they also have ordered 200 new street cars.

"All types of rolling stock have their advantages," Harrington continued. "The thing to do is to put them where each will do the most good. Rerouting may make important changes in use with an integrated system. Whatever is done must have an idea in view—to get the customer to leave his car at home. He'll do it if mass transportation is good."

Harrington indicated there is no intention now to eliminate street cars and the L structures entirely, as New York is planning to do.

He said, however, that when the Dearborn street subway is completed and connected up with the west side L lines, it would be possible to tear down the structure on Lake st. and Wabash av. The Wells-Van Buren sides would be retained as a north-south operation serving the west side of the loop; all west side rapid transit would pass thru the Dearborn st. tubes.

REPORTS POLIO PASSES PEAK IN ROCKFORD

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 21 [Special]—Despite two deaths and 12 new cases in the last 24 hours, physicians fighting infantile paralysis here said today the outbreak has passed the peak of its virulence and is declining.

Since July 1 there have been 164 cases of poliomeylitis in the Rockford metropolitan area, with 19 of them resulting fatally.

Dr. Donald W. Gudakunst, medical director of the National Infantile Paralysis Foundation, who came here yesterday from New York, said that for the last week new cases have been much milder than those reported in the early stages of the outbreak. He estimated that the total of cases eventually may reach 200.

The Rockford school board has decided to delay the opening of school a week to Sept. 10.

U. OF MINNESOTA CATTLE EXPERT GETS $1,000 PRIZE

Dr. Willard L. Boyd of the University of Minnesota was given the $1,000 Borden award and gold medal for the most outstanding research of dairy cattle disease problems by the American Veterinary Medical association at the Palmer House last night.

In its citation the association stated that Dr. Boyd had written more than 30 scientific papers on cattle disease research over a period of more than 25 years, contributing to the preservation of the nation's live stock.

Dr. Boyd is chief of the veterinary division of the University of Minnesota.

DAY by DAY on the FARM by GAIL COMPTON

August 21, 1945

SURVEYING the results of the clover harvest, the men have decided they need some bees. The stands were fairly good in some of the fields, but poor in others. Because each field received approximately the same treatment, the men believe improper pollinization may have caused the uneven stands.

Bees are necessary for good pollinization of clover. Farmers are advised by the agricultural colleges to have hives placed fairly near large clover fields. Besides aiding the clover, the bees also will help the fruit trees. The farm now is studying the advisability of erecting some hives and buying some bees. One farm resident would be glad to offer the services of the bees that have taken delight in using his house for a rendezvous.

Good News for Poultry

The chicken farm is to get a new house for the poultry. The order is out to buy one that will house about 200 adult laying birds. The farm has needed a new poultry house for a long time and the flockmaster will be a happy man when the new one is erected. He is anxious to destroy some of the old buildings because they are hard to keep sanitary.

One of the Wheaton farm youngsters has made a pet out of the farm peacock and has it eating out of his hand.

Rivaling the appearance of the new red Shorthorn calf is another Angus calf born a short time ago. This brings to 14 the calves born this year to the Angus herd. More are scheduled to arrive in the fall.

Year of Evolution

During an idle moment, the other day the farm workers were discussing the evolutionary changes that have taken place on the farm this year. The outstanding ones were in the method of making hay.

The barn hay drier is doing an excellent job of taking care of fresh green hay brought directly from the field. It dries the hay, leaving it a bright green, and permits saving of almost all leaves. These have the highest feeding value of the hay plant.

The field hay cutter also marks a milestone in preparing hay for silage. Another implement used with success at the farm is the machine with pressure rollers that crushed the alfalfa stems and enabled the hay to dry in record time.

One of the new things used at the farm that promises to make work easier is DDT to control flies and garden insects. The answer to most of the weed problems was found in the testing of chemicals that protect grass but destroy weeds. The men agreed that this season has seen more improvements in farming than any other single year.

The GARDEN by Ben Markland

[This is the third of a series of articles on autumn planting of coldframes and hotbeds.]

LEAF lettuce and radishes are the two vegetables most commonly planted in hotbeds at this time of the year for September and October harvest. In larger frames, carrots and beets also may be planted in patches or closely spaced rows. Some gardeners raise a few tomato plants, cauliflower, and broccoli in autumn frames, but to accommodate these tall growing vegetables it is necessary to build wood extensions on the frames to hold the sash at least 24 inches above the soil level.

The growing of vegetables in hotbeds involves highly intensive culture, and to support large plantings in a small area it is important that the soil be well fertilized. Rotted, strawy manure or commercial fertilizer should be liberally applied to the soil bed before planting.

ALL 85 POINT GIs AT FT. SHERIDAN DUE OUT IN WEEK

Maj. Gen. John T. Pierce, commanding general at Fort Sheridan, said yesterday that all enlisted men at the post with 85 points or more will be discharged within the next week, regardless of the importance of their army jobs. Lt. J. P. Trisch, chief of the military personnel branch at Fort Sheridan, estimated that approximately 350 overseas veterans, assigned to the post or to prisoner of war camps under the supervision of Fort Sheridan, would be affected.

MEXICAN ALIENS FREE IN BAIL TO PICK TOMATOES

Danville, Ill., Aug. 21 [Special]—Fifty-three Mexican aliens brought here from Texas by a desperate farmer who needed them for his tomato harvest were freed from the county jail late today to resume tomato picking.

Marie Burnett, United States court commissioner, transferred her court to the jail to set the Mexicans' bond at $500 each on charges of conspiracy to violate the immigration laws. Bonds for all were signed by Charles W. Neubert, their employer and owner of a 600 acre farm near here.

Neubert was named on a similar charge and was released after signing his own $500 bond. He and the Mexicans were ordered held for action by the September federal grand jury.

The government charges Neubert sent Jose Benavidas, a United States citizen, to Mexico to recruit laborers, and that Mexicans who sneaked across the border in response to Benavidas' job offers were picked up by a truck supplied by Neubert. The Mexicans were arrested Saturday while at work on Neubert's farm.

MAYOR DEMANDS RESTORATION OF TWO BUS LINES

Mayor Kelly yesterday urged the city council and its committees to request the office of defense transportation to permit the surface lines to start operating buses on the Kimball and Kimball-Homan routes, shut down under reductions nearly three years ago. Both lines were among the most heavily traveled in Chicago. Surface lines officials said they asked ODT to approve the operation weeks ago and were told that they might have a favorable answer by Nov. 1 if the buses were available. The lines have been promised buses for autumn delivery.

Two at Training School Flee from Farm Detail

Aubrey Cornwell, 16, and Herschel Cox, also 16, escaped yesterday from the Illinois State Training School for Boys near St. Charles. They had been working on a dairy farm detail, Richard Eddy, managing officer, said that Cornwell was committed to the school from Carmi, Ill., Aug. 1 on an assault charge, and that Cox was committed from Granite City, Ill., July 16 on a larceny charge.

GET THE DOUGLAS AIRPORT NOW

The Douglas airplane plant, according to present plans, will be completely shut down by Sept. 1. Thereafter the only use of the well developed airport at the plant will be for casual army landings.

Mayor Kelly has already committed himself to the acquisition of the airport as a commercial port for Chicago. The city should get it right away. The present city airport has inadequate facilities, is overcrowded, and its further expansion is not feasible either financially or physically. The Douglas port is bigger and better and can be expanded when the need arises.

The whole country has been caught short in its plans for reconversion and a lot of things are going to happen faster than any one would have imagined only a few months ago. One of the things that is going to happen is a tremendous expansion of civilian air travel. If Chicago wants to hold and improve its present position as a center of that travel, adding to its present domestic services terminal facilities for international flights, it is going to have to move and move fast. It is our belief that flights from this city to Europe, and perhaps to South America, are going to start much more quickly than previously was thought possible, providing this city can offer the facilities.

The Douglas port is the best available site for additional airport facilities. Even if the city had title to it or permission to use it today some time would be required to prepare it for commercial use. That time is precious. There are no really serious barriers to acquisition. The city should get to work right now.

THE LAST STRAW

Paper shortages are nothing new to THE TRIBUNE. It experienced them during the last war. Once, before the United States had engaged in that struggle, a Tribune executive got the last consignment of newsprint available from Pacific coast mills because he forgot the progress westward of the sun and got the broker handling that paper out of his bed early in the morning to buy it. When the broker reached his office he found half a dozen other bidders waiting for him.

Since newsprint is the principal raw material of a newspaper and represents the largest single cost of its production, the management of THE TRIBUNE foresaw that a newspaper unable to obtain a supply of newsprint at a fair price might be forced into bankruptcy, however able and prudent the conduct of its other affairs. Accordingly, THE TRIBUNE started construction of a paper mill at Thorold, on the Welland canal in Canada, in 1913. Its original charter, granted by the Illinois legislature in 1861, included permission to engage in paper manufacture.

After the war we discovered that the paper mill which did not have its own supply of pulpwood is just as badly off as the newspaper without a guaranteed supply of newsprint. Accordingly, arrangements were made with the government of the province of Quebec to conduct pulpwood cutting operations on public lands bordering the Gulf of St. Lawrence. The growth of THE TRIBUNE for the next two decades and the foundation and marvelous success of its sister newspaper, the New York News, made necessary a collateral expansion of The Tribune company's paper making activities in Quebec.

At the beginning of the present war various subsidiary companies were engaged in cutting pulpwood on timber limits ranging from Shelter bay, at the northwest corner of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, to Heron bay on Lake Superior. Two large paper mills were operating, the original one at Thorold and the most modern mill in the world at Baie Comeau, a model town which was literally hewn out of the wilderness of the province of Quebec. A fleet of steam and motor ships transported the pulpwood and the finished paper.

We were fortunate in the choice of executives for these enterprises. They were constantly in the forefront in improving processes of paper making and in the design of machinery used in the mills. From the beginning The Tribune company took the view that it was not in the paper making business except so far as it was necessary to assure its own supply of newsprint. Its policy, rigidly adhered to for more than 30 years, was that it did not sell newsprint to other newspapers. This policy was the result of an agreement with the provincial governments and the newsprint industry of Canada.

All of this forethought and the skill and ability of an organization built up over a quarter of a century did not gain THE TRIBUNE or New York News a single extra pound of newsprint when paper rationing was started before our entrance into the war. We suffered the same reduction that every other newspaper did, and the excess capacity of our mills was used to make semi-finished pulp and other products, some of which went into war uses and some of which were finished by other mills for the use of other American and Canadian newspapers. At this we did not complain. It was recognized that war time required sacrifice and the yielding of special advantages, even tho those advantages were no more than the result of foresight and good planning.

Recently, however, THE TRIBUNE'S mill at Thorold was ordered by the Canadian administrator of newsprint to use part of its capacity to manufacture pulp for Australia, and newsprint to be turned over to the French supply council. While Canada makes almost all of the newsprint manufactured on this continent, an equally large percentage of the production is used in the United States. In the close cooperation during the war between the governments of Canada and the United States, Canadian authorities entrusted to the war production board in this country the distribution of newsprint and coöperated with the WPB in carrying out its plans. The latest diversion order originated in Washington, not in Ottawa.

This is a little too much. It is bad enough to have had taken from us the product of our industry, enterprise, and effort in order to give it to other newspapers in this country which lacked similar foresight. To take our production and ship it abroad is carrying socialism and socialistic confiscation far beyond the bounds of reason.

The grievance, obviously, is not ours alone; it is one of every American newspaper. The more production is diverted from the mills that normally serve the United States the longer American newspapers will have to suffer from a newsprint shortage.

VETERANS COME FIRST IN AMERICA

A house subcommittee has been conducting hearings in Chicago to study what immigration policy should govern the United States after the war. It is encouraging to learn that most of the witnesses opposed lowering the gates to a flood of immigration from Europe. A number of spokesmen sensibly advocated that all immigration be cut off until returning veterans are assured jobs.

With this view THE TRIBUNE fully concurs. Our responsibility is to the veterans first. Americans are not callous to suffering in other parts of the world, but no one could say that we are failing in a recognition of humanitarian obligations. This country is paying 72 per cent of the cost of international relief and is probably the source of an even greater proportion of relief supplies. In making them available to sufferers elsewhere we are taking food and clothing off our shelves and are depriving our own people of coal and other materials which are in short supply.

Sentimentality has no place in determining immigration policy. No country in the world is as attractive as America is now. It has escaped the destruction of war visited upon almost every other country. It has come thru the war stronger and more prosperous than any other nation, despite the impairment of its resources and assets. It offers liberty, as almost no other country does.

In addition to these natural and valid attractions, it has at present an administration which, if it gets its way, would guarantee every one a job at minimum wages or would pay more for unemployment compensation than almost any European worker could earn, and which would extend pensions, public health services, and other social security on a scale which would fulfill the old philosophy that the world owes us all a living. Of course, Europeans want to come here and get in on the gravy train. Why shouldn't they?

Our policy in accepting immigrants should be as selective as that of an employer building a business organization. The employer wants quality personnel, people who can make a contribution to his enterprise. That should be the criterion in admitting immigrants. The only question should be, what do they offer to the United States? We are in the position of laying down the rules. We should take only the best of the applicants, whether our annual world quota remains at 154,000, as at present, or is decreased.

But before we start applying even this policy, we must see that our veterans, who have served the country faithfully and to its great advantage, are protected in their stake in America's future. They must have access to the best jobs, to the most promising opportunities for advancement, and they must all be placed in situations satisfactory to them, before we start looking around to determine what outsiders should have the advantages of America extended to them.

HORRORS OF PEACE

A note on the front page of THE TRIBUNE the other day gave us the jolting reminder that peace, too, has its horrors. The Western Union Telegraph company is restoring the singing telegram, for four years a casualty of the war man power shortage.

We looked about us. There are, we discover, quite a few minor flies in the balm. Pretty soon the ladies will have their nylons back, and we will be looking at crooked seams. The artist in us shudders. The first vacuum cleaner salesman may be welcomed with open arms, but what of the second, the third, the fourth, and the fifth to jangle our doorbell? Gas rationing is gone, and the Sunday driver is back. Then there is the coming age of plastics. We don't know whether we are going to like the coming age of plastics. We've seen juke boxes.

All this reminds us of a story Larry Rue brought back from London concerning Aneurin Bevan, in the days before he had to put aside his levity for the dignity of a Labor government ministry. Mr. Bevan one evening found his favorite corner in his favorite pub preempted by some boisterous young men from the 8th air force. "O, for the good old days when we were losing the war all by ourselves," he moaned.

Test Your Horse Sense

By Dr. George W. Crane

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers below.

1. There are how many cycles in a kilocycle?
   100 1,000 10,000 100,000
2. Which one of these creatures is least likely to bark?
   Wolf Fox Seal Dog
3. A "cock and bull" story should make one think of which term?
   Intimidation Inebriation
   Exaggeration Consternation
4. Which one of these carat numbers would indicate pure gold?
   14 carat 18 carat 24 carat 32 carat
5. Which one of these is part of a horse's harness?
   Brace Bit Reamer Hammer
6. Try to identify the American Presidents in the left hand column with their occupations as listed in the right hand column. You deserve one point for each correct matching.
   [a] Woodrow Wilson [v] Engineer
   [b] Warren Harding [w] Haberdasher
   [c] Calvin Coolidge [x] Publisher
   [d] Herbert Hoover [y] College professor
   [e] Harry Truman [z] Lawyer

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

ANSWERS

1. 1,000. 2. Wolf. 3. Exaggeration. 4. 24 carat. 5. Bit. 6. [a] Wilson—professor [y]; [b] Harding—publisher [x]; [c] Coolidge—lawyer [z]; [d] Hoover—engineer [v]; [e] Truman—haberdasher [w].

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Reg. U. S. Pat. Office

"FOR THE FALLEN"

Shortly after the learned gentlemen to this column's left had overflowed with opinions on the Potsdam conference and completely inundated the space [Aug. 4] that A Line O' Type or Two has occupied for two generations, they began to quote poetry. It almost seemed as if the invaders had gone home with feathers from the wings of Pegasus in their helmets, or, to change the metaphor, with a touch of iambic fever, which haunts this territory.

• • •

That aftermath, altho flattering, added to our post-liberation problems. Our mailbag became filled with requests for identification of the verses that had appeared on the other side of the fence in the issue of Aug. 11. Old subscribers living in regions barren of libraries hoped that we would send copies for their scrapbooks. We did our conscientious best with this chore, and now we will prevent its recurrence by quoting the poem in full. Fortunately it is short.

• • •

FOR THE FALLEN

They went with songs to the battle, they were young,
Straight of limb, true of eye, steady and aglow.
They were stanch to the end against odds uncounted,
They fell with their faces to the foe.

Age shall not weary them, nor the years condemn.
At the going down of the sun and in the morning
We will remember them.

Laurence Binyon

• • •

This poem, written in World War I. by a distinguished English man of letters, appears on many memorials all over the British empire. It has been set to music by Edward Elgar. It may be found in Binyon's "The Four Years," published in 1919, in his collected poems, and in the Viking Book of Poetry, an anthology published in 1941. Binyon was born in 1869 and died in 1943. For 20 years he was curator of oriental paintings and prints in the British Museum.

FOR THIS WE FOUGHT

The guns at last are strangely mute,
The bombs no longer blast the air.
No more shall men, in mad pursuit,
Extinguish cities, proud and fair.
The beast of war has had its fill;
Its victim, earth, at last is still.

On many a shore spent warriors lie,
Sad Europe is one tragic grave.
Beneath the battle-ridden sky,
Where wide Pacific waters lave,
The foe, retreating to his lair,
Now languishes in black despair.

Was, then, our conflict but for this—
A broken world, in agony;
Great cities made a sacrifice
To fiendish hate and savagery;
Massed millions, rapt and ardent souls,
By war's grim wrath made hellish ghouls?

For this we fought: that men might dwell
In lasting peace on every shore;
That boasting tyrants, born of hell,
Might be brought low, to rise no more;
That truth and right might find new birth;

A Case of Photo-Allergy

Roused from a reverie by the click of a camera as I walked to the station from business, I looked up to find myself the target of an itinerant photographer. I took the numbered card he handed me, whereon I read that for the sum of 50 cents I could obtain three prints of the picture that had been snapped.

Curious to see an unposed picture of myself, I mailed in the 50 cents and . . . the photos have just come.

Ah! Robert Burns! No need for your immortal words today. No need for you to sigh, "O wad some power the giftie gie us, to see oursels as ithers see us." The giftie's here before me, and the only comfort I can find is in the title of your poem in which those words appear—"To a Louse," it is called.

THE ANCIENT FAITH

O, one can be so sure about the hills!
The transient things that grow upon the sod,
They live their day, a mission each fulfills,
But hills will always stay—they're sure, like God.

And so, "The hills are old," we say; they're like
The stars we are so sure of in the sky,
And may our faith, like them, forever live,
As deathless as a dream that will not die.

U. W. writes: I have been discharged from service after spending the last 11 months in a hospital. Where do I apply for money I paid for insurance which I dropped when I was discharged?"

You are not entitled to any refund on insurance premiums paid when in service. Premiums paid for national service life insurance were for protection in the event of death. Unlike ordinary or 20-year endowment policies, national service insurance accumulates almost no reserve value. Therefore, because the government gave you the protection you paid for, you have nothing coming.

J. P. writes: "I have been discharged after two years and seven months of commissioned service. I could have stayed in the army but chose release on points. Does the fact that I chose release affect my bonus? I have been out over a month and have not heard from the war department. To whom can I apply for the money?"

If your bonus papers were made out at the time of discharge, you will be paid in due course. Payment of the $500 a year bonus to flyers has been delayed pending decision of the controler general on the question of whether payment should be made only for the time an officer held his reserve commission or for that time plus the time he held an army of the United States commission after promotion to the temporary rank of first lieutenant. The controler has ruled all time counts.

THE TONGUE-TIED CHILD

RECENTLY one of our readers asked: "Is there such a condition as tongue-tie?" The answer was in the affirmative but, as a matter of fact, the condition is joining the ranks of rare or seldom seen irregularities.

What is meant by the expression? Leading from the tip of the tongue to the floor of the mouth is a small fold called the "frenum linguae." Once in a while, this membrane is abbreviated and the tongue can neither be protru led nor raised.

In the newborn infant, the organ is not yet fully developed. With growth, it becomes longer and thinner toward the end. Before this time, the inexperienced individual is likely to believe that the frenum is abnormal but actually it is almost impossible to determine at this age whether or not the structure is shortened. Time will tell.

In the past it was not unusual to blame any disturbance in nursing on this phenomenon. Whether tongue-tied or not, the child should encounter little trouble in taking the bottle. In breast feeding there may be some difficulty but, in the majority of cases, it is the fault of the mother rather than the infant.

It is now fairly well established that this condition is not common. McEnery and Gaines report that in a large series of newborn babies they have never seen a tongue that needed to be clipped. They state further that, altho the operation has been considered simple, it is not without danger. Unless performed skilfully, there is always the risk of severe hemorrhage or infection. In the presence of such complications, we can readily see that pain would accompany the taking of nourishment.

The subject may again come to the fore when the youngster begins to talk. Between the ages of 4 and 5 years, speech disorders are often blamed on a short frenum. Again, this is seldom the cause as it was found in only four out of 1,000 children with speech defects.

It is true that in the pronunciation of the consonants T, D, L, N, and R the tongue plays an important part. But distorted articulation depends on so many factors that tongue-tie should not be considered the culprit without a thoro investigation. Other structures in the mouth may be responsible, as well as defective hearing, muscular skill, etc. But even if it were the basis, the youngster can be trained by corrective exercises to enunciate clearly. Surgery is seldom advised.

Normally the tongue is capable of movement in various directions. It can also undergo great changes in length and width due to contraction of its many muscles. The chances are that if the child can touch the roof of the mouth and the inside of the teeth there is no reason for alarm.

STARVED BRAIN

Miss O. L. writes: Does the brain require food like other organs of the body to function properly? Lately I have been feeling so dull that I wonder if my diet is responsible.

REPLY

The brain is no different from other organs and thrives on a well balanced diet. Unless the food intake is inadequate or so low that weight loss is noted, I doubt if your symptom can be explained on this basis.

NEEDLESS ORGANS

H. G. writes: What other organs can we live without besides the tonsils and the appendix?

REPLY

The spleen and gall bladder are other examples. Experience shows that many of us do very well without one kidney, lung, or sex gland.

RARELY

M. L. writes: Does a goiter become cancerous if it is not removed?

REPLY

CARDIAC ACTION

W. H. S. writes: Does a heart with a defect in the muscle beat the same as one that is normal?

REPLY

Yes, altho irregularities in the beat are seen more commonly in those whose "pump" has been damaged.

NUMBER OF BREATHS

R. S. writes: What is normal respiration?

REPLY

In a healthy adult, the rate is about 16 to 18 per minute. Of course, its rhythm may be affected by certain factors such as exertion, emotions, etc.

How It Came at Sea

[Letter from Lt. Comdr. G. Lane Eldred in the Pacific:]

"It was a grand U. S. O. show. A very pretty American girl was in the middle of a song from 'Oklahoma!', singing 'I'm just a girl who can't say no,' when the officers sitting on the signal bridge watching the show were annoyed by having an officer crawl out on the railing to whisper a few words in the ear of the captain of the ship and hand him a slip of paper which he read with the aid of light from a match. A few more words with the officer and then he retreated as he had arrived, crawling along the railing, cutting off our view of the show.

"Those of us who saw the incident felt that something must be happening to cause such an exhibition by the officer. Our feeling was strengthened when the captain began to whisper to those next to him. For some reason the air seemed charged as if by electricity, but we all tried to watch the show, keeping one eye peeled on the captain.

"In about 15 minutes another officer clambered out across the railing to talk with the captain, this time in much greater rush than his predecessor. Again the match was lighted, and again there was the whispering and the nodding. This time, however, the officer asked for the chaplain to go with him to the stage.

"The show was now on the final bars of the grand finale. All the officers were standing, watching closely the hurried approach of the chaplain to the stage, up the steps and before the spotlight just as the master of ceremonies bid us good night. The tension which had gripped the officers now had spread to the crew, and upon the chaplain's appearance they set up a great cheer which lasted for some minutes.

"The chaplain held up his hand for silence. In the other hand was a slip of white paper, made even whiter by the spotlights. His hand shook, and he started, 'The admiral . . .' and there his voice broke, and another cheer, this time a short one, came from the men.

"Surely something was in the air, something which would cause the admiral to direct the chaplain to make an announcement. Again he started, a wide grin now covering his face: 'The admiral has authorized me to make the following announcement: "A flash just received from Radio Toyko and also from San Francisco states that the imperial Japanese government are willing to accept the surrender terms as set down by the Potsdam conference."'

"It was exactly 9:10 local time [Aug. 11, Pacific time]. For just a moment there was complete silence. Then a cheer such as I have never heard broke out and swelled in volume until one would think it could be heard back in the United States. On the deck where the crew were sitting men were wrestling, shouting, pounding each other on the back, or simply jumping up and down. Such shouts as 'U. S. A., here we come!' and 'They are sorry now!' and 'Hot damn!' and even a few said, 'I want to see Halsey ride that white horse!'

"By this time, over the city beyond, sky rockets were climbing their way into the sky and bursting with all their noise and glory. Guns were firing in the distance, probably some merry maker celebrating. Thus was the news received aboard the flagship of the commander of amphibious forces, Pacific fleet, Admiral Turner."

HE SAW RUSSIA

Chicago, Aug. 19—Last night at my restaurant table the waitress seated a discharged B-17 pilot who had been shot down south of Berlin in March, 1945, and had escaped thru Poland into Russia. This boy had about every medal it was possible to earn in combat and his remarks about the Russians were most illuminating.

He was sure that the Russians are greatly overrated by two classes of people in our country, the avowed Communists and that class which, from fear of the unknown, wants to concede everything to this new and unknown element in history. He says that without three things, the Russians would have been defeated. First was the mud and lack of roads in Russia and the terrible first winter of the war. Second was the willingness of the Russians to sacrifice men by the millions, a wall of flesh against the German fire power. Third was the enormous contribution of American supplies, which he thought the most compelling.

The Russians had two planes, the Stormovik, an ungainly, slow, ground-hopping armored plane that we would never think of using, and a fabric covered biplane of World War I. design that was used for strafing and fell in swarms. Finally they had clouds of American Airocobras which they considered sent from heaven. All the trucks and artillery this American flyer saw were American except one model A truck, a replica of Henry's 1930 car. He cannot understand to this day how the Russians did anything against the Germans after seeing the latter's fire power, unless American equipment, plus the Russian willingness to die, plus the bombing of the Germans at home, offer the explanation.

He concluded with this statement: "The Russians have only one fear—America. They think we are out of this world with our inventions and our equipment. They have no desire to tangle with us and all we need to do is be firm and they will go along. But we are so hopped up with propaganda and fear of the Russian Bear that we give them their way everywhere and are fools for doing so. The Russian army is a mob—old men, women, children, and wild men from Mongolia. They have a regular whisky ration—stuff that would pickle the average man in a week—and when the ration is issued, you should see the shooting. I wish our peace makers could have been with me on my trip. They wouldn't concede anything to that gang that is now sovietizing Europe."

All of this confirms what a lot of us have been thinking. This war has been full of overestimates and underestimates. The Russian lovers in this country are legion. I conclude that most of them [excepting the fellow travelers] are motivated by fear of the unknown. Let them talk to the boys who have been there.

NOISY SALOONS

Chicago, Aug. 15—The saloons in the district I live in blast their juke boxes all night. Saloons close any time they please. It is obvious that this could not happen if the police did not desire them to remain open. Not only do they keep the juke boxes going, but they also hire a couple of bums who play some noisy instruments in addition to this nuisance. All over Chicago the saloons keep people awake. Get busy and help stop this nerve killer.

MR. PAUL

CAPITAL OF THE WORLD

THE HAGUE, Holland, July 12—After this second World war, during which culture suffered irreparably in Europe, we see that the center of civilization has moved from Europe to America. I call this "the jump across the ocean." For the first time in history, the center of the cultivated world leaves Asia and Europe, the eastern hemisphere, and moves to the western hemisphere, to the United States.

We can give the public extensive figures about economic performances in the United States. We can contemplate the American army, navy, and air force. But the salient point is that the United States has become the heart of the world. America has helped Holland on several spheres after its liberation. Holland shows its gratitude!

HOW TO GET AHEAD

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 14—A letter of Aug. 2, signed "Railroad Employe," interests me. It suggests that if the railroads are desperately in need of help, freight and passenger solicitors be put to other more necessary tasks.

I am a shipper, not a railroad man, but I judge that the writer must be a ticket clerk in the Union depot. If "Railroad Employe" desires to improve his position he should join the Chicago Traffic club, with their plush covered seats and bar at the Palmer House. I also suggest that if he wants to be a city solicitor, he should bowl about six nights a week in the Traffic and Passenger league. If he wishes to be a general agent, he has to play golf six days a week with a shipper.

Now that I have him up to general agent, I might as well promote him to a vice presidency so he can cut himself in on the small swindle sheet.

JACK COLEMAN

FBBI

Chicago, Aug. 16—Now that the war is over, I would like to suggest a new federal bureau known as FBBI, or federal bureau of bureau investigation.

The chief duty of this body would be to investigate the need of the numerous three and four letter bureaus, with the authority to dissolve any or all of them just as rapidly as they find them to be an unnecessary drain on the public treasury. This might in a small way help to reduce the national debt, part of which was incurred by these same bureaus.

TENANT WANTS REFUND

Chicago, Aug. 20—A tenant rented one of our flats on April 28. No lease was drawn up but it was agreed that the rent would start May 1. The tenant did not move in until May 10 and [1] he feels that he had a refund of 10 days' rent coming to him. [2] Is the landlord required to sustain such a loss when the flat in question was ready for occupancy on the first of the month?

TRUMAN NAMES ARMY COLONEL AS BYRNES AID

Washington, D. C., Aug. 21 (AP)—Col. Frank McCarthy, 33, of Richmond, Va., today was appointed an assistant secretary of state. He will succeed Julius C. Holmes, who recently resigned as assistant secretary in charge of administrative affairs.

Col. Frank McCarthy

Col. McCarthy, whose nomination by President Truman will be sent to the senate when it reconvenes, is a reserve officer and has served as secretary of the army general staff since Jan. 15, 1944.

For exceptional duty during his war department career he was awarded the distinguished service medal.

He will revert to inactive reserve status when he takes over his new job tomorrow in civilian clothes.

The new appointee was graduated from Virginia Military institute in 1933 with a B. A. in liberal arts. He was commissioned a second lieutenant in the field artillery reserve. He also has been an instructor at V. M. I. and a reporter on the Richmond News Leader.

U. S. ABANDONS HOUSING PLAN ON FORD'S LAND

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 21 (AP)—A controversy over proposed erection of a 1,410 unit temporary housing propect in suburban Ecorse township ended today when federal officials announced it had been abandoned.

The Ford Motor company, contending the project was unnecessary, had sought a court order to prevent erection of the buildings on the company's land. Federal housing spokesmen said the project was abandoned to curtail war expenditures.

LOOT TAVERN OF WHISKY

POLICE CAPTURE SUSPECT IN RAPE OF SAILOR'S WIFE

Evanston Questions 8 in Another Case

Chicago police held one rape suspect yesterday and Evanston police rounded up eight more as Virgil Peterson, operating director of the Chicago Crime commission, urged that a recently enacted statute be invoked to curb the rapidly mounting number of sex crimes.

Frank Walls

The statute is the criminal sexual psychopathic act passed in 1938. It provides that a sex offender declared to be a criminal sexual psychopath may be confined in an institution for the criminally insane until he recovers, after which he may be returned to Criminal court and tried on the original charge.

Tentative Identification Made

The suspect held in Chicago is Philip Peyrot, 24, of 5541 Pensacola av., a laborer. He was tentatively identified by the 25 year old wife of a sailor as the intruder who raped her in her home early yesterday. The victim, mother of two children, caused Peyrot's arrest when she saw him working near her home. Peyrot denied ever having seen her before.

Eight Negroes were held in the Evanston jail for interrogation in connection with the rape of an Evanston school teacher in her home by a Negro prowler Aug. 15. Police said one of the Negroes had admitted 16 burglaries.

Chicago police also sought a gang of young men, one of whom raped a young woman at 53d st. and the Outer dr. after frightening away her escort. She told police part of the gang led away her escort, whom she knew only as "Jimmy," while three others dragged her into some bushes, where all three attempted to rape her, but only one succeeded. She was taken to Illinois Central hospital.

Slain in Attack on Girl

Pierre D. Francis, 35, of 826 S. Wabash av., twice sentenced to prison for sex offenses, was shot to death by Frank Walls, 56, Negro, of 1520 N. Wells st., when Walls found him attempting to attack a 3 year old Negro girl in the basement of the Walls home.

Charles F. Fegan, 37, of 951 Lake st., Oak Park, a bottle washer who took two 14 year old girls riding Saturday night and kept them out all night, was fined $100 by Justice of the Peace Gilbert Volke in Oak Park on two charges of disorderly conduct. The girls testified he did not molest them.

Chief of Detectives Walter G. Storms said he is adding six men to the police homicide and sex squad to combat felonies.

IDAHO DRAFT BOARD REFUSES TO CALL UP MEN

Twin Falls, Idaho, Aug. 21 (AP)—The Twin Falls county draft board has canceled induction orders for 27 selective service registrants due to report this month and Chairman Hugh Boone said, "We're not going to send any more men to the armed services until congress clarifies the situation on the draft."

Twelve of the 27, originally ordered to report for induction Aug. 27, are less than 26 years of age.

In Washington, Maj. Gen. Hershey, director of selective service, declined immediate comment on the Twin Falls action. An aid, however, said he felt state headquarters in Idaho would be able to "iron it out."

"The reason men are being drafted now is to make it possible to bring home others who have been overseas for a long time," the aid said. "The President has spoken on this matter. While he announced that draft calls are being reduced from 80,000 to 50,000 he clearly implied that calls are to be continued. The army and navy still are making calls and it is up to us to fill them."

Naval Awards Presented to 3 from Middle West

Washington, D. C., Aug. 21 (AP)—Awards presented at ceremonies at the navy department today included: Comdr. William H. Johnsen, Burlington, Ia., the silver star medal; Comdr. Mell A. Peterson, Algona, Ia., the gold star in lieu of a second bronze star medal, and Capt. Frank P. Kreuz, medical corps, Menominee, Mich., the bronze star medal.

KELLY NAMES 17 TO SELECT SITE OF NEW AIRPORT

Council Confirms Board; Five Aldermen Picked

The 17 members of the Chicago airport selection board, entrusted with the responsibility of deciding where the city's future air field should be located, were named yesterday by Mayor Kelly, who told the city council that "a new and possibly an even bigger trade era" lies ahead.

The Douglas airport near Park Ridge, agreed upon by aviation engineers as the logical location, wasn't mentioned at the council meeting, which immediately confirmed the mayor's appointments. Aviation leaders have said the present airport will be outgrown in five years and have rejected alternative sites to advocate development of the Douglas port, now owned by the army.

Five Aldermen on Board

Ralph H. Burke, park district engineer.

Robert Kingery, manager, Chicago Regional Planning association.

Col. Merrill C. Meigs, chairman, Chicago aero commission.

William A. Patterson, president of United Air Lines, Inc.

Werner W. Schroeder, attorney and Republican national committeeman.

H. Ellis Stewart, Negro and insurance executive.

Aldermen Bowler [25th], Crowe [42d], Grealis [44th], Lancaster [37th], and Lindell [9th].

Printing of Bonds Ordered

"Europe today is no farther from Chicago than was Michigan City or Lockport in the days of Fort Dearborn," Mayor Kelly said. "Indeed any spot you may name on the globe—in Asia, South America, Africa, or Australia—is less than 24 hours from Chicago by air, less than was the east or west coast by rail."

A 15 million dollar bond issue for airport development recently was approved by referendum. The council authorized Controler Upham to award a $3,150 contract to the Columbian Bank Note company for the printing of 15,000 bonds, each for $1,000. The bonds will pay 1½ per cent interest.

COUNCIL VOTES BAN ON RACIAL DISCRIMINATION

The city council, by a 39 to 1 vote, yesterday passed an anti-discrimination ordinance introduced by Ald. De Priest [4th] and Ald. Harvey [3d], both Negroes. The dissenting vote was cast by Ald. Orlikoski [35th], who held that the measure, which provides for a $200 fine for persons convicted of practicing racial discrimination, should be subjected to study by a subcommittee before passage. The ordinance was sponsored by the Civil Liberties league.

Taxi Permits for Vets Turned Down by Council

The city council yesterday defeated, by a 35 to 5 vote, a motion introduced by Ald. Merryman [45th] providing for the issuance of cab permits to former service men. The vote was taken after Ald. Bowler [25th] informed the council that this question now is being investigated by the committee on local transportation which also is conducting a survey on whether additional cabs would be beneficial.

COUNCIL SHIFTS FUND TO PAY FOR GARBAGE CANS

The city council yesterday transferred $75,000 from a street department refuse collection fund into a special fund for the purchase of 30,000 garbage cans to be distributed free in an area bounded by Division st., Halsted st., Pershing rd., and the lake.

The transfer was opposed by Ald. Waller [43d], who protested earmarking of funds before the city was ready to buy the cans. Two bids have been received, but neither was accepted.

Waller also objected to the area selected because it contained slum districts which he said were owned by wealthy persons. He advocated a strict control over distribution of the cans to insure their falling into the hands of needy persons only. The transfer of the funds was requested by Mayor Kelly.

ALDERMAN ASKS CITY TO STOP ITS OUTLAY FOR OCD

Ald. Waller [43d] yesterday introduced a motion at the city council meeting urging cessation of all office of civilian defense expenditures now that the war is over. The OCD's name in Chicago has been changed to the Chicago War Service corps. The motion was sent to the finance committee for consideration.

TRAIN KILLS HIGHWOOD MAN

Dionigi Santi, 66, a retired laborer who lived at 322 Palmer av., Highwood, was killed yesterday when he was struck by a North Western passenger train at the Highwood av. crossing in Highwood.

JACOB M. ARVEY IS APPOINTED TO PARK BOARD

Appointment of Jacob M. Arvey, former alderman of the 24th ward, as a member of the park board, was approved yesterday by the city council. Arvey served with the army in the Pacific until his discharge recently.

Arvey will succeed the late Philip S. Graver, vice president of the board, and his term will expire April 25, 1947.

Arvey resigned from the city council and as 24th ward Democratic committeeman in March, 1941. He held a commission with the Illinois national guard, and entered service immediately after his resignation from his civilian offices.

He was judge advocate and civil affairs officer at army stations in the Pacific, including the Dutch East Indies, New Guinea, and the Philippine Islands. He is an attorney.

Kelly to Attend Hearing on Full Employment Bill

Mayor Kelly will be in Washington Aug. 30, he said yesterday, to testify for the full employment bill sponsored by Sen. Wagner [D., N. Y.] at a public hearing that will be held by the senate banking and currency committee. He will appear in response to an invitation from Sen. Wagner.

HEWITT RECALLS 7 CITY EMPLOYES ON WAR LEAVES

Public Works Commissioner Hewitt yesterday sent letters to seven engineer-draftsmen who were given leave of absence shortly after Pearl Harbor, asking them to return to their jobs by Sept. 1 or give notice that they do not intend to return. Most of the men, he said, are employed in west coast war plants and are urgently needed for the city's planning of post-war work. This, Hewitt said, is the first move to regain the services of 300 city employes who were granted leaves to work in war plants or at other important posts.

Slum Clearance Board Wins Approval of Council

Mayor Kelly yesterday obtained council approval of the appointment of a commission to coödinate state, federal, and city activities in slum clearance and rehabilitation. Also approved by the council was the mayor's proposal that bicycles impounded by police be lent to charitable institutions rather than sold at auction.

LEGION AND V.F.W. UNDER ODT FIRE ON CONVENTIONS

Neither Asks Permission, Director Charges

Both the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars were proceeding yesterday with plans for Chicago national conventions this fall despite an expression of displeasure from ODT Director J. Monroe Johnson.

Omar J. McMackin

Johnson said in Washington, D. C., that neither the Legion nor the Veterans of Foreign Wars had asked permission to hold conventions in Chicago. He added that the war committee on conventions, which he heads, had not approved the meetings.

Heavy troop movements, Johnson held, make it impossible to relax further at this time the ban on conventions. The committee recently increased from 50 to 150 the number of persons from out of town permitted to attend group meetings.

Truman to Be Speaker

Legion officials in Indianapolis refused comment other than to say it is not necessary to seek a license more than 30 days before the meeting, scheduled for Nov. 18. President Truman is to speak at this meeting as well as at the V. F. W. meeting on Oct. 2.

The Legion officials referred reporters to a recent statement of National Comdr. Edward N. Scheiberling, who had said Johnson told him at a meeting on July 9, that when the war with Japan ended the Legion might hold a full delegate convention.

Scheiberling said the full delegate convention planned for Chicago will bring 3,000 to 5,000 out of town visitors as compared with 100,000 at a normal Legion national meeting.

Sees No Bar to Meeting

National Adj. Robert B. Handy of the Veterans of Foreign Wars said in Kansas City that he saw no bar to the veterans' convention in the statement of the ODT chief. He said train travel could be held below the 150 requirement.

William J. Grace, past state commander of the V. F. W., viewed the ODT directive with some distaste.

Meanwhile state Legion leaders completed plans for the Illinois convention to open Saturday in the Hotel Sherman.

Omar J. McMackin, former Salem banker and business man, will be unopposed as candidate for department commander at the state convention. He now is senior vice commander of the Illinois department.

LIE TEST CLEARS SUSPECT, 19, IN MYSTERY DEATH

Lie detector tests yesterday cleared Robert Zielinski, 19, of 2904 N. Avers av., who was taken into custody last Saturday on anonymous information, of any connection with the mysterious death a week ago of Mrs. Mildred Bollenbach, 21, of 3846 Diversey av., a soldier's wife. Mrs. Bollenbach was found dead, half dressed and with her hands tied loosely behind her back, in her apartment. An inquest has been continued to Aug. 30 pending determination of the cause of her death. Capt. John O'Malley of the Shakespeare av. station said that while Zielinski apparently knew nothing about the death he would be held for further investigation.

Miss Mary Green Leaves Estate Set at $474,864

Miss Mary Pomery Green, a member of a pioneer Chicago family, left an estate estimated at $474,864, an inheritance tax appraisement filed yesterday in County court disclosed. Federal taxes on the estate were placed at $101,523 and Illinois inheritance taxes at $26,195. The estate is left to several nieces and nephews. Miss Green, who died March 5, aged 88, was the daughter of the late Oliver Bourne Green.

ONIONS CHEAPER, POTATOES UP IN NEW PRICE LIST

Effective tomorrow large dry onions will cost 5 cents less at 27 cents for three pounds while prices on potatoes will rise 1 to 2 cents, James F. Riley, Chicago area director of the office of price administration, said yesterday.

The new potato ceilings include long white, 29 cents for five pounds, up 2 cents; Idaho russet, 29 cents for five pounds, up 1 cent; white, 24 cents for five pounds, up 1 cent, and sweet potatoes, 20 cents for two pounds, up 1 cent.

Other changes in the weekly ceiling list include apricots, 20 cents a pound, down 1 cent; carrots, 5½ cents a pound, down ½ cent; spinach, 12½ cents a pound, down 1 cent; white grapefruit [Arizona and California], 13 cents a pound, up 2 cents; honeydew melon, 11½ cents a pound, up ½ cent; all plums, 20½ cents a pound, up 1 cent; dry onions [one and one-half to three inches] 26 cents for three pounds, up 1 cent.

Added to the list were Jonathan and red delicious apples, each 14 cents a pound; Stayman apples, 13 cents a pound, and greening apples, 13½ cents a pound.

TEEN AGE GANG LOOT IS FOUND HIDDEN IN CAVE

A cave near the Illinois Central railroad station at 11th st. was headquarters for a gang of boys arrested yesterday by Detectives William Hoey and Martin Tully, who said the suspects admitted stealing 25 suitcases from the station, snatching 12 purses, and pilfering numerous automobiles and trucks.

They are Herbert Ables, 16, Negro, who said he lived in the cave since he came to Chicago from Mississippi two months ago; Harry Williams Jr., 9, Negro, 4716 Calumet av.; Robert Hicks, 13, Negro, 3559 Wentworth av., and Julius Grant, 10, of 4249 S. Wabash av.

Detectives Hoey and Tully brought some of the loot from the cave to the Central police headquarters. There Sgt. Edward O'Malley identified a flashlight which he said was stolen from his car in the police parking lot.

CROWELL WILLS TO A TRUST HIS $4,373,512 ESTATE

Henry Parsons Crowell, honorary chairman of the board of the Quaker Oats company, left an estate of $4,373,512, according to an inheritance tax appraisement filed in County court yesterday by Attorneys Edwin L. Brown Jr. and W. Ayers Keplinger, the latter of the legal firm of Kirkland, Fleming, Green, Martin & Ellis. Mr. Crowell died Oct. 23, aged 89. Federal taxes were listed at $131,101 and state inheritance taxes at $33,063. Bulk of the estate was left to a trust fund created in 1927 as a memorial to the philanthropist's wife, Mrs. Susan Coleman Crowell, "to further Christian works and educational projects."

WIFE OF SOLDIER KEEPS 4 CHILDREN IN COURT RULING

County Judge Perry L. Persons in Waukegan yesterday dismissed a petition seeking to deprive Mrs. Dorothy Stocker, 25, of Prairie View, Lake county, of the custody of her four children on charges that she neglected to care for them properly. Custody of a fifth child, William, 5, the son of her husband, Pvt. Felix, and his former wife, was awarded to the child's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Florence Fichter of 3026 Odell av., Chicago. Pvt. Stocker is in an army hospital at Springfield, Mo., recovering from wounds received Sept. 15 in France.

DRIVERS WHOSE CARS ARE UNSAFE FACING ARREST

Edward J. Gorman, public vehicle license commissioner, yesterday authorized six deputies to arrest motorists driving mechanically defective cars. He said 2,041 motorists obtained safety stickers at the city's testing lanes Monday and estimated 3,000 stickers would be issued yesterday.

The lanes are at 5140 Lawrence av., 701 N. Sacramento blvd.; 31st st. and the Outer dr.; 1747 E. 95th st.; 68th st. and St. Louis av., and east of the Outer dr. between Wilson and Lawrence avs.

Judge John T. Zuris in Traffic court said traffic violations have increased 100 per cent since gasoline rationing was lifted.

OPA VIOLATORS SUSPENDED AND FINED IN COURT

The war's end brought no surcease in court yesterday for alleged violators of office of price administration regulations. Some were assessed for alleged overcharges, others suspended for alleged dealing in bogus red points.

Overcharge penalties: The Allerton hotel, 701 N. Michigan av., $963, for alleged overcharges for mixed drinks in Tip Top Tap lounge; Blackstone Liquor store, 309 E. 58th st., $121.50; Fine & Small Retail Poultry and Meat market, 3619 Roosevelt rd., $5. Injunctions also were ordered.

Suspensions: John Porten's bakery, 3650 Ogden av., 30 days, during which he may not deal in butter; John Salerno, market, 3511 Chicago av., 30 days; D. Carnbie, food shop, 1012 S. Halsted, 60 days; Chicago Cheese company, 3752 Magnolia av., 30 days; Earl U. Kurtz market, 2778 Milwaukee av., 15 days, and the Kurtz market at 1145 Wilson av., 30 days probationary.

Suits filed seeking treble damages and injunctions for alleged excess service charges: Roseland Frozen Food lockers, 11567 Michigan av., Anton Van Eekeren, proprietor, $12,078; Ace garage, 915 N. California av., unstipulated.

CITY CAN'T RAISE WAGES TILL 1946, AFL GROUP TOLD

Because of a state law regulating the city's budget, it is impossible for the city to grant a higher wage scale to 1,200 members of the Chicago Building Trades council now employed by the city, Ald. Bowler [25th], chairman of the council finance committee, old union officials yesterday. When the 1946 budget is considered, Bowler said, the prevailing union scales will be met.

In the meantime 40 members of local No. 1 of the Bridge and Structural Iron worker's union [AFL] remained on strike and work was held up on three important city projects. They are the Harrison st. bridge repairs, the city's new $700,000 terminal at the airport, and Michigan av. repairs near Grand av. The strikers demand an increase of 9 cents an hour over their present pay of $1.76 an hour. They have been on strike since Aug. 13.

City officials said that the employes on strike are under civil service and may be in danger of losing their rights, which include pensions, sick leave, and vacations.

U.S. ATTEMPTS TO BALK STRIKE ON I. C. FRIDAY

Mediation of a labor dispute with the Illinois Central railroad in which the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen has set a strike for 12:01 Friday, was ordered yesterday. Reconversion Director John W. Snyder announced he had redesignated a three man emergency panel to hear the dispute again in Washington, D. C., tomorrow.

Snyder asked the union to cancel its strike order and appear at the hearing. Last month recommendations made by the panel were accepted by the railroad, but the union rejected them.

Two points are at issue in the dispute: Establishment of an engineers' seniority date for promoted firemen serving as engineers, and readjustment of minimum mileage schedules under which demoted engineers reassume firemen's duties.

Chicagoan Held to Jury in Death of Bystander

Joseph Duetchy, 54, of 150 E. 113th st., Chicago, an engineer on the Illinois Central railroad, was held to the Champaign county grand jury late Monday by a coroner's jury in Urbana investigating the death of Carl T. Robbins, 44, of Urbana. Robbins, a bystander at a brawl, died Sunday of injuries suffered in a fall on a sidewalk. It was alleged he was struck by Duetchy. Duetchy was arrested in Chicago Sunday.

Mrs. Nancy Miller Sainty Estate Valued at $625,000

The estate of Mrs. Nancy Miller Sainty, daughter of the late George Miller, former president of the Nash Sales company in Chicago, who died Aug. 9 in England, is valued at $625,000, an estimate filed yesterday in Probate court disclosed. The will leaves $75,000 to an uncle, John T. Lee, 4802 Dorchester av., a retired business associate of her father's.

OUTER DR. MOTORISTS SOON TO BE GUIDED BY LANE SEPARATORS

Movable traffic separators, which give more room to rush hour automobiles on Outer dr. between North and Belmont avs., will be put back in operation as soon as the boulevard can be resurfaced, Otto K. Jelinek, park district traffic engineer, said yesterday. Surfacing will start tomorrow and require a week at the most, Jelinek added.

In 1942, when traffic fell off in war time, the park district used only the center unit of the three sets of metal fins in the pavement to divide streams of traffic. In future rush hours, the center separators, which provide four lanes of traffic in each direction, will be lowered to the pavement surface.

One of the outside separators will be raised, permitting six lanes in the direction of heavy flow and two in the other direction.

CALUMET REGION ASKS CLEANUP; SEES POLIO PERIL

The Calumet-Jeffery Improvement association appealed yesterday to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis and also to Mayor Kelly and the board of health to clean up what it describes as a potential polio source in the Lake Calumet region.

The association, in a letter written by George M. Brott, president, states that the north section of the lake has been dammed, and the ground is being filled with refuse. Flies and mosquitoes breed there as a result. The association added that six cases of polio were reported in the 101st st.-Yates av. section, and one more in Oglesby av., all in the wind path of flies and mosquitoes from the lake.

Five new cases of polio were reported to city health authorities yesterday. The total this year is 53, with three deaths. The total to Aug. 21 last year was 54, with one death.

ADULTERY CASE AGAINST WIFE OF GI DROPPED

Criminal charges of adultery against Mrs. Adele Bohenek, 23, of 920 E. 79th st., and Louis Bauer, 27, of 7840 Kingston av., an industrial engineer, were dropped by Judge Michael Tremko in Shakespeare Avenue court yesterday because of insufficient evidence.

The charges grew out of an altercation on Aug. 4 when Mrs. Bohenek was said to have stepped from an automobile and snatched her daughter, Sandra, 2, from the arms of her mother-in-law, Mrs. Anna Bochenek, near the latter's home at 5924 Wrightwood av. Mrs. Adele Bohenek has dropped the letter "c" from the family name.

Assault charges against her and Bauer, who denied driving the car, were dismissed at a previous hearing. Pvt. Walter Bohenek, 27, has a divorce suit pending against her.

WARN USED CAR BUYERS TO FILE TRANSFER WRITS

Purchasers of used automobiles must continue to file certificates of transfer despite the end of gasoline rationing, James F. Riley, area office of price administration director, said yesterday. The certificates are filed with local rationing boards. Riley asserted that local boards have collected refunds or damages for hundreds of purchasers who were overcharged on used cars. Settlements were made solely on the basis of checks on the transfer certificates and in none of the cases was it necessary to take legal action, he said.

Plans Are Laid for Horse Show at Castle Park

BY JUDITH CASS

CHICAGOANS who are spending the summer, or part of it, in Castle Park, Mich., are preparing for the big event of each summer season, the annual Holland-Castle Park horse show. The event is planned for next Wednesday and will be held, as usual, in a beautiful meadow that lies before The Castle, sheltered by a nearly complete circle of dunes, on which are built many summer cottages.

The show will start at 10 a. m. The Castle, as the main guest house is known, will provide lunch boxes, or spectators may bring their own picnic luncheons. After the show there will be the traditional horse show dance, held on The Castle's outdoor dance platform overlooking Lake Michigan.

Judy Butler, the junior Rush C. Butlers' young daughter, is one of Castle Park's most accomplished equestriennes and is serving on the junior committee for the horse show. Carter P. Brown and Mrs. Alfred D. Piamondon Jr. are among those on the general committee. Dr. and Mrs. Grant Laing's daughter, Cynthia; the Norman H. Gerlachs' son and daughter, John and Deeda; Mr. and Mrs. E. Cummings Parker's twin sons, Johnny and Jerry, and the junior Edward F. Hamms' daughter, Julie, are among the Chicago youngsters who will compete.

Other Castle Park News

The Piamondons' daughter, Miss Carol Piamondon, will miss the show this year as she is in New York pursuing a career in radio. When she returns to Chicago after Labor day she will be associated with the Chicago Civic Opera company during the coming season. Her brother, A. D. III., is with the army in Bremen, Germany.

The Piamondons, who expect to move into their new Scott st. home this fall, are sharing one of Castle Park's oldest cottages with the Newton P. Fryes of Glencoe, who were Castle Park regulars for 16 years while their children were growing up. Their daughter, Mrs. Edward Barrett, whose husband is with the army at Guam, is with them. Near the Frye-Piamondon cottage are the Francis Blossoms and their daughter, Miss Carol Blossom, who are at the resort for the month of August.

The happy reason for a toast or two in the cottage the Parkers again are occupying this season was the news that Lt. Harmar Denny Ker, with 53 points, is about to be discharged from the navy. Mrs. Ker, a week-end guest of the Parkers, heard the good news by long distance. Coincidentally, Mrs. Ker ran into two young cousins, Michael Corboy and his twin sister, Mona, who are guests of the Gerlachs and who just had heard that their brother, Lt. Edward Corboy, also is due for his navy release.

Other Chicagoans who have a cottage for the month of August are the Abner J. Stilwells and their pretty sub-debutante daughters, Sally and Betsy.

A flurry of excitement was created on The Castle's beach Saturday morning when the Andrew D. Berkeys arrived in their cruiser, the Behave Yourself, which Mr. Berkey nosed up onto shore for a short time. Later he docked the boat a short way north at Macatawa, and he and Mrs. Berkey will remain there for the horse show, sleeping on board.

Service Notes

Added to the increasing list of men who are turning in their service uniforms for mufti are Lester Armour and his son, Lester Jr. On his recent visit to Lake Forest last week the senior Mr. Armour still wore the uniform of a navy captain, but he hopes to receive his discharge soon. He has reported to Washington, D. C., for final orders.

Capt. Armour Jr. received a discharge a few weeks ago after flight duty in both the North and South Pacific. He and his wife and young daughter temporarily are at home with his parents. Two members of the Armour family, however, still are in uniform. Thomas Armour is on duty with the navy air forces in the South Pacific, and his younger brother, Vernon, just began his flight training in the army air forces a short time ago. Vernon is stationed at Keesler field, Miss.

The Albion S. Webbe family in Winnetka is having its first reunion in many months now that the Webbes' son, Lt. Scotson Webbe of the navy, has returned from 19 months of duty in the Pacific. While Lt. Webbe is here on a 30 day leave, his wife and two young sons, Scotson Lindsay and Richard White, came down to join him from Minne-

Her Wedding Set for Sept. 15

Miss Barbara Louise Ramser, who will be married Sept. 15 to Pvt. Edmund H. Reppert Jr., son of Mrs. Reppert of Flemington, W. Va. Miss Ramser is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Harold A. Ramser of Winnetka. Pvt. Reppert is studying in the Northwestern university medical school under the army reserve program.

Thru the Looking Glass

These sticky days are the kind to make a woman appreciate the luxury of refreshing colognes and toilet waters. It's a struggle to keep feeling fresh and sweet when the humidity makes you feel like a damp and limp piece of humanity. With a little effort, however, you can forestall the feeling for the greater part of the day anyhow.

A quick shower or tub bath in the morning is the best bet, followed by a generous dousing with a cooling, pleasant smelling fragrance, augmented by an all-over dusting with talcum or bath powder. With this kind of an armor, you can manage to feel and look crisply comfortable, despite the heat and humidity and the work to be done regardless of weather.

If the pungently sweet fragrance of the phlox that are now blooming so beautifully appeals to you, we'd suggest that you get yourself a bottle of toilet water in this fragrance for your refresher and sweetener. Personally, we can't think of a more perfect scent for use right now. It's in tune with the season, and in the version we have in mind, the fragrance is as true as if a cluster of the blooms were being worn. Anything too sweet is apt to be wearing after a short while, and this phlox scent nicely avoids any hint of sugar. It's the kind of fragrance you enjoy having about you and don't want to escape from after the first few whiffs.

For maximum pleasure we'd suggest you keep the bottle of toilet water in your refrigerator and have it icy cold when you slather it on. It will be all the more cooling and pleasantly tingly. There's a matching talcum with this, and the two make a wonderful dressing treat.

Miss Reimers' Wedding Set for Saturday

St. Mark's church, Evanston, will be the scene of the marriage at 5:30 p. m. Saturday of Miss Marjorie Marie Reimers and Capt. Gordon Percy Fairman of the army air forces, son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy W. W. Fairman of Wilmette. A reception will follow in the Evanston home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. David H. Reimers, who will give the bridal dinner tomorrow night in the Glen View club.

Mrs. John A. Haney will serve as matron of honor, and as bridesmaids Miss Reimers will have Mrs. F. Rolland Carson, Mrs. Robert F. Mathison, Mrs. William H. Mellick, and Miss Suzanne Hastings. Capt. Fairman and his bride will drive to San Antonio, Tex., where he will report for reassignment.

Miss Reimers, a graduate of the Roycemore school and of Northwestern university, has been serving as a nurses' aid at Wesley Memorial hospital. Capt. Fairman enlisted in the service while attending Northwestern. He has served for two years in the South Pacific and holds the distinguished flying cross and the air medal with two oak leaf clusters.

Lt. George S. Rasmussen, who arrived last week from army service in Europe, was just in time to serve as best man for his brother, Robert V. Rasmussen, when he and Miss Clarice Woods were married Sunday in Darien, Conn. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. James Thomas Woods of Los Angeles, Cal. Present at the ceremony were Mr. Rasmussen's mother, Mrs. Herbert Lothe of Lake Forest, and Dr. Lothe, who were married in June, and Lt. Rasmussen's wife, who went east to meet him when he landed in New York.

Mr. Rasmussen's first marriage to the former Ritchey Cheek Farrell of Nashville, Tenn., ended in divorce several years ago. He is a son of the late George Rasmussen.

From California comes the news of the marriage of Edmond M. Sullivan of Chicago and Mrs. Betty Pierce Snite, formerly of Plattsburgh, N. Y., and Highland Park. The wedding took place recently in Carmel, Cal., and Mr. Sullivan and his bride are at home in Los Angeles. Mr. Sullivan, son of the late Judge and Mrs. Denis E. Sullivan, has been discharged from the naval reserve, in which he served as lieutenant.

In a ceremony Saturday in the Flossmoor Community church Miss Mary Louise Whitney, daughter of Richard A. Whitney of Flossmoor and the late Mrs. Whitney, will become the bride of Dr. Don Chapman, son of Mrs. Robert Richard Chapman of Iowa City, Ia. A reception will follow in the home of the bride's father. Both Miss Whitney and her fiance were graduated from the University of Iowa. They will be at home in Houston, Tex., where Dr. Chapman will serve on the medical faculty at Baylor university.

French Perfumes' Scarcity Expected Until Next Spring

New York, Aug. 21 (AP)—French perfumes will continue to be scarce here until next spring, Charles S. Gage, vice president of Lentheric, Inc., reported today on his return from a European inspection trip.

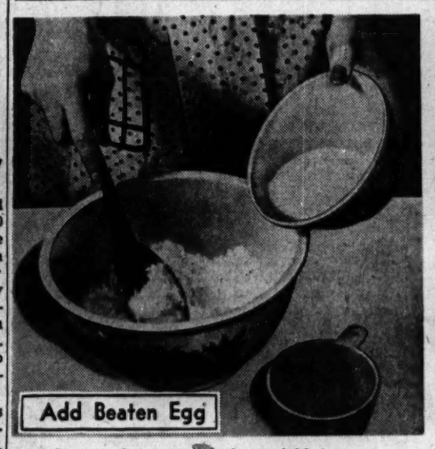
All available coal in France will be needed to help keep the people warm this winter, so the perfume and other luxury industries will have to wait until spring to get enough for power and production purposes," Gage said.

Besides the coal shortage and a scarcity of flowers, fats, and solvents for extracting purposes, Gage said stocks are low because of perfume purchases by American and British service men.

Alpha Delta Pi Plans Tea for New Students

Chicago area alumnae groups of Alpha Delta Pi will entertain at tea Saturday, Sept. 8, for a large group of young women who plan to enter colleges and universities this fall where the Pan Hellenic sorority has established chapters. Mrs. Martin A. Harnisch of Hinsdale is chairman for the party which will be held in the Chicago College club.

Mary Meade Gives a Picture Recipe for Cookies



1. Cream ⅓ cup shortening. Add 1 cup sugar, creaming until light and fluffy. Beat 1 egg slightly and beat into sugar mixture. Stir in 1¼ teaspoons grated lemon rind.

2. Sift together 2⅓ cups sifted flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, and ½ teaspoon nutmeg. Add alternately with ½ cup sour milk to make a stiff dough.

3. Chill dough thoroly and roll out in small portions on floured board to ⅛ inch thickness. Sprinkle with sugar and cut in attractive shapes with floured cutters.

4. Lift carefully onto ungreased baking sheet. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees) for 8 to 10 minutes or until delicately browned. Store, when cool, in covered container.

$5 Prize Recipe

Blueberry Cake

[Serves six]

¼ cup margarine
¾ cup sugar
1 egg, well beaten
½ teaspoon vanilla
1 cup cake flour, sifted
1½ teaspoons baking powder
⅛ teaspoon salt
¼ cup milk
Topping:
1½ cups blueberries
⅓ cup flour
⅛ teaspoon salt
½ cup brown sugar
2 tablespoons margarine

Cream shortening until soft and smooth; gradually add sugar, creaming until fluffy; beat in egg and vanilla. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with milk, beating until smooth after each addition. Turn into greased 8 inch square pan. Cover with blueberries and sprinkle blended flour, salt, sugar, and margarine on top. Bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees, for 35 minutes.

Bright and Gay Blouses Liven Up Fall Season

BY REA SEEGER

An array of good looking blouses for any fall wardrobe stems from the college collections. Here are blouses of every kind of fabric, every bright and neutral color, and a dozen different models.

You'll see jerseys with sleeves attached to the new wide arm holes, the affairs that end just below the elbow, and the styles that are worn crushed above the elbow. There also are the full length sleeves ending in fitted lines around the wrists. Some have the newest high swathed necklines, others have simple round necklines, and still others have vee convertible collars.

Plaid wool blouses, to be worn tucked in neatly under the belt of the skirt, have gathered sleeves with narrow cuff bands buttoned tightly. Some of the bright red wool blouses have long sleeves and are just as red as a fireman's shirt. Some have white pearl buttons, some have the "glitters," with the buttons and cuff links of gold colored metal. The same type of blouse comes in bright blue, beige, brown, black, and bright kelly green.

Striped flannels come both in quietly narrow stripes and in bold awning widths, in effective strong color contrasts and in combinations of colors. Classic white woolens, either in jersey or in flannel, provide a sharp contrast for navy blue or black suits or with plaid and with checked suits.

Rayon blouses with a shantung texture are featured in a half a dozen colors, including chartreuse green, flesh pink, beige, white, and pastel shades.

Washable cottons, almost as rare as the all silks, come in clean crisp stripes of color with white. These, too, have the tailored long cuffed sleeves, convertible necklines and collars, and the simple tailored silhouette of the all-purpose blouse worth its weight in cash.

DDT to Keep Flies Out for $1.75 a Year

Washington, D. C., Aug. 21 (AP)—DDT, soon to be available to the public in unlimited quantities, will give the average householder a high degree of protection against mosquitos, flies, and other household pests at a cost of between $1.75 and $3.50 a year, it was learned today.

Hot on the heels of an announcement yesterday by the war production board that controls on production of the remarkable war-developed insecticide would be lifted Aug. 31, a United States public health service official said in an interview:

"The average householder in the northern part of the country will be able to get a 50 cent hand sprayer, about a dollar's worth of DDT powder [about three cupfuls], a quarter's worth of kerosene, and a soapy emulsifier for mixing purposes, and have sufficient equipment to give his whole house the single spring-summer spraying sufficient to kill the large majority of mosquitos and flies entering the house.

"In the south, where the mosquito and fly season is of longer duration, two sprayings a year will be required.

"Even if householders thruout the nation should become DDT conscious enough to spray their homes every four months—which would be the ideal for year-around protection—the cost should not be more than around $5.25, provided the householder mixes his own ingredients. [The mixture is diluted with water.]

He said ready mixed sprays would naturally cost more.

[Householders who might mix their own sprays would have to exercise the same precautions with the raw materials that they do with other insecticides. However, raw DDT powder is only dangerous if eaten. In oil solution, such as in a spray, it is only dangerous when absorbed extensively thru the skin. In the small concentrations needed to spray a single house, there would be litle or no danger provided the spray were kept away from food.]

There will be enough DDT to enable every householder to grab a supply, says WPB.

The interview with the USPHS official stemmed from a public health service report outlining results of the first large scale tests of the effectiveness of DDT in the south.

The report disclosed that single sprayings of houses in Georgia killed up to 90 per cent of the mosquitoes entering a dwelling as long as 20 weeks after the spraying.

Ask Gifts for Jewel Craft Classes at Veterans' Hospital

The Chicago chapter of the Red Cross announced yesterday that odds and ends of silver, gold, copper, and semi-precious stones are needed in teaching metal and jewelry work to convalescent soldiers at Vaughan General hospital. This craft, which has proved to be very popular among hospitalized service men, is being taught by Emory Seidel as part of the Red Cross arts and skills corps program at the hospital.

Persons who have any of these materials are urged to send their contributions to the arts and skills corps, Chicago Chapter Red Cross, 529 S. Wabash av. The gifts will help to brighten the long days of convalescence for sick and wounded soldiers at the army hospital.

INSTALMENT XXVII

DAMAGING EVIDENCE

After dinner Ben saddled two horses, and Linda rode with him to the cross roads store. A few supplies were needed at the ranch, not enough to justify a trip to Redrock.

When they rode up to the store a man came out of the building to the hitch rack where his horse was tied. Linda felt a queer excitement pulsing thru her body. The man was Bruce Sherrill. He waited for the cousins to dismount.

Ben nodded to him, stiffly, but did not speak.

Linda said, her eyes drilling into his, "I hear a friend of yours has been killed."

"An enemy, perhaps," she challenged.

He brushed aside indirection. "What are you driving at, Miss Applegate? Say it plainly."

She knew the urgent impulse in her had carried her too far. "Do you know who killed this man Flack?"

His steady eyes mocked her. "No. Do you?"

"He was a spy. He was killed in revenge."

"You're wrong. He was killed because somebody was afraid of him."

"Afraid of him?" she repeated. "Why should anybody fear him?"

"He knew too much, and under pressure he would have talked. He had to be destroyed before he told what he knew."

She shook her head. "That doesn't mean anything to me. What did he know, except that he was betraying his side?"

"He knew there was no raid on the Pitchfork pasture Thursday night, that he had been paid to tell a cooked-up lie to Daly—and to give Cairns an old hat of mine to show I had been there."

"But there was a raid," she flung back. "Several Pitchfork steers were killed."

"By Cairns probably—to prejudice the government men against us homesteaders."

Linda turned puzzled eyes on her cousin. "Does that make sense to you—that Mr. Daly would kill his own stock?"

"I know Daly wouldn't," Ben told her. "He's up against it, Lindy, and has to find a story that will shift the blame to our side. So there wasn't any raid, and his friends weren't sore at Flack for double-crossing them, and it was the Pitchfork that was in a jam and rubbed out the spy. That yarn is too thin."

Bruce knew the facts must be as he had said. He had been up and down the creeks and talked with every homesteader within a range of a dozen miles. That none of them had anything to do with the murder of Flack he was convinced.

It was of slight importance to Bruce what Ben Randall thought of him, but the desire was strong in him to set himself right with Linda Applegate.

"Do you think I murdered Flack?"

Her answer took Sherrill as much by surprise as it did her cousin. She had been a great deal in his thoughts since she had come into his life at its most dangerous hour to save him from imminent death. What was it in a woman's eyes and lips, the turn of her head, the powdered freckles beside her nose, that set her apart from all others of her sex? And deeper yet, what was that electric spark which drew a man and a girl together, in close kinship of the spirit, regardless of their will to hate and of circumstances that made them enemies?

Ben said, with flippant irony, "Flack probably shot himself by accident while he was cleaning a gun, then after he was dead went out and flung the gun in the creek."

"Of it might be this way," Bruce suggested. "The man who hired him as a spy was afraid he might not stay hired and thought it a good idea to get rid of him before it was too late."

Bruce shook his head. He knew that he and young Randall were thinking of the same man, but he did not intend to go out of his way to start premature trouble. "Not now," he replied. "All I could do is guess—and my guess might not be any better than yours."

"Or as good," Ben told him scornfully. "Come on, Lindy. What are we waiting here for?"

Tim Humphreys went to Merritt Charlton, the county prosecuting attorney, with the information he had gathered about the killing of Flack. Charlton listened to the story and read the diary. He shook his head. There was no evidence pointing to the actual murderer, tho it was a fair guess that one of the creek settlers had shot him on account of his spying. The sheriff had looked into the threat made by Malloy. Two or three men had been present at the time, and they agreed that it had been a warning rather than a threat.

"It may be one of his neighbors killed him, but I don't see how we are going to find out who unless those in the know start talking," the lawyer said.

"I asked Sherrill to drop into your office," the sheriff said. "He ought to be here any minute."

"Does he claim to have evidence?"

Humphreys told what he had found out about the raid while at the Pitchfork. The assertion of Bruce that there had not been any raid was backed by what Flack had written in the diary. If this was true Bill Cairns had a potent reason for closing the mouth of the man. One of the ranch riders had mentioned casually that on the night of the 16th he had seen the foreman slip into the corral, saddle and ride away.

Bruce walked into the office, greeted the men, tossed his hat on a table, and sat down. He grinned cheerfully at Charlton. "Not guilty, Mr. Prosecutor," he said.

"Can you say as much for all your friends?" the attorney asked.

"I'm sure I can," Bruce answered. "We wanted Flack alive very much. Inside of 24 hours we could have proved by him the raid on the Pitchfork was a fake. They beat us to him and rubbed out our witness."

"You say he was your witness. That may be just a bluff. If the other side had had him in their pay why would he go back on them?"

"Because when we got after him he would not have had the sand in his craw to stand out. Flack was a weak sister."

"Can you prove Flack was a spy?"

Bruce had to agree he could not. But he believed that Daly would admit it now the man was dead.

"He was a paid spy," Humphreys admitted. "We have evidence of that, and we feel sure that you suspected it."

"I did. But he was not worth killing. We shut him out of our confidence. This last raid was a frame-up to get us in bad with the government men. When Tim began making inquiries about the raid somebody got frightened for fear the truth would come out. There was one way to prevent that, by getting rid of Flack."

Brands Medical School Plan for GIs Misleading

New York, Aug. 21 [Special]—Dr. Willard G. Rappleye, dean of the college of physicians and surgeons and of the school of dental and oral surgery of Columbia university, charged today that the government drive to enroll 12,000 veterans immediately in medical and dental schools, is misleading, and will create false hopes among service men.

Under the new federal program, as announced Monday by Man Power Chief McNutt, an attempt will be made to enroll 8,000 veterans in medical and pre-medical schools for courses starting this fall and an additional 4,000 in dental and pre-dental schools.

Not only are classes in existing medical schools already filled for this fall, Dr. Rappleye asserted, but they are operating, on an accelerated basis, at 110 per cent of capacity. Between 1942 and 1948, he said, they will have produced 10,000 more doctors than in any average six year period.

"I am very much surprised at McNutt," he said. "The situation as he pictures it is not true. For a short time we had some concern about filling the 1946 classes, but with the end of the war we will probably have a great number of candidates available. By 1947 the medical schools will be swamped, in the normal course of events."

Dr. Rappleye said medical schools in this country are turning out more than 6,800 doctors every year. This, he added, is twice the number of doctors who die annually.

Estimated on the basis of the number of students now enrolled, there will be 194,000 doctors in this country by 1949, or one to every 733 of the population. This, Dr. Rappleye noted, is a ratio twice as high as any other country in the world. He suggested that any momentary shortage of doctors is a result of the enlistment of 65,000 doctors in the fighting forces, and that the end of the war would soon solve the problem.

"McNutt's statement will create among some veterans the false hope that they can enroll in medical schools immediately," he said. "He is encouraging the men to do something that can't be done with the existing medical schools."

Opening lead, two of spades.

Locking the stable door comes too late when the horse has already taken French leave. It is frequently too late to plan a successful defense when two or three tricks have been permitted to slip by without being included in the general scheme of things. In today's hand failure to sit up and take notice at trick one, nullified perfect subsequent defense by the South player.

Against the three no trump contract North led the two of spades, dummy played the five, South the king and declarer the ace. The 10 of clubs was then finessed and South permitted it to hold, in an effort to shut out dummy's club suit. Declarer is known to have a maximum of two clubs. He has bid both red suits, which accounts for at least eight cards, North's lead of the two of spades indicates a four card suit, which allows dealer exactly three spades.

The club finesse was repeated and south won. He shifted to the queen of diamonds which was taken by declarer and a low spade lead towards dummy set up the jack as an entry to cash the clubs.

South's hold-up of the king of clubs was good strategy, but it came too late, because by his play to the first trick, he had set up a future entry into dummy by way of the jack of spades. His proper play at trick one, was to duck, permitting declarer to win the trick as cheaply as he cared. This would guarantee that dummy's club suit would be shut out, since possession of the ace of hearts renders dummy's king useless for purposes of entry. This was no time for that "third hand high" slogan.

THE QUESTION

What are some of your dating likes and dislikes?

WHERE ASKED

"Miss Chicago" beauty pageant tryouts, Kimball hall.

THE ANSWERS

Jay Harmon, model, 126 Ruth st., Calumet City—I definitely don't like to have it left up to me as to where we are going. I like to have my date say: "Tonight we'll go to this place for dinner and then after that we'll go dancing at [and name the place]. Would you like to do that or is there something you'd rather do?"

Elaine Osuch, stenographer, 4038 Melrose st.—It doesn't matter so much to me where I go on a date. The important thing is that the man is interested in what we are doing. I like a man who can have as much fun over a coke and a hamburger as he can over champagne. I don't like to hear of fun he had on other dates.

Lee Wartenberg, model, 7852 Essex av.—There's probably no time that passes so slowly as when you are waiting for some one. If I have a date at a certain time, I expect that person to be exactly on time, and if for any reason he expects to be late, he should phone me. I like a man who means "7:30" when he says it.

Ruth Blankenship, model, 1260 N. Dearborn st.—When I go out to dinner with a date I like to have him push a chair under me when I sit down at the table. It's little things like this that make me proud of a man. Most men have a certain amount of manners, but they aren't all polished enough to remember little details.

Marjorie Krieger, model, 5005 Windsor av.—Some fellows are so indefinite about where they are going to take you when they ask for a date. I like to know where I'm going and what we will be doing so I'll know what to wear. Even when I ask some fellows, "Well, what shall I wear?" they answer, "O, just put on anything."

Pat Wymore, model, dancer, Chicagoan hotel—My dislikes are very trifling and I'd never let them spoil an evening for me, but I loathe an exhibitionist. I like a man with lots of laughs, full of fun, and who is an intelligent conversationalist, but I believe he can avoid exhibiting himself to every one in the crowd.

Check Child's Health Before School Begins

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

As the school year approaches and some parents, and even many children, experience a feeling of apprehension rather than pleasant anticipation, it seems to me quite important at this time to write once again a short series of articles for these parents.

I think this because if the reasons for that apprehension can be uncovered, often the trouble can be corrected and the child can enjoy his school, which is important to his whole happiness. In addition, parents can be relieved of the nagging worry that accompanies the state of mind of a child who is constantly upset about school. It also is important to remedy anything that may be wrong, because frequently the child's whole state of health is affected when school goes wrong every day of his young life.

Is your child doing well in school? If not, you may feel discouraged and rather at sea as to what to do about it.

There may be a number of causes responsible: your child may be placed too high or too low in grade; he may be upset or unhappy over some home situation; the children at school may torment him, or just one may bully him; his teacher may not understand him, or he may not like her. These are all perfectly possible reasons for a child failing in school, but each one can be dealt with if you'll take the time and trouble.

But we are concerned today with the possible physical difficulties that might make a child do badly at school. Two that come to my mind are poor hearing and poor vision. Neither parents nor teacher may be aware of this, and not even the child himself, for how can he know how well he should see or hear? So look into that first, so he may be helped, seated correctly in the classroom, or put in a special class.

Next comes undernourishment as a cause of poor work in school. Your child may not have the right food, or he may have poor eating habits. Or he may, like most growing things, need to eat more often. A midmorning snack often works like magic. In many schools milk and crackers are served to the smaller children for a very small sum, and free to those children whose parents find it difficult to pay; and older children have access to the school cafeteria. This has created marked improvement not only in work but in behavior. Incidentally, keep an eye on school day breakfasts and lunches.

Next, there's low energy due to fatigue. Does your child sleep enough? Is the school journey too long? Is the school day too long? No child who is chronically tired can work well with his mind.

These are a few fundamental suggestions. It is a good plan to have your child gone over at least once a year by a good doctor.

Mrs. Sue W., Chicago—To keep the handle of a broom from marring a piece of furniture or a wall, I slip a crutch tip over the end of it. Thus I've had no more marred spots to remove.

Ruth L. Favenrodt, Glen Ellyn—Here is a trick I find convenient when working from a printed recipe: I thumb tack the instructions to the wall or cupboard at eye level. Then they are easy to read and save space on the work table.

Mrs. Tom D., Chicago—Your grandmother knew about this, but maybe if you are a new housekeeper, you don't! Damp tea grounds, sprinkled on a rug before sweeping, will help to brighten it.

Stage Note

Billy Rose, who will be at the Erlanger for Saturday night's opening of "Carmen Jones," is willing to consider a Chicago alternate for Elton J. Warren if he can find another Negro lyric soprano who looks like Cindy Lou in Oscar Hammerstein's Negro version of "Carmen" and can sing like Micaela in the Bizet original. Any such girl should apply to Mr. Rose, who doesn't bar amateurs in his quest.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Aug. 21—Hurd Hatfield expects to follow his role in "Diary of a Chambermaid" with the lead in "Red Shoes Run Faster"—a story Metro has had in storage for some time. Paul Green is the author of the screenplay, and Lucille Bremer probably will play the feminine lead. . . . On her return to Columbia, Irene Dunne will make her first musical in goodness knows when. It's to be a technicolor super-special. Do I hear some one paging Jerome Kern? . . . When "Dragonwyck" was studio previewed by 20th Century-Fox bigwigs, Darryl Zanuck was so pleased with Joe Mankiewicz's directing, he named him for both "Berkeley Square" and "Lonely Journey." Mankiewicz directed the Anya Seton novel, but Ernst Lubitsch produced it. . . . Thomas Mitchell's option has been lifted ahead of time because he'll figure largely in the studio's fall picture plans.

An Actor Moves Up in the World

William Marshall, tall and blond, who was given a long term contract at Universal when 20th Century-Fox dropped him, gets the lead in "Murder in the Music Hall," opposite Vera Ralston, at Republic. Bill once was a singer in Fred Waring's orchestra. Later he was on the Broadway stage. . . . Frank Sinatra gets $12,000 a week for his new radio show. Who says the bobby sox following doesn't pay off? . . . Most complete come-uppance in years is England's changing the name of "A

Gene Autry — Roy Rogers — Jacqueline White — Jane Wyman

Tree Grows in Brooklyn." They call it "Tree in the Yard." . . . Republic doesn't want to sign Gene Autry again, which is O.K. with Gene. The studio's reason is supposed to be that Gene's salary is so big they feel they can draw just as much box office with Roy Rogers and a far smaller salary investment. . . . When "The Yearling" cast was on location in Florida, Jacqueline White played the leading femme role. Back in the studio the part was given to Jane Wyman. When the picture is released, you'll see Jackie in long shots, and Jane in the close-ups.

Headaches for the Hays' Office

When Rita Hayworth plays her first bad girl role in "Gilda" [enacting the part of a lady with a list of telephone numbers as long as your arm] she'll wear 21 seductive gowns designed by New York's Jean Louis. The Hays' office can begin polishing its spectacles now. . . . Kay Kyser's message from Manila says, in part: "During the peace celebration, I was permitted to hand out the first military discharge. It went to Sgt. James of Belfast, Me. After the ceremony was over he held out his hand and said, 'You won't remember me, but I saw you and Hedda Hopper two years ago at Christmas on the California desert when you both entertained the boys.'" . . . To keep the record straight: Humphrey Bogart will not co-star with Errol Flynn in "Stallion Road." It was not bought from Paramount. It is being adapted for the screen from Stephen Longstreet's novel of the same name.

Bluebirds Will Fly Over Dover

England certainly is opening up the purse strings for its post-war pictures, Arnold Grant, lawyer for David Rose, yesterday took the Clipper to London to close the contract for "Holiday for Strings" which includes the services of Rose as musical director, composer, and scorer. The picture is named after Rose's semi-classical hit song. This is the largest budget named for an English musical in many years. The producers plan to draw on American studios for star names. . . . Ralph Peer writes from Rio de Janeiro that South American dancing has taken a strange turn since Walt Disney's "Three Caballeros" scored a hit with our good neighbors. "Samba dancers here," says Ralph, "are aping Joe Carioca's version." Well, that would be worth seeing, if I remember Joe rightly.

Quite a Change in Income

Dorothy Shay, who's making such a hit at Ciros, will return to the St. Regis hotel in New York at a salary of $1,250 a week. Four years ago Dorothy was making $50 a week at the House of Murphy here. . . . When one of our best known actors was lunching recently with a tactless gent, the t. g. burst out with, "Say, I've always seen you in movies wearing a toupee. I didn't know you were bald." The famous one smiled, said, "O, yes, I'm bald on the outside—some others are bald on the inside."

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

About Ourselves

Betty Oliver, editor of Business Girls' magazine, was in town from her home in Dallas, Tex., recently, armed with an array of statistics about career girls. Four thousand of them responded to a questionnaire that gave revealing sidelights about the girls who wear white collars.

Eighty-seven per cent replied that one of the prime needs of business girls is more education, particularly in English. Educational background varied. Forty-seven per cent attended high school; 23 per cent went to college; eight per cent were students at night school; 22 per cent went to business school.

Of the 4,000 girls, an overwhelming number [98 per cent] are making provisions for old age. Eighty-seven per cent save money, and 67 per cent want homes.

As to present living conditions, more than half [62 per cent] live with their families, 16 per cent live alone, and 16 per cent live in groups with other girls.

"And," said Miss Oliver, "those who think women lack ambition may be surprised to hear that of this group 84 per cent said they were interested in advancement."

Vacation Honeymoon

Now the vacation-honeymoon is over. You're back home and your two jobs are competing again for your time and energy. But it isn't over, really, because your heart is full of memories, sweet, perfect memories of little dreams come true. And, each time one of them flits across your mind, you feel a glow of secret happiness which lends enchantment to your workaday world.

You remember those hours shared, basking in a warm sun and a warm love; the quiet hours of luxurious leisure, filled with little things—reading aloud, going for a stroll, watching the sailboats, dressing for dinner. And the togetherness, always the togetherness. That was as perfect as you had known it could be.

There's the memory of the little white church where you went together, and gave humble thanks for your happiness; where you thought of K, and D, and prayed that their patient waiting would soon be ended.

On the Calendar

The last two weeks before Miss Sally Glaser's marriage Sept. 8 to Lt. Hartley Chamberlin Dewey of the army air forces will be filled with parties for the bride-to-be. Miss Audrey Aveyard will give a luncheon and shower today, and Mrs. Ernst C. von Ammon will be hostess at a handkerchief shower tomorrow. Miss Margaret Burnham is planning a record shower for Saturday. Next Tuesday Mrs. Henry Bartholomay III. will give a luncheon and miscellaneous shower, and the 29th is reserved for a luncheon and after dinner coffee cup shower, with Miss Ann Hoffman as hostess.

Miss Evelyn Coolidge will entertain at luncheon Aug. 31. Among the last of the parties is a kitchen shower which Miss Catryna Nevius will give Sept. 4.

The Mills College Alumnae club of Chicago will entertain at luncheon at 1 p. m. today in the Georgian hotel, Evanston, for new students at the college as well as those who will return soon to their classes. Mrs. Bruce Thomas and Mrs. Walter Fathauer, president and vice president, respectively, of the club, are in charge of arrangements.

13th Lutheran Hour Rally Will Be Held on Oct. 7

The Lutheran Business and Professional group, 410 N. Michigan av., announced yesterday that the 13th annual Lutheran hour rally will be held in the Chicago Stadium Sunday afternoon, Oct. 7, with Dr. Walter A. Maier, Lutheran hour preacher, delivering the sermon. William F. Meyer, president of the group, will be chairman of the rally committee. A Lutheran children's choir of 1,000 voices and a massed mixed choir of the same size will lead the music. Both of these choruses were featured at the Chicago Music festival last Saturday night.

Msgr. Morrison Is Named Pastor at Highland Park

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Joseph P. Morrison, rector of Holy Name cathedral, has been assigned as pastor of Immaculate Conception parish, Highland Park, where he will succeed the late Rev. James D. O'Neill. The chancery office has not announced Msgr. Morrison's successor at Holy Name cathedral.

Weddings

Mrs. Helen Bodholdt of Evanston went south for the marriage Aug. 16 of her son, Capt. Robert Hopkins Bodholdt of the army air forces, and Miss Doris Bronwen Davies, daughter of Mrs. Bronwen Holgate Davies of Scranton, Pa., and Miami Beach, Fla. The ceremony was performed in the chapel of the naval air station in Miami, with a reception following in the officers' club. Ensign Donald Bodholdt of the naval reserve was his brother's best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Henry Krumwiede of La Grange announced the marriage Aug. 1 of their daughter, Dorothy Jean, to Sgt. Edward Brennen Traub Jr. of the army, son of Mr. and Mrs. Traub of La Grange. The Wedding took place in the La Grange Baptist church. Sgt. Traub has taken his bride to El Paso, Tex., where he is stationed at Fort Bliss. He has served for 18 months in the north Atlantic. His bride recently was discharged from the WAC.

Lutheran Musicians Attend Valparaiso Music Conference

Fifty Lutheran musicians, among them outstanding Chicago musical leaders, are attending the second annual church music conference at Valparaiso University conducted by Dr. Theodore Hoelty-Nickel, dean of Valparaiso's school of music, Dr. O. P. Kretzmann, president, announced yesterday. The conference opened yesterday and will continue thru tomorrow.

Chicagoans among the guests include John Rieck, director of music at Tabor Lutheran church who directed the Children's Lutheran choir at the Chicago Music Festival; W. Carl Meyer, organist at Redeemer Lutheran church; Herbert D. Bruening, director of music at St. Luke's Lutheran church; Miss Marga Link, organist and choir director of Mount Olive Lutheran church, and Gerhard Shroth, director of chapel music at the University of Chicago.

Lecturers who will address the group are Dr. Hans Rosenwald, editor of Music News, Chicago; Dr. Leo Schrade of Yale university; the Rev. J. E. Sanderson of Gettysburg seminary, and Dr. Edward Rechlin, internationally famous Bach interpreter.

WOMEN'S GOLF FAVORITES GO INTO 2D ROUND

Great Matches in Prospect Today

BY CHARLES BARTLETT

Sixteen of the nation's top flight gal golfers yesterday fought their way thru a parade of chilling showers which harried the Knollwood club in Lake Forest to win their first round matches in the 45th annual amateur tournament of the Women's Western Golf association.

Running down the list of survivors in this thoroly drenched quartet of foursomes, you will not find a favorite's name missing for this morning's second round chore. There's Dot Germain, the personable Philadelphian who has won the last two W. W. G. A. Amateur crowns and is seeking to become the second woman in the long history of the old show to capture three titles in succession. There's Mrs. Mildred [Babe] Didrikson Zaharias, the versatile party from Los Angeles who took the last two Western Open titles in final arguments with Miss Germain, and who is making her debut in the Amateur, nor can you overlook the persistent Iowa twosome of Phyllis Otto and Ann Casey.

Misses Suggs, Freese Meet

O, yes, Louise Suggs, the Georgian who set an all-time qualifying record of 73, four under par, to win Monday's medal, also will be on hand this morning to meet still another up and coming swinger in Carol [Babe] Freese of Portland, Ore. So will such proven campaigners as Mrs. Albert Becker of Englewood, N. J., Betty Jean Rucker, the long hitter from Spokane, Wash.; Peggy Kirk of Findlay, O.; Sally Sessions of Muskegon, Mich., and the talented Dot Kielty from Los Angeles.

The ensemble and pattern of the program augurs for one of the best all-around scraps in the career of the amateur.

Miss Germain eliminated a worthy opponent in little Polly Ann Riley of Fort Worth, Tex., who forced Dot to a 39, one over par, which left her only one up at the turn. They halved the next two, then Dot swept the following four with the rain at its height for a 5 and 3 decision.

Mrs. Zaharias Extended

Mrs. Zaharias enjoyed no such progress, going 17 holes and being one down after nine to slender Jean Hutto, Kansas City collegian.

Miss Suggs found herself with a problem also, being one down to a tidy 40 submitted by Rena Nelson of Exmoor, former Chicago district title holder and winner of the medal in the 1945 C. W. D. G. A. event. Louise squared the match with a par on the 470 yard 11th, went one up with another par on the short 12th, then ousted the Chicagoan by taking Nos. 14, 15, and 16 for a 4 and 2 victory.

The defeats of Mrs. Nelson and of Mrs. L. H. Selz of Northmoor, 1932 W. W. G. A. open champion, left Chicago with one representative—Mrs. Frank Mayer of Lake Shore, new C. W. D. G. A. title holder. First round results:

CHAMPIONSHIP FLIGHT

Upper Bracket

Louise Suggs, Lithia Springs, Ga., beat Rena Nelson, Exmoor, 4 and 2.
Carol Freese, Portland, Ore., beat Mary Conwell, Cleveland, O., 9 and 7.
Claire Doran, Cleveland, O., beat Jean Hopkins, Cleveland, O., 3 and 2.
Sally Sessions, Muskegon, Mich., beat Beverly Ann Hanson, Fargo, N. D., 4 and 3.
Phyllis Otto, Atlantic, Ia., beat Alice O'Neal, Indianapolis, Ind., 3 and 2.
Dorothy Kielty, Los Angeles, Cal., beat Mrs. Hilda May Llewellyn, Champaign, Ill., 3 and 2.
Eileen Stulb, Augusta, Ga., beat Mrs. Alfred Bruno, White Plains, N. Y., 4 and 3.
Carol Clark, Wyoming, O., beat Dorothy Foster, Springfield, Ill., 1 up, 19 holes.

Lower Bracket

Ann Casey, Mason City, Ia., beat Shirley Spork, Detroit, Mich., 5 and 4.
Marjorie Row, Anniston, Ala., beat Betty Jane Haemerle, St. Louis, Mo., 5 and 4.
Mrs. George Zaharias, Los Angeles, Cal., beat Jean Hutto, Kansas City, 2 and 1.
Peggy Kirk, Findlay, O., beat Mrs. L. H. Selz, Northmoor, 3 and 2.
Dorothy Germain, Philadelphia, Pa., beat Polly Ann Riley, Fort Worth, Tex., 5 and 3.
Betty Jean Rucker, Spokane, Wash., beat Margaret Muench, North Shore, 6 and 5.
Mrs. Albert Becker, Englewood, N. J., beat Mrs. Harold Foreman, Lake Shore, 5 and 3.
Mrs. Frank Mayer, Lake Shore, beat Arlene Tweet, Green Bay, Wis., 3 and 1.

SECOND ROUND PAIRINGS

Miss Suggs vs. Miss Freese; Miss Doran vs. Miss Session; Miss Otto vs. Miss Kielty; Miss Stulb vs. Miss Clark; Miss Casey vs. Miss Row; Mrs. Zaharias vs. Miss Kirk; Miss Germain vs. Miss Rucker; Mrs. Becker vs. Mrs. Mayer.

Chicago Cardinals Buy Blackwell of Redskins

Washington, D. C., Aug. 21 (AP)—Carol Blackwell, an army dischargee and former South Carolina full back, was sold today by the Washington Redskins to the Chicago Cardinals of the National Football league.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD

THIRTY-FOUR universities and colleges are represented on the All-Star football squad. . . . Tulsa, winner over Georgia Tech in the Orange bowl last New Year's day, leads with seven players. . . . Charley Trippi of Georgia, who is wearing an All-Star uniform for the third straight year, thinks this squad may lack some of the individual brilliance of the 1943 group that whipped the Washington Redskins, 27 to 7, but it has better balance. . . . Trippi, who now plays with the Third Army Air Force eleven, last year was almost universally recognized as the best back in the United States. . . . This from Lt. Ed [Moose] Krause, one of Notre Dame's all-time greats, who is serving in the Pacific: "One of the proudest and happiest moments of my life was that night in 1934 when I trotted out under the huge spotlight in the original All-Star game at Soldiers' field. The highest honor I have received in football was being co-captain with George Sauer of Nebraska of that 1934 squad." . . . The 1934 All-Stars played a scoreless tie with the Chicago Bears. . . . Lt. Eggs Manske of Northwestern, who also was a member of the 1934 All-Stars, sends his best wishes to the 1945 squad from the Pacific. . . . Since the cancelation of gasoline rationing, ticket applications for the Aug. 30 game against the Green Bay Packers have come from points as remote as Texas and Utah. . . . Jack Dugger, one of the leading ends on the All-Star squad, was a basketball and track headliner as well as a football regular at Ohio State.

This 'n that about other All-Stars: Bob Ivory of the University of Detroit rates boxing his No. 2 favorite sport. . . . Bob Long of Tennessee, a blocking back, scored his first touchdown in college competition against Fordham in 1942. . . . Gordon Appleby, center who captained Ohio State last season, is an expert golfer. . . . Joe Renfroe, Tulane half back, has no complaint about the food at the North Shore hotel in Evanston, where the All-Stars dine, but he is especially pleased when he is served fried chicken. . . . Earle Brown of Tennessee and Frank Lopp of Wisconsin list Charley Trippi as their favorite athlete. . . . Ellis Jones, Tulsa's famed one-armed guard, has played in two Sugar bowl games and one Orange bowl. . . . Clyde Johnson of Kentucky, who weighs 270 pounds, is the heaviest member of the All-Star forces. . . . Ralph Foster, Oklahoma A. & M. tackle, and Glen Burgels, Tulsa tackle, are infanticipating. . . . Bernie Singer, Arizona full back, comes from Chicago's Lane Tech High school. . . . Corwin Clatt, Notre Dame full back, played against Great Lakes as a member of the Irish back field in 1942 and against the Bluejackets as a soldier at Camp Grant in 1943. . . . Ted Cook, Alabama end, tied with Trippi for scoring honors on the Third Air Force eleven last fall with 42 points. . . . Cook scored two touchdowns against Boston college in the 1943 Orange bowl contest. . . . John Strzykalski, Marquette half back, scored six touchdowns, forward passed for five more, and carried the ball 126 times for 579 yards in his last season with the Milwaukee unit.

Speed Up the Clock

Speed up the clock, he's on the sea.
Joy overshadows sorrow,
Speed up the clock, the papers say
His ship will dock tomorrow.

These days seem like an endless chain
Of hours, slowly dying,
My heart would prod time's laggard flight,
It's tardiness denying.

Speed up the clock, that I may hear
His step and cheery greeting,
That I may open wide the door,
And hold him close at meeting.

Speed up the clock, how can I wait
Another ageless day
To see again my soldier son,
Speed up the clock, I pray.

The Strength of the Small

With wings the bird defeats the sky,
Small swords of starlight slay the dark;
The clinging vine at length becomes
The master of the coarsest bark.

The nameless silence of the woods

And dredge the sea, and weigh the stars. —Frank H. Keith

Jazbo's Journal

A Japanese spokesman states that his country greatly regrets the "introduction of the atomic bomb has taken the chivalry out of warfare." You know, if it weren't for the laughs they keep handing us, a body could get awfully out of patience with those little brown men.

Our Mamie and I were discussing a little something that had come up in the family circle and I said comfortingly, "Remember, Mamie, the gods make us pay for the gifts they give us." "Fair enough," replied Mamie, "but they don't have to charge us sales tax, too, do they?" That Mamie is a one.

The Soldier Returns

Sweet music to the one who's had his fill
Of battle din. The yard seems strangely small
To eyes that have been wont to range o'er all
The reaches of the sky and distant shore.
All is the same yet packed with something more
Of beauty never seen before. The tree,
Where hung the swing in boyhood days carefree,
Nods welcome with its boughs. Mom's pansy plot,
In all this little scene the brightest spot,
Remains her special pride. And 'round it all
The picket fence still guards this kingdom small.
Home again! Stepping with eager tread
Where lonely thoughts in dreams have often led.
Back to the haven he has helped secure

College Roster Now Numbers 66

BY WILFRID SMITH

[PACKERS' CAMP NEWS ON NEXT PAGE]

With Pvt. Bill Huber, former University of Notre Dame end, in camp, and with Tex Warrington, Auburn center, returned from New York, where he was called last week by his wife's illness, the personnel of the College All-Star football squad numbers 66. While Huber was last of the college men to arrive, he still has a chance to participate in the battle with the Green Bay Packers in Soldiers' field Aug. 30.

The contribution Huber makes will be determined by the speed with which he masters the offense his mates have been studying for more than a week. Physically, Huber should be ready to share the duties at left end. In 1943 he was chosen to start against the Washington Redskins. Huber also played last year against the Chicago Bears. His only year of competition at Notre Dame was 1942. The following season he played for Camp Grant's Warriors.

Bierman Meets with Quarters

The All-Stars continued their program of double practices yesterday, making it the eighth day on which Head Coach Bernie Bierman has had his men on the field both in the morning and afternoon. The only change in the plan of drill yesterday was cancellation of the lecture to the squad which has preceded the morning work on the gridiron. Bierman substituted a meeting of players who will direct the offense when, and if, they play against the Packers.

The list of quarter backs includes Don Greenwood, Illinois; Charley Trippi, Georgia; Les Horvath, Ohio State; Charley Mitchell, Tulsa; Bob Long and Bill Meek, Tennessee, and Tom Harmon, Michigan.

Horvath directed Ohio State's attack last season, when the undefeated Buckeyes won the Western conference championship. Meek and Long were members of the 1942 University of Tennessee eleven which defeated Tulsa in the Sugar bowl game the following New Year's afternoon. Greenwood was Illinois' quarter back in 1943 and 1944. Trippi, with three years experience on service teams since he played on Georgia's victorious Rose bowl team [Georgia defeated U. C. L. A., 9 to 0], and Harmon are outstanding because of their knowledge of football tactics and their coolness in competition.

Tom Can Direct Team

While Harmon did not direct Michigan's attack in his three years of competition [1938-'40] he might have been assigned this responsibility if the Wolverines had not had Forest Evashevski.

In his first scrimmage, Harmon completed two passes and broke thru for runs of 30 and 35 yards. Trippi, Perry Moss of Tulsa, and Harmon are bracketed as outstanding candidates for the tail back spot.

Horvath is a possibility at two positions. At wing back are Greenwood, Ralph Park of Texas, Ernie Bonelli of Pittsburgh, Edmond Shedlosky of Tulsa, and Jim Dewar of Indiana.

Full Backs Plentiful

Bob Kennedy, Washington State; Ed Allen, Pennsylvania, and Walter Schlinkman, Texas Tech, are the best of the group of full backs. Blocking backs, according to yesterday's alignments, are Mitchell, Long, and Meek. Meek received three football awards at Tennessee and the way he handles his 195 pounds insures participation in the game with the professional champions.

Sam Gray, Tulsa end who will coach at Lakeland, Fla., this fall, has joined the group which will be unable to play against Green Bay because of injury. Gray suffered a pulled tendon in his right foot.

All-Star Luncheon

THE annual All-Star football luncheon will be held tomorrow at 12:15 p. m., in the Sherman hotel. Tickets, priced at $3.75, may be purchased at the Tribune Public Service Office, 1 S. Dearborn st.; the Sherman hotel, and the Junior Association of Commerce offices, 1 N. La Salle st. Reservations may be made by telephoning Franklin 7700.

AND THE BIG GAME IS ONLY EIGHT DAYS AWAY

One of the finest backs in Washington State's history is Bob Kennedy, free wheeling full back who will play with the College All-Stars against the Green Bay Packers in Soldiers' field Aug. 30. [TRIBUNE Photos]

KENNEDY ALSO IS AN ALL-STAR AT TABLE TENNIS

Bob Kennedy, Washington State full back, has established himself as the All-Stars' table tennis champion at the Collegians' Evanston camp. Kennedy challenges all comers between workouts for the game with the Green Bay Packers in Soldiers' field the night of Aug. 30. Gordon Appleby, Ohio State center, and Martin Silovich of Marquette are daily victims of Kennedy's prowess.

An All-Star victory over the Packers will be sweeter to Stanley Mohrbacher, Iowa tackle, than to any other member of the squad. During his collegiate playing days, Mohrbacher performed in only one winning game. That was in 1943 when the Hawkeyes defeated Nebraska.

Sgt. Joe Pawlowski of Illinois is looking forward to a starting guard assignment against the Great Lakes Bluejackets, in the scrimmage scheduled for the Naval Training center, Saturday afternoon. Pawlowski, on furlough from the army infantry camp at Fort Benning, Ga., was a member of the Illini eleven which lost to the sailors, led by Minnesota's Bruce Smith, 6 to 0, in 1942.

Dick Barwegen, Purdue guard, and one of the five native Chicagoans on the All-Star squad, will be in familiar surroundings when the collegians trot out on the Soldiers' field turf to line up against the Green Bay Packers.

Barwegen, 22 year old, 6 feet tall and who weighs 220 pounds, has made six appearances in the big lake front arena as a member of the unbeaten Fenger High school elevens in 1938, 1939, and 1940, his team mates including Don Griffin and Ray Florek, who later enrolled at Illinois.

Now a corporal in the army, Barwegen is on routine furlough from the 2d air force headquarters at Colorado Springs, Colo., where he is a physical training instructor.

OAK PARK NINE TRIUMPHS, 6 TO 5; ENTERS FINALS

Oklahoma City, Okla., Aug. 21 (AP)—A ninth inning triple by Jim Schmidt put Oak Park, Ill., into the finals of the Southwest Sectional American Legion Junior baseball tournament tonight as the Illinois state champions upset the favored New Orleans Jesuit High school, 6 to 5.

Oak Park will play in the finals tomorrow night against the winner of a New Orleans-Bancroft, Ia., game.

EAST CHICAGO IDLE

Charleston, S. C., Aug. 21 (AP)—A first round game between East Chicago, Ind., and Meridian, Miss., in Southeastern sectional competition in the American Legion Junior baseball tournament was rained out here tonight. East Chicago will play Meridian at 4 p. m. and meet Shelby, N. C., winner over Meridan last night, at 8:30 p. m. tomorrow.

MATCHES RETAIN METROPOLITAN SOFTBALL TITLE

The Match Corporation of America team became a five time winner of the Chicago metropolitan softball championship last night when it defeated Roseland, 5 to 0, in the Amateur Softball association tournament in Parichy stadium. Earl Shelton pitched a one hit game for the Matches and struck out 11.

The Matches now will represent Chicago in the Amateur Softball association regional tournament in Indianapolis, Ind., over the Labor day week-end.

CUBS' LEAD CUT TO 5½ GAMES BY 4 TO 3 SETBACK

BY EDWARD BURNS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

New York, Aug. 21—The Giants rose up with two runs after two were out in the seventh to tie the score at 2 to 2, the Cubs went ahead, 3 to 2, in the eighth—then the Giants made two in the ninth to win, 4 to 3, as the Cubs concluded their 1945 business in the east. Claude Passeau, who has beaten every team in the National league except the Giants, went all the way for the losers.

The Cubs will arrive home late tomorrow exactly as they left Chicago on the night of Aug. 2—five and one-half games ahead of the second place Cardinals, their foes in Wrigley field next Friday, Saturday, and Sunday. They won 15 and lost seven on their five city trip.

Schemer Is the Head Man

Here is how today's game was lost in the ninth: Mike Schemer, recent first base importation from Jersey City, whose third straight hit had touched off the Giants' tying process in the seventh inning, opened the ninth with his fourth straight safe one, a triple to right center. Buddy Kerr banged a single off the glove of Don Johnson, Schemer scoring the tying run.

Bill Jurges bunted safely past Passeau and Heinz Becker, Kerr stopping at second. Bill Mallory batted for Ace Adams, second Giant pitcher, and sacrificed. Johnny Rucker was given an intentional pass, loading the bases. George Hausmann put on the squeeze play, scoring Kerr with the winning run.

The Cubs didn't score the first run of the game until the fourth inning, which got under way on Johnson's single. Don was forced by Harry Lowery who took second on a wild pitch then stole third. Becker walked and, while he was being forced by Pafko, Lowrey scored.

Hack Comes Thru

Paul Gillespie opened the fifth with a double to center and stole third, the third Cub base theft of the game. Gillespie held third while Len Merullo, and Passeau supplied easy outs but scored on Hack's double to left. This was Hack's 1,998th hit as a big leaguer.

Here's the way the Giants tied the score with two out in the seventh. Schemer opened with his

YANKEES BEAT LEE, 3 TO 0, AND HUMPHRIES, 6-2

Ruffing Yields Five Hits in 1st Game

BY IRVING VAUGHAN

The sometimes gay White Sox discovered yesterday that 31 months in the army for even so aged a gentleman as Charles [Red] Ruffing worked no hardship on the arm that was earning its way as far back as the Babe Ruth era. And the Sox, curious fellows that they are, also found out they could not do much in the way of hitting against Allen Gettel, the upshot of everything being a double trimming at the hands of the Yankees before 9,612 Comiskey park patrons. The scores were 3 to 0 and 6 to 2.

Ruffing took proper care of the initial game to assure his fourth success since giving up army chow and the pace he set for his 40 year old self was so strenuous that he didn't yield a hit during the first five innings, his opponent, Thornton Lee, in the meantime working out of various squeezes and thus slowly but surely working toward the point of ambush. It came in the seventh, the Yanks clubbing him with four hits for all their runs.

Yanks Take Suspense from Game

There wasn't much in the way of entertainment for Sox constituents in the second game, the Yanks putting a damper on the show by stepping out with a three run splurge at the expense of Johnny Humphries as early as the second inning. With the Sox so docile that they could notch only five hits against Gettel, this batch of runs would have been sufficient but by way of being prepared for an emergency the New Yorkers landed on Johnny for two more in the seventh and in the ninth Charley Keller blew a drive into the seats, his first since his return from the merchant marine.

Grimes Makes Third Hit

The decisive seventh of the first game started with Oscar Grimes singling for his third hit and being forced a moment later on Frank Crossetti's tap to Kerby Farrell. Mike Garbark looped a single into short right, Crossetti galloping to third and scoring when Ruffing did himself a good turn by singling. George Stirnweiss was disposed of on a fly to Wally Moses, but out of respect for the homer he notched the night before, Arthur Metheny was passed, loading the bases. Herschel Martin followed with a single on which Garbark and Ruffing legged it for home.

Altho the Yanks produced only two hits in the three run second inning of the second game the session was hilarious enough to let nine of them bat. Aaron Robinson

A'S, TIGERS SPLIT AS DETROIT HITS MILLION MARK

League Leaders Lose 1st, 7-6; Then Win, 7-6

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 21 (AP)—With Louis [Buck] Newsom starting both games for Philadelphia, the Athletics divided a double header with the Detroit Tigers today, winning the first game, 7 to 6 in 11 innings and losing the second by the same score as Detroit scored two runs in a rain storm in the ninth inning. Newsom failed to finish either game, but was charged with the defeat in the second.

An attendance of 21,303 today boosted the Tigers' home attendance for the season to 1,020,492 for 65 games. Eleven more home games remain on the schedule. The existing Briggs stadium record of 1,112,693 was set in 1940.

third straight single and stopped at second on Kerr's single to left. Jurges batted for Nap Reyes and bunted a foul pop-up to Hack. The runners advanced on a wild pitch, then Leon Treadway, batting for Jack Brewer, struck out. Rucker lined Passeau's first pitch for a single to right center, scoring Schemer and Kerr.

The Cubs resumed the lead thuswise in the eighth. Lowrey singled to right against Adams with one out and went to second when Mel Ott lobbed the ball past Schemer in returning it to the infield. Becker then lined a single to left, scoring Lowrey.

MILLER, MOONEY AND SIX ROOKIES SIGN WITH BEARS

The Chicago Bears have signed Charles [Ookie] Miller, center who is an old campaigner; Tipp Mooney, half back from Texas Christian who is a comparatively new star, and six new aspirants, Ralph D. Brizzolara, acting president of the club, said last night.

New players are Forrest Masterson of Iowa, and John McBride of Iowa State, tackles; Arthur Moynihan, Chicago, half back; Jim Grantham, Alabama, end, and Pete Perez, Illinois, and Bill Mayther, Oregon, guards.

PRICE QUESTION TERMED BAR TO CIVILIAN ITEMS

Manufacturers Ask Simpler Rules

Altho the war production board's ending of 210 controls over industry is helpful and welcome, leading Chicago manufacturers said yesterday that the office of price administration's price controls will prevent mass civilian production until they are eased or removed.

"While the WPB's action is all to the good in stimulating and encouraging industry, nevertheless many companies will be unable to produce because of the OPA's price policies," said James L. Donnelly, executive vice president of the Illinois Manufacturers association.

[An Associated Press dispatch last night said the Ford Motor company assembly plant in Louisville, Ky., had assembled its first post-war automobile, but that plant officials said cars would go into storage until OPA establishes price ceilings.]

Pricing Formulae Complicated

Donnelly said OPA's method for establishing prices is extremely involved. The manufacturer has two alternatives: [1] To use his 1942 prices as a basis for his current prices; [2] to use his 1941 costs and add certain allowable amounts designed to take into account increased labor and other costs. After establishing his adjusted cost the manufacturer adds a profit factor equal to one-half the 1936-'39 average industry profit margin over cost.

Donnelly explained that until price computation basis is made more understandable and workable it will act as a brake on production.

"The WPB action will mean little until price restrictions are lifted," one manufacturer said. "We can make a variety of products, but we cannot deliver them to the consumers until we know the price we must ask for them. Obviously we cannot sell our products at a loss and stay in business."

Can Make Radios, but Not Sell

Ross D. Siragusa, president of Admiral corporation, manufacturer of radios and refrigerators, said that the WPB's latest action is helpful in that "we can now manufacture radios officially."

"However, under the present circumstances we will have to put them aside," he continued. "We cannot sell them until we get necessary OPA action."

Siragusa said that pricing will be difficult because of the many parts of a radio set made by suppliers who must first establish their prices to the manufacturer. He said the pricing situation was not quite so bad for refrigerators because of the large use of steel and other basic materials concerning which the price situation is clearer.

The Chicago manufacturers said price uncertainty involves almost the entire range of consumer products, including automobiles, household items, musical instruments, and hundreds of others.

End Contracts of Six Billions with 58 Firms

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 21 (AP)—Fifty-eight corporations with securities listed on stock exchanges have reported $6,837,609,461 in war contract cancellations since Aug. 14 with $5,130,049,572 of these representing terminations received by 12 aircraft manufacturers, the securities and exchange commission said today.

Curtiss-Wright corporation reported 1 billion 218 million dollars in contract terminations, 616 millions for itself and 602 millions for Wright Aeronautical corporation, Paterson, N. J., a subsidiary.

Smaller Total in Early Report

Earlier Wright reported cancellations totaling 452 million dollars. Whether these two cancellations represent duplication or separate contracts was not made clear, said Ralph Krapp of the SEC market and industry analysis section.

Boeing Airplane company, Seattle, Wash., reported 930 million dollars in contract terminations and United Aircraft corporation of Hartford, Conn., 833 millions.

United Aircraft said "termination notices have been received with respect to the vast majority of contracts with the United States government" and that 99 per cent of its $841,975,174 in unfilled contracts was with the government.

Dollar Amounts Not Given

Three other corporations reported cancellations but did not give dollar amounts. They were General Railway Signal company, Rochester, N. Y., whose terminations amounted to the unfilled 39 per cent of its contracts; Sentry Safety Control corporation, Philadelphia, and Bath [Me.] Iron Works corporation, which said work had been canceled on four destroyers.

The information on terminations was provided the SEC under a rule adopted July 23 which required that listed corporations notify the commission within 24 hours after the receipt of a war contract termination if the dollar value of the business covered by the terminated portion amounts to 20 per cent of the total sales in the preceding fiscal year.

BOOST IN NEWSPRINT GOAL OF PUBLISHER, PRODUCER MEETING

New York, Aug. 21 (AP)—A determined effort to increase the low supply of newsprint thru direct dealings between newspaper publishers and experts, and the producers was opened today at a two day session.

A seven man "task force" representing the newspaper industry advisory committee met in the Waldorf-Astoria hotel with representatives of four big paper companies in a continuing conference. The announced goal was to develop ways and means of bringing newsprint production back to its 1941 level as quickly as possible.

Robert Choate, publisher of the Boston Herald and Traveler and chairman of the group, asserted the paper supply situation remained "serious." He said too many publishers failed to realize that the war's end did not solve a continuing problem.

The consultations with producers were held privately and Choate said the first report of his group must be made to the newspaper industry advisory committee, which will meet on the same problem with WPB officials in Washington Sept. 11 and 12.

The "task" group was faced with reports, however, that few if any increases in newsprint supplies would be available soon. Some increases in Canadian production were expected in the last quarter of 1945 and the first quarter of 1946. Full Canadian production was not predicted before the middle of next year.

GRAINS UNEVEN AFTER DECLINING EARLY TO LOWS

May and July wheat, corn, oats, and rye sold at new seasonal low prices yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade with rye down about 3 cents a bushel at one time. Short covering, however, combined with buying of futures to remove hedges against sales of hard winter wheat to the government and for shipment to Mexico, caused a strong rally. Wheat closed ¼ cent higher to ¼ lower, corn ⅛ to ⅛ higher, oats ⅝ to ⅞ higher, rye ⅛ to 1⅛ lower, and barley off 1¾ to 2¼.

Announcement that lend-lease shipments had been discontinued was a bearish influence as it indicated an end to gifts of grain and other commodities to European countries. However, the Commodity Credit corporation continued to pay $1.58 for No. 1 hard winter wheat in storage at Kansas City. More than 25 million bushels of wheat were reported destined for China.

CATTLE SUPPLY CLIMBS TO 7,000; MARKET STEADY

Cattle receipts at the Chicago stock yards yesterday totaled 7,000 head, the biggest Tuesday supply since July 10. Volume for the two days this week was 26,000, the largest total since June. Prices were steady.

A heavier movement of sheep and lambs from the western ranges increased receipts to 7,000 head, the biggest total for a Tuesday since mid-May. Prices were weak to 25 cents lower, with best slaughter stock at $14.25.

Hog receipts increased to 10,500, including direct shipments to packers, a gain of 6 per cent above a week earlier. However, prices remained at ceiling levels.

ROADS NOTIFIED PULLMAN WILL CANCEL SERVICE

Pullman company yesterday announced that it had notified railroads it would cancel sleeping car service contracts as of Dec. 31 in accordance with the federal court order that the parent company, Pullman, Inc., dispose of either the capital stock or physical assets of the sleeping car business by March 22, 1946.

The court order resulted from government anti-trust litigation in which Pullman, Inc., and its car building and sleeping car operating subsidiaries were held to be a monopoly.

Texas & Pacific Railroad Profits Increase in July

HALLICRAFTERS READY TO MAKE RADIO RECEIVERS

The Echophone division of the Hallicrafters company is ready to begin a full scale peace time program directed toward the home radio receiver market, Lester L. Kelsey, vice president, said yesterday. Five or six table model radios and radio-phonographs will be marketed first. A line of console combination models, with AM, FM, and short wave reception, is planned later.

The John Meck Industries of Plymouth, Ind., which terminated all war contracts in the last 10 days, began production of radios yesterday. The company expects to reach production of 2,000 sets a day shortly, and make first shipments before the middle of September, said John S. Meck, president.

QUICK CHICAGO SURPLUS PLANT SALE FORECAST

Interest in 21 RFC Factories Strong

BY AL CHASE

Chicago's 21 government owned war plants, containing more than 16 million square feet of floor space, will be readily disposed of when declared surplus by the army and placed on sale, officials of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, their owner, said yesterday. One government executive said several times the total of plants listed could be sold, so wide was the interest of industrialists in the Chicago manufacturing market.

Chicago's industrial position since the war ended is considered the strongest of any big American city. The steady and increasing demand for industrial space despite cancellations of war orders indicates almost 100 per cent occupancy of factory space after reconversion, it was said.

The fact the government owned plants are of the most modern design and construction and are in a metropolitan area which has one of the world's largest pools of skilled labor, power, and other manufacturing facilities assures their quick disposal, it was explained.

Inspected by Eastern Men

As evidence of the active interest in even the biggest of Chicago's large plants, it was learned that eight eastern industrialists flew to this city last week and spent a day looking over the vast Dodge-Chicago plant. It contains 5,146,731 square feet of floor space.

Their inspection trip came after announcement by the Chrysler corporation, lessee of the plant, that it would not exercise its option to purchase the property. That stirred interest in other big companies in the plant's possibilities.

Henry Kaiser has been mentioned as a prospective buyer or lessee of the Dodge plant for the manufacture of a small automobile which he has announced he will put on the market.

Reynolds Metals company has offered to lease the big McCook plant operated by Aluminum Company of America, along with other government owned aluminum plants in the northwest, middle west, and south, with a view to ultimate acquisition. Reynolds offered to operate the plants in the lease period at half the rate the Aluminum company is paid by the government.

Forty Buildings Included

It is Chicago's second largest government owned plant, with a floor space of 2,421,714 square feet. Built for the production of sheet aluminum, it occupies a tract of 287 acres and comprises 40 buildings.

The fate of the Buick plant in Melrose Park is uncertain, altho it is reported General Motors will not buy it.

M. O. Hoel, acting manager of the Chicago Loan agency of RFC, said inquiries have been received and interest shown in all of the RFC plants in Chicago despite the fact all have not been declared surplus by the army. The Studebaker plant on Archer av is the only RFC owned war factory to be declared surplus. Active interest has been shown in its purchase.

Present lessees of several plants are expected to exercise their options to buy or lease them. This may be done by the Bell & Howell company in the case of the Lincolnwood plant, it was said.

Bowser Buys Canadian Lock Manufacturing Firm

Bowser, Inc., of Argo, has purchased the Peterborough Lock Manufacturing company, Ltd., Canada, which will be operated as a wholly owned subsidiary, R. Hosken Damon, Bowser president, said yesterday.

Army to Return American Plants in Berlin to Owners

BERLIN, Aug. 21 (AP)—The United States military government has taken over custody of Berlin properties owned by 24 American controled businesses which had pre-war capitalization of hundreds of millions of dollars, it was announced today. The properties, some extensively damaged, will be returned to their owners, officers said.

Capt. Arthur D. Reed of Nashville, Tenn., property control officer for United States district headquarters, said that in addition to industrial holdings, 200 apartment buildings and dwellings largely owned by Americans have been taken over.

Nazi Properties Seized

Hundreds of German government and Nazi party owned properties have been seized, officials disclosed. These and the American controled ones are located in the United States occupation zone.

American controled business properties, and the firms [in brackets] which held interests in them, include:

C. Lorenz, Mix and Genest, Ferdinand Schuchart [International Telephone and Telegraph company], Nationale Radiator [American Radiator company], Metallizator-Berlin [American Metals company], Ford-Werke [Ford Motor company], F. W. Woolworth, George von Giesches Erben [Anaconda Copper company].

National Krupp Registrier Kassen [National Cash Register]. Adam Opel [General Motors corporation].

Rails' Shares Lead Stocks in Selective Rise

New York, Aug. 21 (AP)—Rails today led the stock market in a selective recovery in which motors, aircrafts, steels, and assorted industrials participated.

Advances appeared at the start, but selling developed before noon on a little larger volume. Offerings then dried up and the carriers revived with moderate activity. Declines were plentiful at the close, but were outnumbered by gains of fractions to two or more points. Transfers totalled 1,116,000 shares, compared with 1,320,000 yesterday.

Belief that the recent setback had at least partly discounted reconversion problems of corporations inspired the reinstatement of some commitments. Removal of many government output restrictions was encouraging.

CHICAGO LIST LOWER

Prices declined again on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday on turnover of 29,000 shares. Oklahoma Gas, closing at 131, up 1½, and Mickleberry Foods, closing at 12½, up ½, reached new highs. Among volume leaders were Commonwealth Edison and Kimberly-Clark, each down ¼, and Chicago corporation, Berghoff Brewing, and Asbestos Manufacturing, all unchanged.

BONDS PRICES UNEVEN

Secondary rails, affected most in yesterday's decline, monopolized interest.

R. A. Richman, Goldblatt Brothers advertising manager, on Sept. 1 will take up the duties of sales promotion manager as well as his present responsibilities, Joel Goldblatt, president, said yesterday. Richman will succeed William Futterman, sales promotion manager and vice president, whose recently announced resignation will go into effect on that date.

R. A. Richman

The appointment of Anthony J. Perez as special Brunswick-Balke-Collender company field representative in Latin America was announced by Simpson E. Meyers, vice president in charge of overseas operations. Perez, before serving three years in the army as a major, was field representative for Nash-Kelvinator corporation in Latin America.

Harvey C. Marmaduke has been promoted from manager of the Illinois Central railroad's employes' suggestion system to representative of the road's executive department, Wayne A. Johnston, president, disclosed.

H. E. Atwood, president of the First National bank, Minneapolis, has been elected a director of the Soo line, succeeding the late Lyman E. Wakefield.

EASTERN UTILITY FILES FINANCING OF 120 MILLIONS

Pennsylvania Power and Light company yesterday registered with the securities and exchange commission 93 million dollars of first mortgage bonds and 27 million dollars of sinking fund debentures, both to be offered under competitive bidding. Proceeds and other funds will be used to redeem $125,100,000 of securities.

Floyd D. Cerf company and associated underwriters today will offer the unsubscribed portion of a new issue of 50,000 shares of Nu-Enamel corporation 60 cent cumulative preferred stock at $10 a share.

Halsey, Stuart & Co. will offer $1,440,000 of Chicago and Eastern Illinois Railroad company series D equipment trust certificates at prices to yield .90 per cent to 2.30 per cent. Proceeds are to provide not more than 75 per cent of the last of three 2,000 h. p. diesel locomotives, and 500 steel coal cars of 50 tons each.

PROPOSE C. & O. MERGER WITH 3 SUBSIDIARIES

Directors Plan New Issue of Stock

Cleveland, O., Aug. 21 (AP)—Directors of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway company today voted to submit a proposal to the boards of the Nickel Plate road, the Pere Marquette railway, and the Wheeling & Lake Erie railway for merger of the four roads thru exchange of stock.

Carl E. Newton, C. & O. president, said the merger would represent a net investment in transportation property of 900 million dollars. The consolidation would be subject to approval by directors of the respective roads, interstate commerce commission, stockholders of the carriers, and J. Crawford Biggs, trustee of the W. & L. E. since 1929.

Plans New Preferred Stock

Newton said the plan was to create a new issue of C. & O. preferred stock of $100 par value. Proposed bases for exchange would be:

For each share of Nickel Plate preferred, the C. & O. would offer one share of its new preferred plus 7/10 share of its common stock, and for each Nickel Plate common share it would give 9/10 share of C. & O. common.

In exchange for one share of Pere Marquette prior preferred stock, C. & O. would offer one share of its new preferred and ½ share of C. & O. common. Each Pere Marquette preferred share would be exchanged for 8/10 share of C. & O. preferred and 4/10 share of common. For each share of Pere Marquette common, it offers 5/10 share of C. & O. common.

For each share of Wheeling & Lake Erie preferred, C. & O. would offer one share of its newly issued preferred, and for Wheeling common, 1⅛ shares of C. & O. common.

Newton said there was no immediate plan for disposition of Wheeling prior lien stock, of which C. & O. owns a majority.

Roads' Traffic Varied

Robert W. Purcell, general counsel for the C. & O. and the Nickel Plate, said the merger would take six months to one year to complete. It would consolidate the C. & O., largest coal-carrying road in the country, the Pere Marquette and Nickel Plate, with their diversified traffic of farming, automotive and industrial loads, and the Wheeling & Lake Erie, whose main traffic is between Cleveland, and Toledo.

National Tea Four Weeks' Sales Exceed Year Ago

Sales of National Tea company for the four weeks ended Aug. 11 were $8,225,773, compared with $7,845,012 for the corresponding period last year, an increase of 4.89 per cent, the company reported yesterday. For this year to Aug. 11 sales were $60,139,021, compared with $61,006,794, a decrease of 1.43 per cent. The number of stores in operation decreased from 848 a year ago to 800 as of Aug. 11.

V. F. W. OFFICIAL FOR 10 YEAR BAN ON IMMIGRATION

Must Protect Veterans, House Group Told

Arguments in favor of cutting off immigration to the United States until every returning war veteran is assured of a job were presented yesterday to a subcommittee of the house committee on immigration and naturalization, which is holding hearings in the new postoffice building.

James Luke, adjutant of the Illinois department of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, said his organization wants immigration stopped for 10 years.

Careful Screening Favored

Under questioning by Rep. Dickstein [D., N. Y.], chairman of the subcommittee; Rep. Mason [R., Ill.], and Rep. Dolliver [R., Ia.], Luke conceded that the present quota limitation of a maximum of 150,000 immigrants yearly might be absorbed safely into the American economic stream.

Similar views were expressed by Mrs. Dan Pagenta and Mrs. T. R. Hemmens, representing the Daughters of the American Revolution. They also told the committee they favored careful screening of applicants for admission to the United States to keep out Nazis, Fascists, and Communists.

Mrs. Hemmens, state vice regent of the D. A. R., said her organization favored banning immigration for five years after the war. Asked about the alien brides of American soldiers and sailors, who now are admitted as non-quota immigrants, Mrs. Hemmens said she favored excluding them if an investigation shows them to have ideas incompatible with the American system of government.

Deportation Policy Urged

Mrs. Pagenta, who was a truant officer for the Chicago board of education for 15 years, said her experience with aliens made her believe they should be deported if they make no effort to become citizens within 10 years.

Miss Frances E. Schmidt, 1511 Hyde Park blvd., speaking for herself, said: "We feel sorry for people who want to bring their relatives here from Europe, but we must not be sentimental."

Liberal immigration policies were urged by Miss Helen Jerry of the Immigrants Protective league of Chicago and Miss Elizabeth Campbell, executive secretary of the International institute, Milwaukee, Wis., an agency which assists foreign born persons.

7,100 Steel Workers Heed WLB and Call Off Strike

A strike of 7,100 members of the United Steel Workers' union [CIO], which started Aug. 10 in a dispute over contract negotiations with the American Steel Foundries company, was settled yesterday when the strikers returned to work after a war labor board order to do so. Company plants reopened in East Chicago and Hammond, Ind.; East St. Louis, Granite City, and Galesburg, Ill.; Alliance, O.; Verona, Pa., and Newark, N. J.

MOTORING BOOM BRINGS BONANZA TO CAR PARKERS

Post-gasoline rationing business already has started to pick up for the Monroe st. parking station in Grant park and for the garages serving downtown hotels. For the outdoor parking lots the expected boom has been slower in arriving. Men in the automobile parking business are united, however, in predicting an overcrowding of facilities in the next year.

Hundreds are paying 25 cents each and leaving their cars in the Grant park station, for which Le Roy Woodland, director of park district finance and property, predicted a resumption of the $250,000 a year gross business experienced in 1941.

May Use Burnham Park Area

Just before the war the park district was ready to convert open acreage in Burnham park, around Soldiers' field, to parking lots, and a bus company was ready to charge 5 cent fares on a circuit thru the loop. Woodland said those plans would be revived quickly.

Out of state automobiles are stopping overnight in hotel garages, and expanded facilities soon will be necessary, said David X. Meyers, president of the Hotel Sherman Garage corporation.

Terminals for Super-Highways

R. G. Lydy, whose company operates 25 parking lots in the central business district, said that since V-J day total business has increased only 200 cars a day and that the peak rush won't arrive for some months. Whether private lots can be expanded as new automobiles are manufactured depends upon whether present space is taken up by a building boom, Lydy said.

"Terminal facilities must be provided as super-highways are built, and if people from out of town are going to drive here, we must solve the problem of where they are to park," said Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club.

BOY ON BEACH HIT WITH STONE

KANE TO REMAIN IN HOMEWOOD COURT: MULCAHY

Police Magistrate William Kane of Harvey will continue to sit in the justice of the peace court in the Homewood county highway police station, despite a ruling of Atty. Gen. Barrett that such action is illegal, Sheriff Mulcahy declared yesterday.

"I don't know who asked the attorney general for an opinion," the sheriff said. "I know I didn't. Before I appointed Kane I checked on the legality of the appointment and received what I consider a competent opinion that I was entirely within the law. The appointment stands."

Barrett's ruling requires that one of the five Republicans elected justices of the peace in Thornton township last April 3 be named by Mulcahy. The sheriff appointed Kane, a Democrat, after the April election swept out of office all Democratic justices of the peace in the township.

ARMY AWAITING ORDER TO LEAVE WARD'S PLANTS

Orders for the evacuation of army personnel from control of Montgomery Ward & company properties in Chicago and six other cities are being awaited by the 150 officers, enlisted men, and civilians operating the company's mail order houses, stores, and warehouses, it was learned yesterday.

Army spokesmen said no instructions had yet been received from Washington to prepare for the demobilization. But under the war labor disputes act, six months after the war's end is set as the latest date that such control may be continued.

Ward's facilities were seized by the army under executive order last Dec. 28 after the company had allegedly refused to obey directives of the war labor board.
